BANK WRECKING IN GEORGIA LAID TO SPECULATION

Bucket Shops Got Large Sums of Bankers' Trust Co. Funds, Solicitor-General Boykin Says.

BLAMES "CERTAIN PERSONS IN ATLANTA"

His Force Working to Bring Guilty to Justice He Says in Statement — Another Bank Fails.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 21.—"The records of every bank in the Bankers' Trust Co. chain that has come to my attention indicate that bank funds involving large amounts have been squandered by certain individuals in Atlanta in bucket shop speculation," Solicitor-General John A. Boykin said here today in a signed statement commenting on the investigation by his department into the affairs of the Bankers' Trust Co.

Boykin began investigating several days ago of the Bankers' Trust Co., the bankruptcy of which last week caused a suspension of activities by 85 banks in Georgia and several in Florida, most of them mmebers of a chain of 120 banks for which the Bankers' Trust Co. served as fiscal agent.

He declare dthat his force was devoting its full time to the case and that he would leave "no stone unturned in bringing the guilty to justice."

The Bank of Menlo, a small State bank, for which the trust company was fiscal agent, closed its doors this morning. This was the first closing since last Friday.

J. H. Smith, a director of the Bankers' Trust, killed himself with a shotgun at his home July 16. He was president of the Atlanta Real Estate Board. His suicide followed the appointment of receivers for the Bankers' Trust Co. by the Federal Court hede on application of the Bank of Umatilla, Fla.

Bar at Lakeland, Fla., Closed.

LAKELAND, Fla., July 21.—The Polk County Trust Co. failed to open its doors here today. A statement was issued saying the concern is solvent and that no depositor or creditor will lose money, but that persistent withdrawals in the last 40 days made the closing imperative. The bank is capitalized at $300,000 and a statement July 9 showed total deposits as $2,166,923.40. A. H. Devane is president.

She was revived after she was taken to the beach. Stanfield described the experience as the most harrowing in his life.

One Large Hall, Another Smaller Probable for New Auditorium

Both to Use Same Stage and Be Thrown Together for Large Meetings, Ideas Gained by City Officials on Tour.

President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service, Director of Streets and Sewers Brooks and Louis La Beaume and Jesse M. Watson, architects belonging to the Memorial Plaza Commission, of which Kinsey is an ex-officio member, returned today from a tour of Western and Northern cities on which they inspected municipal auditoriums, seeking ideas for the $5,000,000 structure St. Louis will erect facing Memorial Plaza.

One likelihood as a result of the junket is that the St. Louis auditorium will have one large hall seating 17,500 persons and one smaller one, in theater style, seating 3500, both using the same great stage, on opposite sides. They could both be utilized for large gatherings by opening the stage, and a sound-proof curtain is planned to make their separation possible.

In general, the study of details and discussions with auditorium officials had on the tour served to confirm the preconceived ideas of the St. Louis officials, but in some ways the plans will be modified. The Memorial Plaza Commission, which recently started construction of the $4,000,000 Civil Courthouse opposite the plaza site, is making preliminary plans for the auditorium.

Auditoriums were inspected at Salt Lake City (Mormon Temple) Oakland, Cal.; San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Milwaukee. Director Brooks, who preceded the others to study traffic handling at Los Angeles, also inspected the auditorium there. His observation of traffic conditions in the various cities convinced him that St. Louis is solving its problem well, particularly in its use of automatic signals.

MARY PICKFORD GIVEN OVATION IN MOSCOW

She and Husband Accorded Greatest Reception of Any Aliens Since Revolution.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, July 21.—Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford, reaching Moscow from Warsaw, received the greatest ovation accorded any foreign visitors since the revolution. Despite all preparations, the militia and military cordons yesterday faced a difficult task in forcing a narrow wedge for the passage of the screen stars through the dense masses crowding Alexendravska station and the entire length of the Tverskaia down to their hotel.

Fairbanks' first attempt, on descending from the train to reach an automobile bearing Mary on his shoulders, was frustrated by the pressure of the crowds which thrust them back on the train. They finally escaped through a side exit.

Half way from the frontier their journey had assumed a triumphal aspect, special delegations representing artistic Russia waiting at various points to greet the visitors. Peasants in native garb assembled along the route and presented flowers and fruits to the two stars, who marveled at this expression of Russian emotionalism. For hours after their arrival their hotel was besieged by clamorous crowds and Mary and Douglas appeared at the windows repeatedly and waved their hands.

BLOCTON, Ala., July 21.—Nine men were killed in a gas explosion at the Dixie mine of the Moffatt Coal Co. at Moffatt today. The dead include three white miners and six Negro workers. Seven of the bodies were removed soon after the explosion.

Representatives of the United States Bureau of Mines and State mining officials stationed here hurried to the mine. The men were working a short night shift and every man in the mine at the time of the accident was killed. It was believed by officials that the explosion of a "gas pocket" which occurred at daylight was responsible for the blast.

TWO DEATHS IN CITY LAID TO HEAT WAVE

New Record for Water Consumption Set—158,600,000 Gallons in 24 Hours

Two deaths yesterday were attributed to the heat, which for three days has been oppressive.

Ernest Evertz, 54 years old, of 315 Dover place, a member of the Evertz-Etz Paper Co., fell dead of heat exhaustion on Arkansas avenue near Connecticut street at 4:30 p. m.

Residents of the Rice Hotel at 306 Market street found the body of Carl Johnson, 70, in a room he had occupied since Sunday.

A new record of water consumption was set in St. Louis yesterday, 158,600,000 gallons being used in the 24 hours from midnight to midnight. The previous record was about 157,000,000 gallons.

A surplus is filtered at Chain of Rocks. A new record also was set for the total filtered, 168,000,000 gallons. The consumption per capita was about 195 gallons.

There are still complaints of inadequate water supply in about eight city blocks on the high ground in the vicinity of the city sanitarium. The 2700 block of Dalton avenue has been without water in daytime for two days.

WOMAN, 87, SWIMS FOR HOUR

Mme. Desprez Wins Endurance Contest at Tourcoing.

PARIS, July 21.—Mme. Cuvelier Desprez, 87 years old, at Tourcoing yesterday won an endurance test for women swimmers by swimming for an hour. She showed no signs of fatigue at the finish.

Mme. Desprez explained to the astonished crowd that she began swimming 83 years ago. Two generations ago she was a champion swimmer of Paris. Her feats of those days had long since been forgotten, and for 20 years she had given up swimming entirely, but until yesterday she succumbed to the temptation and entered the contest. Her father was a swimming teacher, who married a swimmer. Her mother received 30 medals for saving lives in the Seine. Asked if she intended to continue swimming, Mme. Desprez said "Perhaps, if we have another hot day like this next summer."

DECLARES SUN IS FEVERISH

Argentine Meteorologist Blames Irruptions for Floods and Quakes.

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, July 21.—The sun is suffering an attack of irruptive fever, in the opinion of Martin Gil, Argentine meteorologist. This has thrown the electromagnetism of the earth out of gear, and is responsible for the heat waves, floods and earthquakes experienced in the Northern Hemisphere.

"The sun is always feverish," he says, referring to the agitated state of magnetism, "but is now in the throes of a very severe attack. The sun spots show us that a most titanic solar agitation is taking place." Scientists agree that these disturbances recur about every 350 years, according to Senor Gil, and he calculates that the present one will continue until 1928.

SERVICES FRIDAY TO RIVAL LENINE'S

Leader Once Said He Would Would "Incinerate" Enemies—Ordered Execu-

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, July 21.—Felix E. Dzerzhinsky died at his home in the Kremlin, with his wife and son at the bedside, three hours after he had delivered an impassioned address at a plenary session of the Communist party's Executive Committee.

The news spread like wildfire through Moscow, creating a profound stir in official and Communist circles.

The city was gay and light-hearted early in the afternoon, when thousands poured out to greet Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford, making the change all the more marked when flags draped in crepe were hung from all official buildings, as the newsboys shouted the extras announcing the commissary's death.

Head of Political Police.

While continuously the nominal head of the G. P. U., or state political police, Dzerhinsky was regarded as one of Russia's biggest organizing minds, and tackled the tremendous problem of building up the country's ruined industries.

Working indefatigably in the Supreme Economic Council, he was simultaneously the leading spirit in many other fields of endeavor, fighting bureaucracy and championing the causes of efficiency and economy.

Admitting that he was a strict disciplinarian, officials today asserted that the stories of gross cruelty attributed to him as head of the G. P. U. were largely exaggerated. They declared he showed remarkable ability to maintain revolutionary rigor more by the power of his personality than by punitive measures.

Dzerzhinsky, who was 49 years old, long was one of the trusted lieutenants of Lenine, although personally of a dreamy temperament and mild manner, he was inflexible in his pursuit of those whom he considered enemies of the soviet republic.

Would "Incinerate."

As he once expressed it, he considered it his duty as head of the Cheka "neither to judge nor pardon, but to incinerate everyone who is on the other side of the barricade." "In this desperate struggle of two worlds, there is no third way," he was once quoted as saying, "those who are not with us are against us."

Dzerzhinsky originally was a member of the social Democratic party of Poland, but entered the Russian party, together with the Polish Social Democratic group in 1906. During his life he spent 11 years in prison because of his revolutionary activities, including three years of penal servitude. He was exiled three times, escaping each time.

At the time of the Russian revolution in 1917, Dzerzhinsky was still serving a term of imprisonment, but was freed after a general amnesty had been declared. He went to Petrograd in August, 1917, and supported the Bolsheviki, being elected to the Central Executive Committee. He was a member of the War Revolutionary Committee with whom all power rested in the days of the October, 1917, coup d'etat.

Later he became known as one of the chief heads of the Government. In time he became chairman of the State Political Bureau, which corresponds to the Department of Justice in the United States, and chairman of the Supreme Council of National Economy.

Body Borne Through Streets.

Escorted by a guard of honor, consisting of high Government officials, red army officers and the State political police, the body of Dzerzhinsky was carried through the flag-draped streets of the capital from the Kremlin to the Trade Union's house, where it will lie in state until Friday.

The former head of the Cheka will be given a state funeral rivaling that of Lenine and his body will be interred in the revolutionary martyr's cemetery in front of the Kremlin and the grave of the American, John Reed.

SHOWERS BRING RELIEF TO MILLIONS FROM HEAT

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Close behind a heat wave to which in the last few days 42 deaths have been attributed, thunderclouds were traveling east and southward from the northwest today, bringing relief for swelting millions. The rains began falling yesterday. A new high temperature was reached at Hartington and North Loup, Neb., where the thermometer registered 108 degrees.

Leaving in its wake fatalities and blistered crops, the damage to which has not yet been accurately reckoned, the heat wave has been broken in the northern Great Plains region and is gradually disappearing over the upper Mississippi Valley. Warmer weather was forecast for the East, but with a prospect of scattered rains.

In Southern Illinois corn is threatened by drouth and in Southwestern Nebraska the corn is curling before the heavy onslaughts of hot wind. Pastures are so poor in nourishment cattle are being marketed prematurely.

Most of the interior States suffered yesterday. Three persons died in the northwest, and deaths in Chicago brought the total for two days here to 22.

Many lives have been lost at bathing beaches, whither families were driven in search of comfort. Seven drownings were recorded in New England, two in New Jersey and others throughout the country.

Capt. O. C. Dowling Testifies at Court of Inquiry From Invalid's Chair With Bandage Over Eye

TWO MEN WOUNDED PUTTING OUT FIRES

Third Private Saved Life of Commander, Blinded by Bolt of Lightning, by Leading Him to Safety.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Seated in an invalid's chair, his face bruised and a bandage covering one of his eyes, Capt. O. C. Dowling told the Naval Court of Inquiry a dramatic story of the origin of the disaster on July 10 that took a toll of 21 lives and caused damage estimated at nearly $90,000,000.

It was a tale of heroism, in which two men, both patients at the Naval Hospital at Brooklyn, worked with shells exploding all around them to put out fires and prevent further loss of life. Capt. Dowling told how his own life had been saved by Private Casimer Kensick of the Marines, whose home is in Hamtramck, near Detroit, Mich.

"I was sitting on the porch of my residence at the northern end of the reservation when the storm came," Capt. Dowling said. "It was not a very severe storm. I began to count the flashes of lightning, thinking I could tell how near they were. The flashes seemed to be nearly a mile away, well out of the reservation. I counted eight flashes, which included the last one.

Knocked Down in Road.

"A few minutes later the telephone rang. It was the sentry at the south gate. He was afterwards killed. He said a fire had started in one of the magazines. I hopped in my car and opened it up to about 50, heading for the south gate. I slowed down for a party of Marines, thinking to load some of them in the car.

"My car was stopped on the road. I could see a curl of heavy black smoke arising from either storehouse No. 1 or storehouse No. 8, I don't know which one. I had just stepped to the road. My hand was on the door of my car. There came a terrific flare. Both storehouses disappeared. I was knocked down on my face. I was dazed and blinded. I got up and groped along my car.

"Private Kensick took my arm and helped me along. I could see nothing. I was too dazed even to notice other explosions. He finally got me into the army arsenal grounds, which adjoin.

"I was so dazed I did not hear the following explosions, but I could feel their impulses, and we were knocked to the ground several times. My eyesight began to clear. I looked around. The whole exploded area was ablaze, a terrible fire that leaped hundreds of feet into the air. We went back to the navy arsenal and fought our way through to the power plant, where I tried to formulate a plan of action."

Water Pressure Fails.

"Being alone, I went down the inner section looking for fires. I saw about 30 blazing buildings, but none of these had explosives in it. I went back to search my residence. The family was not there. I returned to the fire area. I realized the hopelessness of me trying to do anything and I decided to abandon the area. I worked my way out and got to Dover Hospital, where I was treated."

At the power plant, Capt. Dowling found Chief Division Clerk Wadhams, whose wife was killed. Capt. Dowling instructed him to remain at the power plant and keep it going. At this point, Capt. Dowling said, he decided little could be done to save the other storehouses. Shells were bursting all around him and debris, hurtling from above, fell beside him wherever he went.

"I returned to my own quarters," he said. "Private Kensick was

Ervin Nicholas, 22, Victim of Accident at Mattese and Tyson Roads in St. Louis County.

Ervin Nicholas, 22 years old, a factory worker, of 4348 Norfolk avenue, was killed and three other persons were injured last night when a Ford roadster, in which they were riding, overturned at Mattese and Tyson roads, St. Louis County.

Those injured were: Joseph Gorman, 27, of 4123A Shaw avenue, fractured ribs and internal injuries; Miss Annie McGinnis, 20, of 1413A Tower Grove avenue, fractured ribs and internal injuries, and Miss Emma Lorts, 18, of 6429 Manchester avenue, cuts and bruises of the body.

The four went for an automobile ride in the county in Gorman's machine about 9 p. m. They became lost after driving for an hour and were attempting to find the Gravois road to return to the city when the accident occurred.

Gorman was driving in Tyson road and, on reaching Mattese road, another occupant of the machine called to him: "Here's the Gravois road." Gorman swerved sharply, causing the machine to overturn, pinioning all occupants beneath it. Two nearby farmers, attracted by their screams, extricated them. The injured were taken to St. Anthony's Hospital, where Nicholas died at 5 a. m., a fractured rib having penetrated his lung.

STOCKS BREAK SHARPLY IN WALL STREET ON RUMORS FROM FRANCE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.

STOCK prices broke sharply just before the close of today's market on selling, inspired by the publication of reports that the Bank of France may be forced to suspend payments tomorrow because the note circulation or advances to the State, or both, had reached their legal maximum. Scores of stocks broke two to eight points below their earlier high levels, and the French franc canceled approximately half of an opening gain of 20 points.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 21.—Unofficial figures late today indicated that the new Herriot Government was deefated by a vote of 307 to 295 on its ministerial declaration.

PARIS, July 21.—Anatole de Monzie, Finance Minister in the newly organized Herriot Cabinet, today threatened to override Parliament on one phase of the financial situation if Parliament failed to grant him necessary power. The threat was interpreted by many Deputies as the closest approach to a financial dictatorship in France since the present crisis began.

De Monzie's statement was in connection with a bill instructing the Bank of France to sell the $25,000,000 now remaining of the Morgan loan in the open market in order to keep the Treasury's payrolls open.

The refusal of the new Government, which made its first appearance before the Chamber of Deputies today, to make the vote on the bill a question of confidence insures the ministry's tenure of office in case of defeat on this point.

Chamber Greatly Shaken.

The Chamber was greatly shaken by the announcement that only 60,000,000 francs remained in the Treasury.

Indications were that the bill would pass and would not make necessary what many consider possible juggling with the Constitution by the new Finance Minister.

The Herriot Government, in its ministerial declaration set itself on record as opposed to inflation of French currency and in favor of payment of all debts.

There will be no foreign loans, the Government asserts; the country must save itself. Foreign currency held abroad by Frenchmen must be returned to France, a special account for that purpose to be opened by the Bank of France.

The strictest economy will be enforced, beginning with the state services. No reference is made in the declaration to a capital levy, but it mentions "a special tax on assets not in the service of the public credit."

The declaration is very short and concludes with a demand for immediate approval or rejection of the program.

Speech Heard in Silence.

Fight Over County Offices in Strong Democratic Counties Creates Situation to His Benefit.

STAND ON WORLD COURT IN HIS FAVOR

Indications in North Missouri That St. Louisan Will Lead Cockrell by Wide Margin.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEXICO, Mo., July 21.—Although Congressman Hawes will be benefited materially by Republican votes in the strong Democratic counties of North Missouri, it will not be through any effort of Hawes or his supporters to repeat the Reed tactics of 1922 and attempt to get him the nomination with Republican votes.

In this section of the State it is customary for many Republicans to vote in the Democratic primary and in a half dozen or so counties the Republicans who so vote will aggregate several thousand. Hawes will receive most of them because of his announced opposition to the World Court.

In Audrian, Marion, Callaway, Pike, Boone, Howard, Chariton and several other counties virtually no votes are cast in the Republican primary. All are so overwhelmingly Democratic that seldom are there Republican candidates for county offices, and it is the fight over county offices, not for United States senatorships, that brings out the big vote in the rural sections.

Senate a Long Way Off.

To most Missourians the United States Senate and Washington are a long way off. They never have any dealings with a Senator and cannot foresee any condition that would bring a Senator close to them. The county assessor, however, the collector, the Sheriff, the Prosecuting Attorney and the presiding Judge of the county court are officials with whom they have or may have business dealings at any time. They know one or more of the candidates intimately and they are genuinely interested in who gets the little local offices.

If the United States senatorship was the only office to which candidates aspired for the nomination, there would not be a handful of votes in any of these counties, but the boys and girls will troop in from the countryside to vote for Bill Smith or Jim Jones for collector.

Republicans, having no candidates of their own party to vote for, as a general rule do not vote in the primary, though in each county there are from 500 to 1000 Republicans who become interested in the Democratic contests and vote. This practice is not as prevalent as it was a few years ago, however, watchers for candidates having formed a habit of challenging Republicans. Still, there are many whose political leanings are in sufficient doubt to enable them to vote.

Hawes Likely to Benefit.

It was said in several of these counties that virtually all of the "alien" vote, which in fact will have no real interest in who is the Democratic nominee for Senator, will go to Hawes. A little probably will go to Judge Ewing Cockrell on the prohibition issue.

While all of these strong Democratic counties are "dry" or have so voted whenever the question has been submitted, all indications are that Hawes will sweep them. If there is any material Cockrell support it is not in evidence. It is to be presumed that close adherents of the Antisaloon League and of the W. C. T. U. will vote for Cockrell, but nowhere does one find the churches holding meetings for Cockrell as they are doing in Republican counties for Proctor.

Cockrell can expect some vote among the old-timers because he is the son of his father, who stood high among Missouri Democrats. Senator Francis Marion Cockrell is remembered particularly well through this section, and his son has some support because of that.

Folk Fight Remembered.

There also are some Democrats, probably considerable in number, who will not vote for Hawes under any circumstances, and they of course will go to Cockrell. A prejudice which possessed them more than 20 years ago, in the Folk days, continues until the present time. One hears of this when seeking information about the political situation, but it is far less in evidence than it might be expected to be.

Democrats in several of these counties who have close personal, business or political relations with Democrats in the farm neighborhoods report that they have been able to discover no place where Hawes could be considered weak. Almost without exception they said the indications were that Hawes would lead Cockrell by a very wide margin.

Audrain County, of which Mexico is the county seat, is much more interested in the race for the Democratic nomination for the Supreme judgeship than it is in the senatorial contest. Judge Ernest S. Gantt, one of the candidates, resides in Mexico, where he is the Judge of the Circuit Court.

Gantt Popular Judge.

He is a lawyer of high standing, who has been a very popular Judge, and he has the almost undivided support of all the Democrats up this way. He has been indorsed in referendums of the St. Louis Bar Association and the Missouri Bar Association, and has the support of lawyers quite generally over the State. His opponent is Col. Carl Ristine of Lexington, who has been indorsed by the Democratic political organizations of St. Louis and Kansas City, but who failed to get the approval of the lawyers' associations.

From the fact that none of the Democratic counties in this section have more than 600 or 700 votes in the Republican primary, virtually nothing is heard here of the Republican senatorial race. None of the Republican candidates has been through these counties and aside from window cards they have done little advertising.

PARIS, July 21.—Felix E. Dzerzhinsky, the Pole, who organized the Bolshevik terror organization, "the extraordinary commission against speculation, sabotage and counter-revolution," which became world-famous under the name of the Cheka, of the Russian secret police, is dead of heart disease in Russia.

With Trotzky, Dzerzhinsky was most responsible for the continued power of the soviets. His terror organization having long ago been an automatic system of repression, he took the same effective methods into civil government, first as Commissioner for Railroads and later as chief of the Commission of National Economy. His method in both domains was simple.

If it were proved that the trains did not run right, or in his later position, if factories did not produce what they should, he ordered the railroad division heads or factory managers shot on the principle that it was up to them to make their underlings effective. The method was cruel, but it worked. Dzerzhinsky remained aloof from soviet quarrels. He was a cold revolutionary machine, but gave the impression of a quiet though rather tense gentleman.

Dzerzshinsky was one of the most interesting characters developed by the Russian revolution and while he lived no counter-revolution had a chance. He smashed plot after plot during the first years of soviet rule.

BROKERAGE FIRM ORDERED TO STOP OPERATIONS HERE

State Securities Commissioner Stockard Objects to the Personnel of M. R. New & Co.

New faces must appear in the offices of M. R. New & Co., stock brokers, on the fifth floor of the Stock Exchange, 314 North Fourth street, or the firm cannot do business in Missouri.

State Securities Commissioner Stockard so decided late yesterday, when he ordered the company to suspend operations pending a hearing on a citation to show cause why its license to deal in securities in Missouri should not be revoked.

Stockard said his action was based on a showing that the company had begun operations in St. Louis last June before its salesmen were licensed by the "Blue Sky" department; that it was not a member of any stock exchange and had not proved it had any connections with an exchange member, and that at least one officer of M. R. New & Co. was not satisfactory to the department.

Officers of the company were named as Maurice R. Newberger, president; Morris Schneider, vice president, and Samuel H. Lefton, secretary-treasurer.

Stockard said Lefton was objected to because of his former connection with a brokerage firm in New York, four backers of which were indicted for "bucketing," or trading against customers' orders. Lefton was not named in the charges. Stockard also is informed that Lefton was a salesman for a Chicago firm whose offices were raided by the State's Attorney. Indictments for operating a confidence game were returned against the officers, according to Stockard, but Lefton was not an officer.

The company was incorporated June 4 with an authorized capital of $5000, with $3000 paid in cash and $2000 in equipment and furniture. Newberger holds 48 shares of stock and Lefton and Schneider one share each. Schneider is not active in the firm, as he is manager of a large jewelry store downtown.

Newberger, after whom the company is named, has been manager and owner of women's apparel stores in Denver, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit and Ashtabula, O.

U. S. Agents Investigate.

Postoffice inspectors and Dwight Holmes, financial manager of the St. Louis Better Business Bureau, were curious as to how the firm obtained listed stock without exchange connections and visited the large mahogany-furnished offices early this month.

Newberger told them he had no prior experience in the selling of stocks, this being a new venture for him. He referred technical inquiries to his sales manager, Charles Blowitz. The latter said the company sold nothing but listed stocks and that the company was not a member of any exchange, but made their purchases through W. C. Carr & Co., 24 Stone street, New York City.

Blowitz said he had been selling clothing in St. Louis for 25 years. Newberger said he knew Blowitz about two months before making him sales manager of the firm. Newberger said he had not investigated the records of his salesmen, as the presumed the "Blue Sky" department would do that. The salesmen solicited orders by telephone. Newberger was the only witness for the company at the hearing yesterday before Commissioner Stockard.

TELLS OF MARINES' HEROISM AT BLAST IN NAVY ARSENAL

badly shocked, but he stuck by me. Wadhams came to tell me nothing could be done, as the steam lines had burst. I sent Kensick to round up some more marines, but I suppose he couldn't find any.

"Fire then broke out in a shed near my residence. Wadhams and I put it out. I hadn't been able to find any of my family, but I supposed they would be safe. The water in the fire hose got weaker and weaker. There seemed no use trying to use the hose. I sent Wadhams to phone the third naval district for assistance and medical supplies."

Capt. Dowling told the court that he considered the location of the Lake Denmark arsenal suitable in all ways. He recommended, however, for future safety, in case it is rebuilt, that its acreage be enlarged to permit segregation of different kinds of explosives, increase of distance between the magazines and that the total quantity of explosives stored be reduced to one-fourth the amount in the magazines when the explosion occurred.

$350,000 Fire at Conway, Ark.

CONWAY, Ark., July 21.—Fire at the Conway Compress Co. plant here late yesterday resulted in damage estimated at $350,000. Origin of the fire was unknown. One-quarter of a million dollars of the loss was in baled cotton. The hall of St. Joseph's Society also was destroyed.

ST. LOUIS TRAIN WRECKED, 3 CARS BURN, FEW HURT

Three cars of the Chicago & Alton-Burlington's "Night Hawk," fast passenger train from Kansas City to St. Louis, were destroyed by fire early today near New Truxton, Mo., 79 miles northwest of St. Louis, after an accident in which six of the 10 cars of the train were derailed.

The property loss was estimated at $100,000. No one was hurt seriously, the passengers escaping from the cars before the flames gained headway. One man, it was reported, suffered a fractured rib and several other persons were shaken up and bruised. Railroad officials said no one was hurt.

The wreck occurred a half mile east of New Truxton at 5:30 a. m. The train had left Mexico 40 minutes late and was moving at high speed. The engine tender threw a wheel and plunged fro mthe track, dragging six forward cars from the rails. The engine, three Pullman cars and the diner were not derailed.

The cars which burned were an express car, a baggage car and a chair car at the head of the train. The blaze started in the gas-lighting equipment of the chair car and spread rapidly through the three cars, which were of wood. It burned out after three hours, leaving only the steel framework and the trucks.

Maintenance men were rushed to the scene from Mexico, Slater and New Florence to clear the roadway, which had not been badly damaged. The stranded passengers were housed in Pullman cars, while plans were made to take the remaining cars back to Mexico and reroute them to St. Louis by way of Louisiana, Mo.

It was expected that the track would be open late this afternoon. The morning train from St. Louis to Kansas City was detoured by way of Louisiana. The "Night Hawk" left Kansas City at 11:55 p. m. and was due in St. Louis at 7:35 a. m.

THREE PERSONS SERIOUSLY INJURED IN AUTO MISHAPS

Clifford Brandon, 45 years old, of 4246 McPherson avenue, lost control of his machine while driving east in Gravois avenue at 1:15 a. m. today and it ran on the sidewalk and struck a lamp post in front of 4128 Gravois. Brandon was taken to St. Anthony's Hospital suffering from fractures of the skull and several ribs and internal injuries.

As she alighted from a southbound Grand boulevard street car at Garfield avenue at 11:40 p. m., Mrs. Lee Simpson, 17 years old, of 1821 North Grand, was struck by an automobile, suffering a fractured left leg and internal injuries. The driver of the machine, Albert Mayor of Granite City, was arrested.

James Langwith, 52 years old, a city fireman, of 3417 Market street, suffered a fractured right shoulder and internal injuries at 2:30 p. m., when an automobile he was driving was hit by a truck at Grand boulevard and Osceola street. The Negro driver deserted his truck and escaped. Police obtained his name from the truck owner and are seeking him.

FIRST PUBLIC HEARING ON MAYOR'S BRIDGE PLAN JULY 29

Proposed Ordinance for Immediate Use of Municipal Span Sent to Committee.

The first public hearing on Mayor Miller's proposed ordinance for opening the Municipal bridge to early use, by the Alton & Southern and the Manufacturers' Railway, will be held at 3 p. m. Thursday, July 29. It is expected that other hearings will be held. The general public is invited to the first hearing in the chamber of the Board of Aldermen.

The aldermen met today in the second vacation session, and referred the bridge measures to the Public Utilities Committee, of which Alderman Wiehe is chairman, and which will conduct the hearings. The board will meet tomorrow to pass some charter amendment proposals, not related to the bridge, which were passed before, but were invalidated by a clerical error.

$15,000 ALIMONY FOR GIRL, 16

Bride of Millionaire's Son Gets Divorce for Cruelty.

By the Associated Press.

NATCHEZ, Miss., July 21.—Mrs. Mary Carolina Guild, 16-year-old bride of James Nelson Guild, 17 years old, son of the millionaire owner of the Finkbein Lumber Co. of Jackson, Miss., was granted a divorce here today by Chancellor R. W. Cutrer. Mrs. Guild gave cruel and inhuman treatment as the basis for her suit. She was allowed $15,000 alimony.

In testimony given at the hearing it was disclosed that they were secretly married March 16, 1925, while he was a freshman at the University of Alabama and she a student at Millsap College at Jackson, Miss.

Herriot Declares Against Inflation

vote for Herriot, should the Government close the stock exchange. The Communists' voting strength of 28 may save the Government.

Finance Minister De Monzie, supporting the declaration, said the French Treasury on Monday had a balance of 239,000,000 francs with the Bank of France. This had been reduced to 60,000,000 today. Measures to obtain funds, he said, must be voted immediately.

No Credits From America.

De Monzie said that former Finance Minister Caillaux up to July 14 had hoped for American credits, but that on that date the French financial attache in Washington had informed the Government there would be no credits without ratification of the Washington debt accord.

Caillaux had decided he would admit no connection between ratification of the debt accord and the opening of credits. He, De Monzie, thoroughly approved Caillaux's course in this respect. Caillaux had then requested the Bank of France to buy back from the Government the balance left of the Morgan loan of March, 1924. The bank accepted, provided the Government would pass a bill authorizing an increase in circulation for commercial needs.

Blames Paris, Not New York.

"This was the cause of the fall in the franc," de Monzie said. "The movement of depreciation in the franc for the last ten days originated in Paris, not in New York.

Continuing, de Monzie said the head of The Bank of France wrote to the effect that the 60,000,000-franc credit to the Government might be wiped out in 24 hours, and that it was urgent that Parliament take immediate action.

Former Premier Briand, intervening, said the increased acuteness of the crisis was due to large popular demands for the reimbursement of national defense and treasury bonds. "I solemnly warned you of the impending crisis," he said.

De Monzie then introduced a bill asking for authority for the Government to turn over to The Bank of France, at today's exchange rate, the available balance of the Morgan loan, amounting to a little more than $25,000,000, or 1,200,000,000 francs.

"This is what Caillaux wanted to do," he said. "We ask you to do it, but we will not make it a question of confidence."

Would Override Chamber.

De Monzie then threatened to override the Chamber in the event it failed to pass the bill. "Should the Chamber refuse to pass this bill," he said, "I myself will instruct the Bank of France to realize the Morgan loan dollars in the open exchange market to meet the pressing needs of the Treasury. I have the right to do this. Even if I haven't, you may send me to the High Court. Others have gone there and come back. I am taking my responsibilities."

Finance Minister De Monzie's plans for stabilization, which has been ready 15 months, it was said at the ministry, will involve neither inflation nor a moratorium on short term bonds.

Five billion francs will be needed at the outset to put the plan into operation. De Monzie proposes to obtain half of this from the Bank of France, the advance to be guaranteed by new taxes, annd the other half from increases in other taxes.

Cabinet Consults Doumergue.

A Cabinet council, after a consultation with President Doumergue and Governor Moreau of the Bank of France, late last night decided no time was to be lost in obtaining from Parliament authority to take remedial measures.

Today the lobbies of both houses of Parliament seethed with excitement. Even the oldest hands were unable to say whether this Cabinet would have a small majority or be beaten. The fact that the Chamber yesterday restored the secret ballot in the election of its president, against the wishes of the Cartellists, was regarded by some as an indication that tonight's vote would go against Herriot. The secret ballot was restored by a vote of 274 to 233.

There has been no abatement in the demand in business and other circles for a "committee of public safety" with full powers to act to relieve the situation growing out of the fall of the franc to unprecedented levels—less than 2 cents in New York—and resulting in a general dislocation of business and manifestations by crowds in the streets, particularly against Americans.

Demand for Safety Committee.

Republican Socialists, heretofore stanch supporters of Herriot, are prime movers for a committee of public safety. Two hundred and forty Deputies signed a demand for this committee. They declare the situation requires something stronger than the ministry just formed to meet the situation adequately. Even the possibility that such a move would be unconstitutional has not served to silence those who are asking for a species of dictatorship.

Owing to the excitement over the fall of the franc, the Government has prohibited the broadcasting of the rate on the dollar and the pound sterling. It also is considering the question of preventing the rate being posted in places visible from the street.

During the closing hours of the bourse yesterday extra police were called to hold back the great rush of people to buy foreign issues with dividends payable in stable currency and to sell domestic securities.

The franc reacted favorably today, closing officially at 46.95 to the dollar, as against 49.22 yesterday. The reason given in financial circles is that the bear movement has gone far beyond the point justified by actual circumstances and that a recovery from the violent fluctuations is certain. It is asserted that there is nothing behind the present downward movement but political apprehension supported by speculation.

HARDLY A CHANCE THAT HERRIOT CAN SURVIVE THE CRISIS

PARIS, July 21.—Premier Herriot's overthrow is becoming increasingly certain. When it comes President Doumergue will call on the radical, Albert Sarraut, to try to form a national union Government in conjunction with former Premier and President Poincare.

Something like frenzy has seized French political circles; partly lines are breaking down and bitterness, both personal and political, is becoming intense.

The latest canvass seems to show that even a part of Herriot's own radical party is turning against him.

Herriot Wants Capital Levy.

Herriot's fundamental idea is a capital levy which he estimates would furnish large resources to the Government almost immediately. But the Chamber is equally hostile to a capital levy and to inflation, so unless De Monzie can impress the Chamber with some new, powerful plan, which is highly improbable, the Herriot Government may be considered doomed.

Perhaps never in the history of the French Parliament have such violent attacks been launched against a political leader as have been launched against Herriot in the press and the lobby of the Chamber the last two days. These attacks emanate not only from the conservatives but especially from former Premier Briand and former Finance Minister Caillaux, who are using every possible device to obtain their own return to power.

Banks are crowded with depositors withdrawing their money. Holders of short term bonds not only are demanding reimbusement instead of renewal when their bonds fall due, but also are trying to borrow money immediately on bonds due from one to six months hence.

Retail Prices Soaring.

Retail prices are advancing by leaps and bounds but still with great irregularity. Many people are beginning to buy pewelry, clothing, furniture—anything — rather beginning to buy jewelry, clothnotes. Foreign tourists seeking bargains also crowd the Paris shops. Some merchants are beginning to fix prices definitely in dollars and pounds and the movement is growing.

In the larger cities popular anger is rising against alleged speculators in wheat and sugar, and against exporters of foodstuffs generally, for to these are attributed the rapidly rising cost of bread, meat and vegetables.

A real period of inflation would doubtless be accepted much less calmly by the French than it was by the placid and better disciplined Germans. The French are perhaps the most thrifty people in the world. Normally, even the most modest wage-earners save and invest. When the mass of the people realize fully, as they now are beginning to do, what has really happened to their lifetime savings invested in Government and municipal securities, their feelings will be difficult to control.

Italy Fears Collapse of Parliamentary Rule in France.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, July 21.—The French situation is regarded by the Italian press as an indication of the collapse of parliamentary government.

There is no suggestion that Fascist methods be adopted there, however, and both official and press circles refrain from any tendency to exult over the situation. This is for two reasons: First, because the collapse of the franc is having a marked effect on the lira, which is hovering above 30 to the dollar, and, second, because it is felt that the crisis is having a disquieting effect on the entire European situation, endangering the efforts of Italy and other nations to forget politics and achieve economic and financial reconstruction.

LONG SENATE TERM FIRST ON BALLOT

Election Board Virtually Naught Strategy of Proctor Advisers.

The strategy of David [illegible] tor in staying out of the [illegible] the short term Republican [illegible] torial nomination and [illegible] only the long term contest, [illegible] ly has been set at naught by [illegible] arrangement of the local ballot [illegible] the Board of Election Commissioners.

In ignoring the short term [illegible] his chief opponent Senator [illegible] liams, went out for both [illegible] Proctor's advisers reasoned [illegible] way:

"Williams will poll a heavy [illegible] in St. Louis. Because it is a [illegible] city the St. Louis voters may [illegible] sonably be expected to be less [illegible] versant with the ballot than [illegible] try voters who give more thought to politics.

"With the city voters casting ballots for Williams for the short term, it is reasonable to hope some might not notice the long term entries just below and be satisfied with marking only the short term race. If they followed that procedure Williams would have their votes for the long term where Proctor is a contender."

This plan was predicated on the expectation that the short-term candidates would appear first on the ballot, as they did on the official certification of candidates by the Secretary of State. But the Board of Election Commissioners overturned the calculation by placing the long-term candidates first and the short term second, thus nullifying the Proctor plan. That the new arrangement the first taking place on the ballot shows Proctor arrayed against Williams and the most careless voter must decide for one and against the other.

If, following the Proctor reasoning, he should ignore the second group, for the short term, it would not hurt the Williams interest since his most formidable opponent, Proctor, is not arrayed against him there.

Chairman Eigel of the Board of Election Commissioners said today that he had voted against the change on the ballot, while Commissioners Player, Fahey and Wilson had voted for it. Player, Fahey are Democrats and Wilson and Eigel are Republicans. The board is appointed by Gov. Hyde, who is a supporter of Williams for the nomination.

Eigel explained that his colleagues believed the long term should be placed first as the more important of the two, it being the custom to place the most important contests first. There is no statutory provision either for or against the action of the board.

OFFICER DEFENDS FAILURE TO SHOOT IN STREET HOLDUP

HE SAYS WITNESSES APPROVE HIS COURSE

Traffic Patrolman Harold H. Meier Suspended for Neglect of Duty — To Be Tried Friday.

Traffic Policeman Harold H. Meier, 36 years old, on duty at Twelfth boulevard and Washington avenue, did some quick thinking yesterday morning when robbers shot down a Negro messenger for the City Trust Co., at the northwest corner and fled with his satchel, containing $16,000 of the bank's currency.

To shoot or not to shoot? The decision was a matter of seconds, so quickly were the robbers on their way. He did not shoot and, therefore, was suspended, charged with neglect of duty.

Explaining to a Post-Dispatch reporter today, Meier said:

"I didn't fire for fear somebody would be hurt. There was nobody between me and the robbers, who were on the opposite side of the street, but people were already running to the sidewalk behind me and behind the robbers' car.

Feared for Bystanders.

"I was afraid that if I shot and the bullets weren't stopped in the car, somebody on the north side would be hurt, and then, when the robbers returned the fire it seemed certain somebody on the south side would be struck.

"There was considerable traffic at the crossing, as there always is at that time of day. I figured the lives of other people in the streets were worth more than any amount of money stolen.

"Several minutes before the holdup I had left the center of the intersection to stop a woman who was parking inside the safety zone at the southwest corner. I was telling this woman she couldn't park there. Just as she was pulling away I heard some shots—I didn't count how many—and ran about 20 feet east toward the corner.

"I jerked out my gun as I ran along the curb. Somebody back of me on the sidewalk hollered, 'Don't fire.' I glanced over my shoulder and saw 10 or 12 people on the sidewalk behind me. By that time the robbers—this was the first I saw of them—were moving west in Washington, well beyond the corner, at about 20 miles an hour.

Shotguns Aimed at Officer.

"There were five or six fellows in the car, but I couldn't tell just how many. Two of them had shotguns pointed right at me and I don't know why they didn't shoot. I guess if I had been at the intersection, nearer the holdup, they would have shot me down like they did the messenger.

"Several machines had passed in Washington avenue as I was running east. I could hardly see everything, but I was conscious that people were coming out of buildings on both sides of the street as I ran. Those on the north side I could see, were up against the buildings. I figured if I fired I might hit them and if the robbers fired back they'd hit the people behind me. I still think I was right for not firing.

"Yesterday afternoon I hunted up witnesses to testify in my behalf when I go on trial before the Police Board next Friday. I got about 10 and they all think I was right. One of them, Charles Gorman, who is in business at 1208 Washington, said to me, 'Meier, I'm thankful you didn't shoot, or my friends would have been buying flowers for my fungral.' He was right behind me.

Chased Gang in Service Car.

"I commandeered a service car right after the robbers passed and a young fellow who had just got off a bus got in it, too, and we chased west after them. A street car got in the way. At Seventeenth street we lost sight of them in the traffic. I wasn't sure I could stop the robbers, but I wanted at least to get a good description of their car. I leaned out from the front seat and at Eighteenth street Traffic Officer Nussman jumped into the rear seat. People along the way saw we were after someone and hollered to us that the car was speeding west."

The policeman, who never drew close enough to shoot, gave up the pursuit west of Grand boulevard and reported to the Newstead Avenue Police Station, then returned to Police Headquarters. There, Acting Chief Schwartz suspended Patrolman Meier for not shooting when the robbers were in front of him. Chief Schwartz, an old Indian fighter, said he thought he would have fired under the circumstances.

Police charges against Patrolman Meier, which are being prepared by Inspector Walton and Judge-Advocate Marcum, will be based on his official report, the statements of seven witnesses corroborating his description of his actions, and a statement by Gustav C. Heymann of the Bettmann-Kleinhauser Clothing Co., 1204 Washington avenue, alleging that the policeman ran into his store about the time the robbers' firing ceased, in order to draw his revolver from its holster. Heymann did not see what happened afterwards.

Denies Going Into Store.

Informed of this allegation, Patrolman Meier said: "I didn't go in that store or any other store, and witnesses will corroborate that. I interviewed Mr. Heymann yesterday afternoon and he told me that some officer ran into his store. He didn't know who it was, but told me, 'I though maybe it was you; he had the same kind of uniform.' I stayed near the curb all the time and had my revolver out."

Patrolman Meier, who resides at 4330 Duke street, joined the police force last October and was assigned to traffic service at Christmas.

Chance for Wounded Man.

The wounded bank messenger has a good chance to recover, it was said at City Hospital No. 2. He is Sandy Morgan, 60, of 2615 Morgan street. For more than a quarter of a century he has been a trusted messenger for banks and express companies. He was shot twice and then struck on the head with a revolver when he still tried to hold the money satchel. One bullet was removed from his abdomen yesterday. It did not penetrate any vital organ. Another bullet will be taken from the left thigh later. He has a bad laceration and bruise on his head, but the skull is not believed to have been fractured.

Accompanied by an unarmed 18-year-old employe of the City Trust Co., Morgan, who had a revolver, was waiting for a Hodiamont car, to take the money to the Federal Reserve Bank. Either one or two of the robbers, according to witnesses, left the robbers' car to assault the messenger without warning, and take the bag. They fired several wild shots. Their car came from the north in High street, which leads into Twelfth boulevard at Washington avenue.

$1600 Reward Offered.

The National Surety Co., which insured the bank's money, has offered a $1600 reward for arrest and conviction of the robbers.

Police investigation of the robbery is going on the belief it was committed by a newly organized gang of seven men. This conclusion was based on certain circumstances and indications. Two men with long police records, one of whom is at liberty on bond under a bank-robbery charge, are among those being sought.

It is believed the robbers were intoxicated. Police Captain Nally said: "They had one chance in a million that they wouldn't be blocked in the heavy traffic at that corner. They got away with that chance and it was a drunken man's luck."

In the search for the suspected robbers a place on Edgar avenue, near Natural Bridge road, St. Louis County, described by police as a "home brew joint," was raided yesterday and four men and two women arrested. However, they are not thought to have been involved in the crime. No other arrests have been made.

EX-PATIENT LOSES SANITARIUM JOB AFTER QUICK RISE

George Henke, Supervisor of Male Insane at Arsenal Street Institution, Resigns.

George Henke, "the most talked of" man at the City Sanitarium, who entered that institution as a patient three years ago and advanced to the responsible position of supervisor of male insane, directing 150 subordinate attendants, has resigned, following criticism.

The personality of this ex-patient—accused by his opponents of having a Napoleon complex which made him fancy himself "boss" of the sanitarium, and a, Croesus complex which made him spend money right and left—has made him the chief subject of discussion for months at the Arsenal street institution—in the dormitories, the corridors and on the big front lawn, where patients, their friends and relatives sit all day long in pleasant weather.

Henke is 36 years old, divorced and an upholsterer by trade. He entered the sanitarium in 1924 as a psychopathic patient, excessive drinking being a contributing cause to his condition, according to the records. His condition improved rapidly and in less than a year he was discharged as a patient and put on the municipal payroll as a cutter in the sewing room of the sanitarium.

Henke Supported the Mayor.

Here his talent for making friends, and impressing them with his ability, was revealed. He was an alert politician, in a place where politics was not unknown. When it became known last December that three members of the sanitarium staff who did not support Mayor Miller for election had been let out after the appointment of Dr. E. J. Lee Jr., Mayor Miller's selection for superintendent, it was stated that Roland Ude, supervisor of male insane, would be succeeded by Henke, "an outspoken supporter of the Mayor in both primary and election."

Henke took his job seriously, even though the compensation was only $85 a month and maintenance. He told his subordinates in no uncertain terms that he could, and would, hire and fire. He displayed a list of employes who, he said, were slated to go. He took an active interest in improving sanitary conditions and in reducing the number of escapes, which sometimes had averaged five a week.

As a patient, he had delusions of great wealth. As a "boss" he spent freely. Complaints reaching Dr. Lee and newspapers were to the effect that he borrowed from fellow employes and patients, without repaying, and also became indebted to storekeepers. Another charge was that he drank to excess and became irresponsible.

Henke's Reply to Charges.

Henke admitted spending and drinking too much, but denied indignantly some more serious charges. He made the counter charge that old attendants and patients, who resented his aggressive policies and his rise above them, were try to "get" him.

He could be romantic as well as business-like, and a rumor spread that he had married a certain young attendant. This was denied by both parties. Henke's order for $1000 worth of furniture from a downtown store about this time may have started the report. The furniture has not been paid for, and will not be delivered until paid for, an officer of the store said today.

In the face of continued criticism Henke submitted his resignation to Dr. Lee July 15 and went away for a two weeks' vacation. He told Dr. Lee that he had obtained employment as an upholsterer. He is also considering opening a confectionery store across the street from the sanitarium.

"George Henke was one of the best examples of what can be done by occupational therapy—putting a man to work as a cure for what ails him," Dr. Lee told a Post-Dispatch reporter. "He was one of my best and most loyal employes—a regular stemwinder, in fact. In the few months he was supervisor he worked wonders. He cleaned up dirty places that had existed for years. He reduced escapes to fraction of what they had been."

Dr. Lee went to his safe and brought forth a large package of keys and miscellaneous deadly weapons, which represented one night's search by Henke among patients.

"George made enemies, of course, but he also made many friends," Dr. Lee continued.

"He was a born organizer—always organizing a picnic or something for the benefit of the patients and employes. His trouble was that he worked too hard, bringing back his nervousness, and then he went out at nights and drank too much. It is true that he borrowed money around here, but money is borrowed everywhere."

Nevertheless, Dr. Lee continued, his experience has made him doubt the wisdom of putting former patients in responsible positions, because there is always a possibility, sometimes a probability, that the person will "blow up"—suffer a recurrence of the former condition. It has been the practice at the sanitarium for years to employ discharged patients, if they are capable, inasmuch as the average pay is small and it is hard to get employes. At present, according to Dr. Lee, about half of the lay staff is made up of discharged patients, but no more will be hired, unless for minor jobs.

HURT IN MOTOR CYCLE CRASH

Family Had Ridden Nearly Across Continent Before Accident.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COTTONWOOD FALLS, Kan.—After completing a trip half way across the continent on a motor cycle, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. McCoy had an accident when their machine went into the ditch, and Mrs. McCoy suffered a broken collar bone. They were only 20 miles from their goal, Emporia, at the time of the crash.

Mrs. McCoy and her children rode in a side car.

Lack of Addresses Slow up Mails.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Lack of street and number addresses on letters has become such a drag on the Postal Service that Assistant Postmaster-General Bartlett has begun a general campaign to educate the business public in the necessity of giving complete addresses on all letters. Postmasters have been requested to take up the subject with advertisers in their cities with a view to having a complete address appear in all advertisements in newspapers and magazines.

TEXAS RANGER PUTS OUT A HECKLER AT FERGUSON MEETING

Draws Pistol and Escorts Man Away for Shouting Loudly for Dan Moody.

By the Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 21.—James E. Ferguson, husband of Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, last night made good his threats to use State Rangers to keep hecklers from interfering with his campaign speeches in behalf of his wife, who is seeking re-election.

After frequent interruptions in Ferguson's address here last night, Ranger Capt. Tom Hickman, with a drawn pistol, escorted a man from the crowd after he had shouted loudly in behalf of Attorney-General Moody, one of five candidates opposing Mrs. Ferguson. The heckler had his choice of going away quietly or facing charges. He decided to go away.

The primary is Saturday.

FORMER PREACHER, HELD FOR MURDER, DENIES CHARGE

Dumfounded at Agrest, Says Phillip A. Goodwin, Who Describes Himself as Actor and Priest.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 21.—On a request from the Sheriff of Orange County, California, charging him with a "most brutal" murder, Philip A. Goodwin, who describes himself as both an actor and a priest of the American Catholic Church, was arrested yesterday at the National Vaudeville Artists' Club and held without bail for the California authorities. Goodwin and his lawyer, Harry A. Bloomberg, each declared himself astounded by the charge and in absolute ignorance of the crime to which the Sheriff referred.

From Los Angeles, however, the Associated Press reported the man was sought in the case of Jose J. Patterson, an accountant of that city, whose body was found in the Santa Ana River May 2, following his disappearance during the winter with a large amount of money and negotiable bonds.

Goodwin, the Los Angeles police are reported as saying, was a friend and neighbor of Patterson, and was with him just before he was last seen alive. The murderer is said to have killed the accountant on a lonely road near Santa Ana, the Orange County seat, dragged his body to the river bed and there burned it in gasoline. A belt buckle and a watch charm enabled identification.

"I am dumfounded by this arrest," Goodwin exclaimed.

Bloomberg expressed confidence he would have no difficulty in proving his client was in New York when the murder was committed.

Clabaugh Takes Colvin's Place.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Hinton G. Clabaugh today notified Gov. Small of his acceptance of the post of Superintendent of the State Pardon and Parole Board, replacing Will Colvin, resigned.

Declaring he had assurance of a free hand in his new task, the former Federal Department of Justice official announced: "The day is past when influence of any kind counts in Illinois pardon and parole matters." It is understood that Samuel Insull, traction magnate, whose aid Clabaugh has been for several years, urged him to accept the post as a public service and granted him a year's leave of absence.

VALENTINO DEMANDS REDRESS WITH FISTS

Fighting Blood Roused by Editorial Comment on Pomades and Men.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Rudolph Valentino's pugilistic aspirations today seemed doomed to die aborning. The movie sheik wanted to fight the anonymous writer of a Chicago Tribune editorial, in which cosmetics and pomades for men, as vended by a slot machine in Chicago's newest ballroom, invoked the use of exclamation marks.

Valentino sent out a challenge to the writer, who had termed Rudolph the prototype of the modern American male and "the beautiful gardener's son," and asked why he had not been drowned years ago. Valentino intimated that he could give a good account of himself at fisticuffs, but the writer of the editorial has taken no notice of the movie actor's dander.

There are no available records in sport files of Battling Rudolph Valentino, but there are indications that the King of the Sheiks could give a good account of himself in a go of any sort with a man of his weight. Hard work was a necessity for him as a boy in Italy and after he came to this country he worked for some time as a gardener on a Long Island estate. When his fatal beauty, which afterward took him into motion pictures, led him to the dance halls of New York he was in with a crowd where only the fittest could survive.

He has realized that his figure, as well as his face, is his fortune and shrewd business judgment has made him keep in excellent physical condition. He is a good swimmer and tennis player, rides a horse well and spends several hours daily, whenever possible, in a gymnasium. Slim and active, he is well built, his arms and shoulders being finely developed and a good part of his daily exercising has always been put into boxing.

$40,000 ESTATE ORDERED DISTRIBUTED AMONG 54 HEIRS

Beneficiaries of Mary Bauer, 71, Are Cousins, Who Established Proofs by Depositions.

Distribution of the $40,000 estate of Miss Mary Bauer, 71 years old, among 54 cousins of varying degree, was ordered today by Probate Judge Holtcamp, to whom a chart of the family tree of Miss Bauer had been given by an attorney who represented most of the heirs at a hearing last Saturday.

The largest individual shares were alloted to the estates of two deceased cousins. Each estate was awarded $2632.70. The smallest amount, $73.13, was alloted to a distant cousin. The estate consisted mostly of cash, the only property being the home of Miss Bauer at 2711 Dodier street.

Miss Bauer died in November, 1924, 16 days after the death of her sister, Mrs. Emma Blattner, 61 years old. Neither left a will. Most of the heirs established their claims by submitting their proofs of kinship by depositions.

FAMILY OF FOUR SHOT TO DEATH

By the Associated Press.

WARREN, O., July 21.—Robert Preto, 26 years old, his wife, Virginia, a 6-year-old daughter, Alberta, and a 2-year-old son, Robert, were found dead of bullet wounds last night in their home at Newton Falls, near here.

Authorities believe Preto killed his wife and children and then shot himself. He worked in the steel mills. Neighbors knew no reason for the shooting.

NIGHT AND DAY BANK SUIT SETTLED BY STATE

Payment by Directors Agreed on Subject to Approval by Court.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 21.—A settlement of the proposed suit by the State Finance Department against the directors of the defunct Night and Day Bank of St. Louis, to recover losses suffered by depositors has been agreed upon by State Finance Commissioner C. E. French and the directors. It will be submitted to the St. Louis Circuit Court in a few days for approval. Commissioner French declined to disclose the amount agreed upon but it is understood to be small compared to the sum for which the department had planned to sue the directors.

At the direction of Commissioner French special attorneys for the department had prepared a petition against the directors, seeking to recover approximately $800,000. This included $754,000 in "cash items" representing manipulations of former Cashier Arthur O. Meininger, now serving a prison sentence, and including loans made to some of the directors in excess of the limit to individuals or corporations, fixed by the State banking law.

Ability to Pay Considered.

Upon advice of attorneys for the department, the petition was submitted to the Night and Day Bank directors last April for a compromise offer, and 30 days was allowed them in which to submit a proposal. The proposal submitted was not satisfactory and the time was extended for further negotiations.

The settlement was agreed upon after the department had examined financial statements submitted by the directors, to show the extent of their ability to pay. These financial statements, the original petition prepared by attorneys for the department and other exhibits will be submitted to the Court with the application for approval of the settlement.

Directors Involved.

The directors included in the compromise agreement, it is said, are former Gov. Elliott W. Major; former Judge Wm. H. Allen of the St. Louis Court of Appeals; H. H. Hohenschild, former president of the bank; Fred J. Cornwell Jr., the estate of P. A. McDermott and T. K. Cooper. Thomas L. Mauldin, who became a director a short time before the bank closed Jan. 6, 1922, is not included, it is said.

The original petition was prepared by Thomas E. Francis, and Clarence Case, special counsel in the Night and Day Bank liquidation. It was based on a section of the law prescribing the liability of bank directors for losses sustained through negligence by the directors in supervision of the management of the bank.

Depositors so far have received 62 per cent of their claims. Approved claims against the bank amounted to approximately $2,600,000.

CHILD SHOT WHEN SISTER PLAYS WITH FATHER'S REVOLVER

NORMA CHRISTIAN.

PISTOL UNDER PILLOW MAY COST GIRL'S LIFE

Three-year-old Norma Christian, shot in the forehead with a revolver by her five-year-old sister, Ruth, yesterday afternoon, is at City Hospital. Physicians do not expect her to live.

The sisters were playing on a bed in the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Christian, at 2018A Franklin avenue, when Ruth found her father's revolver under a pillow. Their mother, who was in the kitchen, heard a shot and found Norma unconscious on the bed.

Mrs. Christian carried the child to the office of a physician who summoned an ambulance. The bullet had fractured her skull and lodged in the brain. Christian told police that he kept the revolver, a .38-caliber weapon, under the pillow for protection.

MAN HAVING TWO WIVES DISAPPEARS

Both Want W. C. Hofman Back to Pay for Contemplated Divorces

Following the disappearance 10 days ago of William Charles Hofman, 25 years old, of 3607A North Twentieth street, two women have come forward to say they are married to him. Mrs. Lillian Bott Hoffman, 1805A Cass avenue, who says he married her in Clayton last May 26, is interested in his arrest so that she may force him to pay for her contemplated divorce. Mrs. Daphne Higgins Hoffman of the Twentieth street address, who says she married Hoffman five years ago, "still loves him," but also wants him to pay for her divorce, for which she would sue him. Although Hoffman, she said, informed her of his real wife several hours after they were married, Mrs. Lillian Hoffman failed to report the matter to the police until Monday night, when she learned if his disappearance.

Hoffman, it seems, was not secretive. Mrs. Daphne Hoffman yesterday told a Post-Dispatch reporter that she learned of his attentions to Lillian Evelyn Bott last February. She said her husband readily admitted it.

"A meeting place was arranged," she said. "Miss Bott and I were in the room. I told my husband he could have her, so he was to come to the room and make his decision. It only took him about five minutes to do so. He chose me and we walked out together and back home. Then I learned about 10 days ago that he had married her."

Mrs. Lillian Hoffman has another story. "Charles deceived me," she declared. "After I had gone to the City Hall and ascertained he was married, he told me he had obtained a divorce. But several hours after we were married he told me he had another wife, but that he expected a divorce any minute. I did not know he had left the city until Monday, when his wife was at my house looking for him. I'm interested in making him pay for my divorce."

Hoffman worked as a salesman for the Snider Catsup Co. until two weeks ago.

Trained as a dancer, she made her first appearance at the Canterbury Music Hall, then famous for its ballets, in 1876. Since 1897, when she played Princess Vea at the Metropole in "The Vagabond King," she had appeared rarely.

FIVE MOTOR VEHICLES FIGURE IN COLLISION

Two Men, One a City Fire Department Engineer, Hurt in Unusual Crash.

An automobile fire engine, a single-deck express bus, two automobiles and a Ford truck figured in a collision at Twentieth and Locust streets this morning when Locust was crowded with automobiles bound downtown. Two men were injured.

Valentine Lampert, engineer, who was standing on the rear step of the fire engine, suffered a fractured rib and possible internal injuries. Chester Harris of 6748 Fyler avenue, driver of the bus, which was westbound on the Lindell-McCausland line and carried no passengers, was cut about the face.

The engine, turning from south on Twentieth to west in Locust, struck the bus, which was going slowly, near the front, knocking it into an eastbound automobile of which the driver had heard the fire engine's gong and pulled in to the curb. That machine was wrecked and turned completely around, brushing against another automobile which had pulled in behind it and striking head-on and damaging a light truck parked in front of 2004 Locust.

Harris, the bus driver, was charged with careless driving and failing to stop for the signal of fire apparatus. He said he had not heard the gong. Some other drivers who were approaching the intersection said they did not hear the gong, either, and suggested that all fire apparatus should have sirens.

COURT GIVES NIGHT AND DAY BANK COUNSEL $10,000 MORE

Award by Judge Ittner Makes Total of $65,000 Allowed for Legal Services.

Circuit Judge Ittner yesterday allowed an additional fee of $10,000 to lawyers for their services in the receivership case of the Night and Day Bank, to cover work for the last year.

The award goes to Thomas E. Francis and the law firm of Clarence T. Case, David W. Voyles and George L. Stemmler. Mayor Miller was a former partner of Case and heretofore has shared in a distribution of fees previously granted in the Night and Day receivership matter. The latest allowance makes a total of $65,000 in fees awarded to counsel since the bank failed early in 1922.

At a hearing last May it was shown that about $71,000 had been collected for the bank by the attorneys during the year 1925, such collections being made after prolonged litigation and many conferences. Testimony also introduced was to the effect that the amount asked, which was the sum allowed for the year's work, was not excessive.

A letter to Judge Ittner from State Finance Commissioner French, who is the receiver, was placed in the files. It recited that Case had submitted the bill to him for approval but he was willing to let the court pass upon the reasonableness of the claim without recommendation from him. French explained he did not feel competent to decide a question involving attorneys' fees.

PREDICTS FARM RELIEF PLAN AFTER VISIT TO COOLIDGE

Senator Fess Suggests Measure in Next Congress; Denies Discussing It With President.

PAUL SMITHS, N. Y., July 21.—Predicting that there would be a move in the next Congress to strengthen what already has been done by the administration for farm relief, Senator Fess (Rep.) of Ohio left White Pine Camp today after visiting President Coolidge, asserting that this would not be in the direction of price-fixing, but on sound economic lines with especial attention to co-operative marketing.

He emphasized that he had not discussed farm relief with Mr. Coolidge.

SENDS $280 TO FREE WELLMAN

New York Banker Aids Balloonist Jailed Over Debt.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—The 40-year run of bad luck for Walter Wellman, aeronaut and explorer, which culminated yesterday in his being imprisoned over a $280 debt, was broken when H. Murray Jacoby, banker and amateur explorer, sent him a check for the amount, insuring his release today.

In sending Wellman the check, Jacoby wrote that there was as much heroism in Wellman's failure to reach the North Pole by balloon as there was in the success of Lieutenant-Commander Byrd and the Amundsen-Ellsworth-Nobile polar expeditions.

PROHIBITION ISSUE IN OHIO PRIMARY

Contests in Both Parties for U. S. Senate and Gubernatorial Nominations.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., July 21.—Prohibition promises to be the dominant issue in the Aug. 10 Ohio primary campaign for the nomination of both Republican and Democratic candidates for United States Senator and for the governorship.

In the gubernatorial contests this issue is expected to be more pronounced as these two contests are expected to develop the most general interest. While it also will be a factor in the Republican senatorial battle, the fact that Senator Willis has seven opponents lessens his concern about being renominated.

Contest Between Sexes.

The contest between former Senator Atlee Pomerene and Miss Florence E. Allen, Supreme Court Judge, probably will be fought mainly on the wet and dry issue, the liberal forces supporting Pomerene and the dry advocates backing Miss Allen. A third candidate is Charles E. Wharton. Pomerene also is drawing the fire of organized labor, particularly the railroad organizations which opposed him for re-election four years ago.

The fight between Pomerene and Miss Allen also stands out as the first real contest between a woman and a man candidate for a major office in Ohio. Four years ago a woman seeking election as United States Senator as an independent received only a few thousand votes.

Willis' Opposition.

The seven candidates opposing Senator Willis represent virtually every form of opposition. Five are avowed liberals. They are former Senator Charles Dick of Akron; former Congressman and former Secretary of State Charles Q. Hildebrant of Wilmington; Attorney A. J. Florini of Dayton; former State Senator Thomas W. Latham of Monroeville, and John D. Alcorn of Cincinnati. Of these Hildebrant is considered likely to be most generally favored by the liberals.

Two of Senator Willis' opponents are farmers and drys like himself. They are George L. Watson of Marengo, and Lloyd E. Price of Van Wert.

While there are 12 Republican candidates for Governor, political leaders pick Secretary of State Thad H. Brown of Columbus; Myers Y. Cooper of Cincinnati; State Treasurer Harry S. Day of Fremont, and Joseph B. Sieber of Akron, as the chief contenders. Cooper and Day are both recognized drys. Brown is expected to receive liberal support generally. Sieber supported by the Ku Klux Klan two years ago, placed second in a field.

Donahey Asks for Third Term.

Gov. Vic Donahey, who is seeking a third term nomination, has three Democratic opponents. One is Alfred P. Sandles of Ottawa, former State Secretary of Agriculture, who is being supported by former Governor James M. Cox. The other candidates are James C. B. Beatty of East Liverpool, pottery broker, running on an anti-Volstead law platform, and J. H. Kauffman, former secretary of the State Tax Commission.

MARRIAGE REPORT A MISTAKE

Mrs. Geraldine Knight of Dallas, Tex., Not Rewed.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Inquiry made by the New York World shows that there was no foundation for a report published in the World and Post-Dispatch Monday that Mrs. Geraldine Wilson Knight, wealthy widow of Dallas, Tex., and Ben Smith, also of Dallas, had been married. The report was started by a telegram sent here by a Dallas newspaper agency, stating that it was rumored in Texas that the marriage had taken place. A reporter was unable to find Mrs. Knight, Smith or any of their friends.

The erroneous report of the marriage was published through a mistaken belief that it had been verified.

Mrs. Knight is a member of an old Texas family of wealth and social prominence. Her husband, who died three months ago, was a banker and a brother of Richard A. Knight, lawyer, of this city. Mrs. Knight is now visiting in Cincinnati.

GOV. BAKER REVIEWS CITIZEN SOLDIERS

Makes Address to Men in Summer Training Camp at Jefferson Barracks.

Gov. Baker, accompanied by two officers of the Missouri National Guard, today inspected the Citizens' Military Training Camp at Jefferson Barracks, which is attended by more than 1600 youths from Missouri, Illinois and Arkansas.

As Gov. Baker's party arrived at the Barracks at 8:30 a. m. a salute of 19 guns was fired in its honor. In the party were Adjutant-General Frank Rumbold of Jefferson City and Col. Stephen A. Lowe, commanding officer of the 138th Infantry, Missouri National Guard, a St. Louis regiment. Col. Arthur Freund, a member of the St. Louis Police Board and an honorary colonel on the Governor's staff, and two regular army officers also accompanied Gov. Baker.

The party went to the home of Col. Moor N. Falls, commandant at the Barracks, and from there to the parade grounds, where Gov. Baker reviewed the troops, who were under command of Col. Philip Fox, commanding officer of the 341st Infantry, a Chicago reserve corps.

In an address following the review Gov. Baker told the youths they were receiving training in citizenship as well as in military tactics and said the problems of peace were as great as those of war.

"The greatest implement of peace times," he said, "is the ballot and the election, through the ballot, of the right kind of officials." He also made a plea for obedience to all national laws.

The morning's program ended with an inspection of the rifle range and the troops in their daily drill. Gov. Baker and members of his party had luncheon in the mess hall with the troops, then returned to St. Louis.

Oil Filling Station Robbed.

Two Negroes with revolvers held up Albert Simpson, 5181 Maple avenue, night attendant at an oil filling station at Grand boulevard and Chouteau avenue at 3 a. m. today, taking $30 in currency from the register.

So that's it!

ALL of a sudden it dawned on him.

For a long time he had felt that things were being said about him behind his back.

Now—he had actually overheard it.

And said by men whom he had regarded as his best friends in the business!

Maybe they were right—he didn't know. But at least he would find out and apply the right remedy.

You, yourself, rarely know when you have halitosis (unpleasant breath). That's the insidious thing about it. And even your closest friends won't tell you.

Sometimes, of course, halitosis comes from some deep-seated organic disorder that requires professional advice. But usually—and fortunately—halitosis is only a local condition that yields to the regular use of Listerine as a mouth wash and gargle. It puts you on the safe and polite side. Moreover, in using Listerine to combat halitosis, you are quite sure to avoid sore throat and those more serious illnesses that start with throat infections.

Listerine halts food fermentation in the mouth and leaves the breath sweet, fresh and clean. Not by substituting some other odor but by really removing the old one. The Listerine odor itself quickly disappears.

This safe and long-trusted antiseptic has dozens of different uses; note the little circular that comes with every bottle. Your druggist sells Listerine in the original brown package only—never in bulk. There are four sizes: 14 ounce, 7 ounce, 3 ounce and 1¼ ounce. Buy the large size for economy.—Lambert Pharmacal Company, Saint Louis, U. S. A.

For HALITOSIS use LISTERINE

Well—it worked!
For quite a while we challenged people to try Listerine Tooth Paste. Sales now show that when they try it they stick to it!

TELLS OF $22,000 PAID FOR MILK GRAFT

Agent for Midwest Dairies Testifies at Conspiracy Trial of New York Ex-Official.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Western dairy men could pay 2½ cents graft on a quart of cream and still sell it at a profit in New York City in competition with nearby dairies, it was testified in General Sessions Court.

The story was told by Samuel Doner of Dewart, Pa., representative of Ohio, Wisconsin, Michigan and Indiana dairies, at the trial of William H. Kehoe, former Assistant Corporation Counsel, charged with conspiracy in connection with the operations of an alleged bootleg milk ring through whose operation cream and milk prohibited by city ordinance was sold to New Yorkers.

Doner, a prosecution witness, identified checks totaling $22,900, which he had paid to Kehoe for the illegal admission of cream. The checks, Doner said, were issued weekly at the rate of $1 graft on each 40-quart can of illegal cream Kehoe and other members of the alleged bootleg milk ring permitted him to sell in the Metropolitan district. He testified that he had offered to pay $2 for the admission of other cans of similar capacity.

In the summer of 1925, while he was at Long Beach with his family, Doner testified, Frederick W. Kautzman, a former inspector for the Health Department, had come to see him and taken him to the home of Kehoe, where he met Thomas J. Clougher, then secretary to Dr. Frederick J. Monaghan, then Health Commissioner, and they talked over the scarcity of cream and Doner offered to pay $2 a can to bring in cream from Waterloo, O.

FUNERAL OF GEORGE GEROLD IN EAST ST. LOUIS FRIDAY

Death of Former Storage Firm Head Said to Have Been Superinduced by Old Injury.

The funeral of George Gerold, 76 years old, former head of the Gerold Moving and Storage Co. of East St. Louis, will be held at 2 p. m. Friday from Immanuel Evangelical Church to Mt. Hope Cemetery. Mr. Gerold died of heart disease yesterday at his home, 415 North Thirteenth street, East St. Louis. An injury suffered in a street car accident five years ago is said to have superintenduced the fatal illness.

Mr. Gerold had been in business in East St. Louis since 1891. He was born in Germany and came to the United States when seven years old. He had engaged in farming before moving to East St. Louis. He served for many years on the St. Clair County Board of Supervisors and was active in Republican politics.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Johannah Gerold; two sons, George and E. Fred Gerold, the latter former City Treasurer of East St. Louis, and two daughters, Mrs. Ida Hahn of Denver and Mrs. Katherine Qualle of St. Louis.

ABSENTEE ELECTION OFFICERS

Penalty Possible for Failure to Serve on Registration Day.

The names of 77 judges and clerks of election who failed to appear at the polls for duty June 24, the day of registration, or on the subsequent days of canvassing, June 25 and 26, were certified by the Board of Election Commissioners to the Prosecuting Attorney for such action as he sees fit to take.

Under the law, absence from the polls without permission is a misdemeanor, punishable by fine or jail sentence. The law has not been invoked in recent years, although the Election Board is anxious that some officials be punished as an example to others.

INDICTMENTS DENIED IN M'PHERSON CASE

Future Inquiry Into Los Angeles Evangelist's Kidnaping Story Still Possible.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 21.—After exhaustive inquiry of witnesses from many parts of the country, the Los Angeles County Grand Jury yesterday reported nothing had been found to warrant indictments for the kidnaping of Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, pastor of Angelus Temple.

Before making its report, the jury considered blanket indictments prepared by District Attorney Asa Keyes against two men and a woman, who Mrs. McPherson alleges abducted her and held her for ransom. The jury, however, left the way open for further investigation by announcing it was ready at any time to consider new evidence.

When Mrs. McPherson disappeared May 18 at the beach at Ocean Park, her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, and others said she was drowned. Thousands of her followers held a memorial meeting. Then, June 23, Mrs. McPherson reappeared at Agua Prieta, Mexico, near Douglas, Ariz., and said she had been kidnaped.

Had the grand jury returned a blanket indictment against the alleged kidnapers, the action would have been construed as substantiating the evangelist's story. The only official comment on the grand jury's failure to find a true bill came from Deputy District Attorney Joseph Ryan, who directed the investigation. "The action of the grand jury explains fully the weight of evidence in the case," he said.

ZIEGFELD DOES NOT PREFER BLONDES FOR THE NEW SEASON

Ideal Showgirl Will Be More Plump and Taller Than the Current Models.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Florenz Ziegfeld, theatrical "glorifier" of the American girl, has issued his beauty specifications for the new season. The ideal, according to Ziegfeld, will not be a blonde. She will have a curve or two and more dimples than the present model, and she may be a little taller. She will come from refined surroundings, and even may be a college girl.

Ziegfeld says that men prefer titian-haired girls and brunets in general, and that the reputed popularity of blondes arises from their scarcity.

REED TO CHICAGO SATURDAY

Illinois Primary Inquiry Will Be Begun Next Week.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Senator Reed of Missouri, chairman of the Senate Campaign Fund Investigating Committee, expects to arrive in Chicago Saturday for the inquiry into the Illinois primary which will get under way the first of next week.

Thomas W. Cunningham, former treasurer of the Pennsylvania Republican State Committee, is the only Eastern witness summoned to appear at Chicago. The committee failed to obtain his testimony during its sessions here when it went into the recent Pennsylvania primary. It still appears probable that Senator McKinley of Illinois, who was defeated for renomination, will be unable to testify because of illness.

REFUSES GERMAN APOLOGY

Jugo-Slavia Says Writer of Article About King Must Be Prosecuted.

By the Associated Press.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, July 21.—The Politika reports that Foreign Minister Ninchitch has declined to accept an apology made by the German Minister on behalf of his Government for an assertion made in the German press to the effect that King Alexander, who was then Prince Regent, had knowledge of the intended assassination of Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Austria in 1914 and was acquainted with the murderers. It was the killing of the Archduke at Sarajevo that brought on the World War.

The Politika says it learns that M. Ninchitch insists that the German Government must prosecute the writer responsible for the assertion.

Airplane Escort for Crown Prince.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, July 21.—An aerial guard of honor will wing its way to San Bernardino today to escort Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf and Princess Louise of Sweden through Southern California to Los Angeles. Members of the Black Falcons, the 476th Pursuit Squadron, after meeting the royal visitors at San Bernardino, will circle over their train and then follow the caravan to Riverside and Pasadena, where the party will be guests at the homes of Henry E. Huntington, wealthy art collector, and S. M. Robinson, Los Angeles.

Cox Paroled From Leavenworth.

By the Associated Press.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., July 21.—Selmour E. J. Cox, Houston, Tex., oil promoter, serving an eight-year term for using the mails to defraud, was paroled from the Federal penitentiary here yesterday. Cox was convicted in 1924, and had served 23 months of his term. He departed for Houston.

Wisconsin Man Fleeced of $100,000.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 21.—Police throughout the East are seeking three alleged New York stock brokers who are said to have fleeced Julius A. Blake, wealthy Wisconsin flour dealer, out of nearly $100,000. Blake was "taken in" in an elegantly furnished brokerage office on the board walk, and after his winnings seemed to be going along successfully, the scene was transferred to Asbury Park, where Blake fell in with another group. After the "brokers" made their "killing," Blake woke up in a cottage on the Long Branch-Asbury Park road and gazed upon the four blank walls that previously were decorated with stock charts.

PASTOR-SLAYER SEEKS INDICTMENT AND EARLY TRIAL

Dr. Norris' Church Paper Alleges Some of Grand Jurors Investigating Case Are Prejudiced.

By the Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 21—The county grand jury investigating the killing Saturday of D. E. Chipps, wealthy lumberman, by the Rev. J. Frank Norris, pastor of the First Baptist Church, reconvened today, faced with a demand from the pastor that he be indicted in order to receive an early trial. Charged with murder in a complaint filed by the District Attorney, Dr. Norris said he did not wish the grand jury to return a "no true bill," as it would leave the status of the case indefinite, with the possibility that a future grand jury might indict him.

The grand jury heard six witnesses yesterday and summoned 11 new witnesses.

J. J. Mickle, public relations director of the First Baptist Church, of which Dr. Norris has been pastor for several years, said church officials were ready to testify tha. the killing was the outgrowth of a plot against the pastor. L. H. Nutt, a deacon in the church and thought to be the only eyewitness to the shooting, declared Dr. Norris shot Chipps after the lumberman had threatened to kill him if he continued attacks on Mayor H. C. Meacham and other city officials.

Charges Jurors Are Prejudiced.

Mickle has prepared an article for the Searchlight, Dr. Norris' church newspaper, giving versions of the shooting by Nutt and others. Mickle charges the grand jury contains men unfriendly to Dr. Norris.

"The present grand jury was formed a few days before the shooting and has on it prominent Roman Catholics, or men with Catholic families," said Mickle. "Also, in addition to this, there are certain well known, long standing bitter enemies of Dr. Norris on the present grand jury."

Three of the grand jurymen were pallbearers at Chipps' funeral last Sunday.

Mickle's article also charges that exception was taken to a sermon by Dr. Norris on the subject: "Six Members of the First Baptist Church fired by L. B. Haughey, Roman Catholic manager of Meacham Drygoods Co." The article also alleges that members of this faith visited Dr. Norris, asking him to drop the attacks and that Chipps' visit was part of a conspiracy to force Dr. Norris to discontinue his attacks.

Two of the witnesses examined yesterday are Nutt and Mrs. Fannie Greer, hotel switchboard operator, said to have overheard Chipps' conversation with Dr. Norris shortly before the shooting telling the pastor he was coming to the church to see him. Miss Jane Hartwell, the pastor's secretary, who was in a room adjoining at the time of the killing, is expected to go before the jury today.

Dr. Norris Wants America to Know

"This is an unusual case," Dr. Norris said. "There is perhaps not another like it on record. I am going to demand the jury indict me so I can have an open trial and everybody in America will know what is back of this thing."

Dr. Norris said he had canceled all outside engagements for a year and would stay in Fort Worth to continue revival meetings.

The text of Dr. Norris' next Sunday's sermon was announced as "The Inalienable Right of Self-Defense." The day after the killing he avoided direct mention of the shooting from his pulpit.

POLITICAL MEETING HELD BEHIND BARRED DOORS IN CITY JAIL

Head of Sixth Ward Progressive Republican Club Solves Question of Secrecy at Caucus.

When they have a Republican caucus in the Sixth Ward, they know how to keep the prying public out. Robert E. Walker, head of the Sixth Ward Progressive Republican Club, solved the question when he held a meeting of precinct workers behind two barred doors in the City Jail last night.

Walker recently spent a few weeks in Leavenworth Prison, not as a delegate to a political meeting, though other politicians were there with him. He is now at liberty on appeal bond from his conviction in the Jack Daniel whisky case. He is running for Justice of the Peace and there were some matters he wanted to talk over with the "boys." The jail was the handiest place, so the little group of politicians and city employes went into the jail and, better luck, went right out again when they were through with the business of the evening. The plan was a success, for no one seems to have found out what was done at the meeting.

Spanish War Veterans at Dinner.

Forty-two of the 1372 members of the Sixth Missouri Infantry who went into action in Cuba in the Spanish-American War met at dinner at the Elks' Club last night for their twenty-eighth annual reunion. A gavel fashioned from the axle-tree of a captured Spanish gun carriage was presented to the president of the organization, Edward H. Loffhagen, who was a Captain.

We asked them about it—

Women who are serving Wonder Bread—
All over St. Louis the answers were the same—

Here are some of them:

"It's a perfect joy to toast this new bread. Slices brown so evenly and have such a rich, nutty flavor when they're finished."

"Since I started serving Wonder Bread my family just won't eat any other kind."

"Just the kind of bread I've longed to be able to get—a real satisfying flavor! And such a convenient shape!"

"Even the children notice the difference. They seem to gobble this new bread right up!"

We knew St. Louis women liked it! For every day since we started baking Wonder Bread three weeks ago we have had to bake more and more of it.

But we wanted to know what they liked best about it.

St. Louis women have taken to Wonder Bread eagerly and delightedly not for one, but for several reasons.

Dayton women have taken to Wonder Bread eagerly and delightedly not for one, but for several reasons.

Its texture, so firm yet delicate—its crust, even and brown—its usable shape that gives uniform slices. Slices that fit the toaster and make dainty sandwiches.

Then—its flavor! Full, rich, satisfying! A flavor that makes this new loaf worthy to be served with all the good things of fine living. A difference, an appetizing goodness, that you will notice the very first time you try it.

Different in Food Value, too!

For Wonder Bread is made of the finest ingredients—ingredients selected not only for their purity and flavor but for their food value as well. That is what makes Wonder Bread more nourishing. It is why thousands of St. Louis mothers are glad to be able to serve it to active, growing children who need the utmost in wholesome nourishment.

The case of Charles P. Bland, real estate operator, and Mrs. Evelyn Fox Bland, who were arrested at the Coronado Hotel last month on complaint of his first wife, Mrs. Isabelle H. Bland of 5061 Washington boulevard, was continued until Oct. 7 by Judge Miller in Court of Criminal Correction today.

In ordering the continuance Judge Miller said he understood Mrs. Isabelle H. Bland was not "starving to death." Her attorney, Leo Rassieur, replied, "It's not because of anything the defendant (Bland) gives her that she's not starving."

Bland's attorney, Jacob Lashly, told reporters that Bland had agreed to pay his first wife $866.66 a month, give her their home, support their two children and keep up payments on $50,000 life insurance which he carried, with his first wife and the children as beneficiaries, but stopped the monthly payments when he was arrested. The arrest was based on Mrs. Isabelle H. Bland's charge that Bland's divorce from her, obtained in Yucatan, Mexico, was illegal, and therefore, his second marriage was illegal.

Attorney Lashly said Bland was being sued for separate maintenance by his first wife.

WARRANTS REFUSED FOR 11 ARRESTED IN LOTTERY RAID

Warrants were refused by Circuit Attorney Sidener and Prosecuting Attorney Schwetzer against 11 men arrested Monday afternoon in a raid by city detectives on the office of the "Business Men's Assurance Co.," 319-320 Fullerton Building, where 20,000 tickets for baseball and weather lotteries, memorandum of temperature readings and ticket sales, and cash and a check were seized as evidence.

Detective-Sergeant Mulcahy, head of the gambling squad, yesterday applied for warrants charging gambling. The warrants were refused, he reported, on the ground of insufficient evidence. The 11 men will be discharged on their bonds.

FURTHER LIGHT THROWN ON SLOT MACHINE POOL

Attorneys Abandoned Attempt to Make Case Stand Up in Court After Change of Venue.

Circuit Judge Calhoun, who dissolved Judge Ittner's temporary restraining order which protected the slot machine pool from interference by police, explained today that as soon as attorneys for the pool discovered the case had been taken on change of venue from Judge Ittner to him, they abandoned any attempt to make their case stand up in court.

There were two attorneys for the slot machine pool. Frank Coffman was attorney of record and represented the St. Louis Mint Co., which petitioned for the restraining order. Edgar V. Maher was attorney for Jacob Katz of Chicago, "big boss" of the pool, whose brother, Sol, in an exclusive interview with a Post-Dispatch correspondent Monday, said that Maher had been hired by Jacob Katz "to get that injunction."

As was first revealed by the Post-Dispatch, Maher was paid $2000 by Katz fos his efforts in behalf of the injunction, although he was not an attorney of record and did not publicly appear in the case.

Maher Refuses to Explain.

Maher has refused to explain his activities in the slot machine case and the only matter of record which has thrown a light upon them is the contract which he and Katz signed, stipulating that Katz should post $10,000 with Alex. Lewis, new accounts officer of the Liberty Central Trust Co. The money was posted and $8000 returned to Katz in Maher's presence on April 1, after Judge Ittner gave the restraining order, but nobody has explained what became of the $8000.

Judge Calhoun, in commenting on the case, said: "When the case was transferred to my court I informed Mr. Frank Coffman, attorney for the petitioner, that he might submit evidence to show his machines were not gambling devices, and in that event, I would issue a temporary injunction. The Police Department presented their case, producing seized machines to prove the gambling feature.

"The petitioner did nothing but demur to the answer filed by the Police Department. I overruled the demurrer. Mr. Coffman then announced he would plead no further. I asked him to present evidence to support his petition but he declined to do that. Consequently I dissolved the temporary restraining order, and dismissed their bill with prejudice."

Machines Soon Disappeared.

The slot machine case was thrown out of court on April 22 and police immediately began a series of raids which caused the 1200 slot machines operated by the pool to disappear in short order.

Continued investigation of the Maher-Katz contract yesterday disclosed that W. A. Rife, a shoe polish manufacturer at 2108 Papin street, was one of the witnesses to the contract. Rife said he was a personal friend of Maher's and had signed the contract because Maher asked him. He said he knew nothing of the details. The other witness was B. B. Cochran, who has not been located.

The grand jury has not investigated the slot-machine case since last Friday, when publication was made by the Post-Dispatch of the agreement which existed between Maher and Katz. Discovery of this agreement occurred during the previous grand jury's investigation of Circuit Attorney Sidener's office. While it is within the power of the grand jury to act by itself and originate an inquiry of the Maher-Katz deal, Attorney-General Gentry could not assist in this investigation without special orders from Gov. Baker. Yesterday Circuit Attorney Sidener said he would not originate such an investigation so long as there was a possibility that Gentry might take up the case. Henry A. Trorlicht, foreman of the grand jury, today declined to say whether an investigation of the case would be made.

YOUTHFUL DRIVER FINED $150

Accused of Leaving Scene of Accident.

Archie Wagner, 20 years old, of 4563 Tyrolean avenue, was fined $150 and costs by Police Judge Rosecan today on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident at Grand boulevard and Gravois avenue, May 20. The arresting police officer in the case testified he witnessed a collision of Wagner's car with one driven by Moritz Gundel, 4412 Neosho street, and that Wagner drove away from the scene with one arm around a young woman companion, without stopping.

Funeral of Dr. Kollme Tomorrow.

Funeral services for Dr. Otto Kollme, 67 years old, who died at his home, 1502 South Jefferson avenue, Monday night, will be held from the residence at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. Interment will be in Bellefoitaine Cemetery.

(With Apologies)

Somebody said that it couldn't be done,
But he with a chuckle replied,
"That maybe it couldn't,
But, that he would be one
Who wouldn't say so till he tried."
So he butted right in
With a determined old grin,
And if he had doubt—he well hid it.
And he started to sing
As he tackled the thing
That couldn't be done—and he did it.

(Without Apologies)

My friends all said, "Dave, it cannot be done."
At least no one's ever done it.
But I took off my coat—
and I rolled up my sleeves
And the first thing I knew, I begun it;
So I stuck out my chin
with a determined old grin,
Without any doubting or quit it,
And I'll leave it to you
When you visit this store,
Whether you think that I did it.

FOR Sour Stomach PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Hereafter instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

BETTER THAN SODA

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this souring waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

TRY A 25c BOTTLE

U. S. DEBT FIGURES DISPUTE CHARGES OF CHURCHILL

Treasury Supports Mellon's Contention That Much of British Loan Went Into Commercial Projects

BILLION TO SUPPORT STERLING EXCHANGE

By CHARLES MICHELSON,
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—A direct question of veracity has arisen between Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the British Exchequer, and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

Churchill charged that Mellon was "misquoted or misinformed" on the facts when he said a large part of Great Britain's borrowings from America were for purely commercial purposes, as distinguished from war purposes. Assistant Secretary Winston has made public the detailed firgures bearing out the Mellon contention.

Among the contradictions between the Treasury chiefs, the most concrete is in relation to what Great Britain spent out of her own resources. Churchill says she spent $3,000,000,000 of her own money here. The figures issued by Winston yesterday show only $850,000,000 so spent.

"From England's reported total expenditures in America from April 1, 1917, to Nov. 1, 1920," says the Treasury statement, "there should be deducted the $1,853,000,000 expenditures for which Great Britain was simply the purchasing agent of the other Allies and for which Great Britain was paid by the other Allies from money loaned to them by the United States."

Exchange and Cotton Purchases.

Deducting this amount from the total expenditures of $7,219,000,000 leaves $5,366,000,000. Of this the Treasury statement says:

"$1,682,000,000 represents 'exchange and cotton purchases.' The greater part of this expenditure was for the maintenance of sterling exchange, not necessarily for purchases in America, but which enabled England to make purchases in other countries at an undepreciated exchange rate."

More than $2,500,000,000 was for food and tobacco, part of which was resold to her own civil population and thereby avoided having to float loans in her own country. Half a billion was for interest and principal on the commercial obligations of England maturing in this country and $261,000,000 was for silver for India.

After the armistice we loaned England $581,000,000.

The Treasury statement avoids characterizing Churchill's statement but presents two columns of figures: One how the debt was incurred and the other how it was paid, but the net effect is a flat contradiction of the story the Britain Chancellor told Parliament.

The data was issued because the Treasury is weary of the constant implication that this country is acting like an international shylock in the debt settlements.

Mellon's Representations Assailed.

Senators and Congressmen here rose to show any great amount of interest in the Churchill-Mellon controversy, but vigorously assailed Mellon for his representations to them as to the other settlements, which the Secretary of the Treasury also explained in his reply to Frederick W. Peabody's demand for cancellation of the foreign debts.

"When settlements were pending before Congress it was vigorously and aggressively asserted by the spokesman for Mr. Mellon that every dollar of the principal of the debt with Italy was being collected," said Hiram Johnson (Rep.) of California.

"Mr. Mellon now says, in substance, we receive nothing for loans made during the war, and that the present value of our settlements with various countries is less than the loans made to them after the armistice. In the case of Italy, he says that after the war was over, the United States loaned Italy $40,000,000, and that the present value of our debt settlement with Italy is $420,000,000.

Cites Italian Settlement.

"Mr. Mellon is to be congratulated on his belated frankness; but now that the deed is done, and there is no longer need of muddling the situation or fooling our people, why not tell the whole story? Not only the Italian settlements, as Mr. Mellon now says, do we forgive the sum loaned Italy during the war, but accept in full about half the present values of money loaned after the war; but under an utterly absurd theory of 'capacity to pay,'

Mellon Contends Debt Funding Was Virtual Cancellation of Anglo-French War Obligations

Pre-Armistice Borrowings Practically Wiped Out by U. S., Said Treasury Head in Reply to Plea for Abatement.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Following is the text of the now famous letter of Secretary Mellon to Frederick W. Peabody, which drew the fire of Winston Churchill in the House of Commons during the debate on the Franco-British debt settlement. It caused the Chancellor of the Exchequer to remark that Mellon's "complete misapprehension of the facts is so curious as to make me almost doubt the authenticity of the statement.

July 14, 1926.

Dear Sir:

By reference from the President I have your letter of June 30, 1926, urging cancellation by the United States of the so-called war debts. Your arguments are confused, but I believe your points can be fairly summarized as follows:

1. As a legal proposition. Taking into account the message of President Wilson, the debates in Congress and the First Liberty Loan act authorizing advances to our allies, the United States made a gift and not a loan and neither party expected repayment.

2. As an equitable proposition. Advances were made while the allies were fighting our battle for us and before we could put an adequate military force in the field, and, therefore, the loans represent part of the cost to us of the war and should be canceled.

3. As a charitable proposition. American being wealthy and prosperous and the European countries being poor and heavily taxed, we should, in the interest of humanity, cancel the debts.

Initial Authority.

The initial authority for the advances to foreign Governments occurs in the First Liberty Loan act, passed just after we declared war. As a lawyer, you know that the interpretation of legislation unambiguous on its face is determined from its language and not from expressions in debates on the floor of the Congress. But even ignoring this rule of construction, a reading of President Wilson's message and of the debates shows no ground for your arguments. The most that can be said of any expression you quote is a willingness on the part of the speaker to make the loans even if our debtors may not be good risks. This is far from an intention to make a gift of the advances. Let us, however, consider the act itself.

The law is declared to be "for the purpose of more effectually providing for the national security and defense and prosecuting the war by establishing credits in the United States for foreign governments." A reading of Section 2 is convincing that loans and not subsidies were intended. The United States is authorized to purchase at par the obligations of foreign Governments.

As to rate of interest and other essentials the foreign Government's obligations are to have the same terms and conditions as United States obligations (Liberty Bonds) issued under the authority of the act. Arrangements are to be made for purchasing the foreign Government obligations and for the subsequent payment thereof before maturity. If United States bonds are converted into bonds bearing a higher interest rate, the obligations of foreign Governments are likewise to be converted.

In Section 3 of the same act the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to receive on or before maturity payment of the foreign Government obligations; to sell the obligations at not less than the purchase price, and to apply the proceeds of any payments made on account of the obligations to the retirement of the debt of the United States.

Clear That They Were Loans.

It is clear that when the advances were made to our allies they knew and we knew that they were loans, not gifts. From the time of the original advances to date no responsible authority in the United States Government has suggested cancellation, and each of our debtor nations, except Russia, has recognized the debt created by the advances and has offered to pay. The only question for discussion in each settlement has been the extent of the capacity of the debtor to make payment of an acknowledged liability.

Your second proposition is that the Allies held the line with men until we could deliver an army and, therefore cash advances made during this period by the United States were our contribution to the general cause of the war and should be canceled.

I shall not dispute with you the exact date when we became an effective force on the Western front nor as to the time or extent of our service at sea. We will assume America, as you infer, contributed nothing military or naval to the common cause, but only gave financial support. Even then you will have to admit that advances made to our Allies after the armistice, when the war was over, cannot be considered as a contribution pending effective entry into battle or as saving American lives.

Status of Debtors.

We can eliminate at once, therefore, loans made entirely after the armistice to Finland, Esthonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Austria, Armenia and Rumania. The Allies to which we did make advances while the war was on are England, France, Italy, Belgium, Serbia and Russia. As the figures I shall give will show, if we admit your argument is sound, England alone is concerned.

The debt settlements have been negotiated on the basis of the capacity of the particular debtor to pay. None could pay its signed obligations as called for by their terms. Accordingly, payment of the principal had to be extended and the period of 62 years set in the British agreement has been followed in all other agreements. If the debtor nations paid the United States a rate of interest on the postponed installments equivalent to the cost of money to us, we would receive in present value payment of the full debt.

Since, however, such an interest rate is beyond the capacity of any of our debtors to pay, the United States, has, of necessity, accepted less than the full value of the debt to the extent the interest to be received under the settlement is below the cost of money to the United States, now about 4¼ per cent.

Looking at the matter from the standpoint of the debtor nation, the debtor has received a concession in its debt to the extent the interest to be paid by it is below the cost of money to the debtor. The obligations taken by us from our debtors carry the interest rate of 5 per cent per annum. Since this rate is less than most of the debtor nations now have to pay for money, the rate of 5 per cent is certainly a fair measure of the real burden put upon them by the settlements.

Let us see what relation the burden of our debt settlements bears to our loans after the armistice. In this way we can determine accurately our real contribution in money to the joint cause of the war.

The English Debt.

In the case of England, post-armistice advances with interest amounted to $660,000,000 and the present value of the entire debt settlement is $3,297,000,000. It must be remembered that England borrowed a large proportion of its debt to us for purely commercial as distinguished from war purposes—to meet its commercial obligations maturing in America, to furnish India with silver, to buy food to be resold to its civilian population, and to maintain exchange. Our loans to England were not so much to provide war supplies as to furnish sterling for home and foreign needs and to save England from borrowing from its own people.

France's after-the-war indebtedness with interest amounts to $1,655,000,000. The settlement negotiated by Ambassador Berenger with the American Debt Funding Commission has a present value of $1,681,000,000.

Belgium's post-armistice borrowings with interest were $258,000,000 and the present value of the settlement is $192,000,000. In addition, Belgium has a share of the German reparations sufficient to pay her prearmistice debt to America.

With Italy the situation is similar. Its post-armistice indebtedness with interest is $800,000,000, and the present value of its debt settlement is $426,000,000.

It is the same as regards Serbia.

In view of these facts, in what respect do you still believe America has been unfair to its allies?

France and Reparations.

The statement is made in your letter that the French debt settlement takes annually about 60 per cent of the German reparation payments which France is to receive. I believe you are not correctly informed. France, in addition to reparations already received from Germany, is to be paid under the Dawes plan 52 per cent of a maximum reached three years from now of 2,500,000,000 gold marks (625,000,000) after certain charges, about $300,000,000 annually. The maximum annual payment required of France under our settlement is $125,000,000, reached after the sixteenth year.

I think you will find that the reparations receivable from Germany by Belgium, France and Italy are more than the payments those nations have agreed to make on their indebtedness to both the United States and to England.

I come now to your third proposition: That to preserve our self-respect and retain the affection of foreign nations for America we must as a charity cancel the debts. A creditor is never popular, but a debtor without credit is not in an enviable position. England's prompt and courageous attitude when first of all others it sought a settlement of its debt seems to me to have been rewarded in her present sound financial position, a rock in the turbulent seas of monetary instability now washing over the other allied nations. Are you so sure that your policy of cancellation will mean a happier future for a world which will only continue to trust those who keep a promise once made?

When cancellation of debts is viewed from the standpoint of the United States you fail to recognize that the Debt Commission, the President and the Congress are not in their individual capacities according to sentiment, but are trustees for those they represent, the American people. If these foreign debts are canceled, the United States is not released from its obligation to pay the very bonds which were sold to our citizens to make the advances to the foreign governments. We must collect through taxation from our people if our debtors do not pay to us what they can.

No Demand for Cancellation.

You call this a "specious reason," but nevertheless, again as a lawyer, you must know the duty of a trustee. Were these trustees as certain as you seem to be that their cestuiqui trust, the American people, demand a cancellation of the debts, it is within the province of popular government to carry out that mandate. But neither generally from the people, the press, nor at all from the chosen representatives of the people in Congress, has come this demand.

I have, as have you and every other good citizen, a profound sympathy for the countries suffering from the after results of the great war which we in America have to a large extent escaped. But I feel that a recognition of their external obligations by the European nations and an undertaking bravely to meet them within their capacity as each country has done is a moral force of great service to permanent prosperity in the world.

I cannot agree with you that England is on the edge of destruction. It is most sound of heart, as its recent solution of a general strike has shown to all. Other countries are in monetary difficulties, but the very acuteness of the disease has brought a clear understanding of the causes and of the proper remedies. Dark as the financial sky now appears, I believe Europe is today closer to a permanent sound solution of its economic troubles than at any time since the war. The danger is there, but with it the courage to fight. I do not despair of Europe. Very truly yours,

A. W. MELLON,
Secretary of the Treasury.

HOW SENEGALEE BUGLER SAVED GARRISON IN MOROCCO

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, July 21.—France is proud of the record of its Negro troops, its Senegalese riflemen, in the Moroccan campaign. Here is the citation accorded the black bugler, Mongogo, who, under Capt Auboin, helped to hold the post of Aoulai for 12 days against odds of 100 to 1. "Splendid rifleman worthy of the highest recompense May 10, 1925, being on guard in a tower flanking the post, caliantly withstood a violent bombardment. Badly bruised, he noticed that the enemy was trickling into the defensive organizations of the post. With an absolute scorn for danger tillery had effected. Feeling the who appeared at a breach the arhe felled the first three enem. e danger which threatened the garrison, powerless to guard all points at once, he arose bravely and furiously blew the charge, electrifying his comrades and himself dashed first upon the enemy, still blowing his bugle. Undoubtedly on that day, by his audacity and fine intrepidity, he saved the post of Aoulai. Every night at 7, without being told and in whatever momentary situation, always blew the salute to the colors, thus contributing to keep up the magnificent morale of all, Europeans and natives."

BRITISH DOCTORS INVESTIGATE SPIRITUAL HEALING METHODS

President of Medical Association Admits Relation Between Mind and Body.

Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, July 21.—Between mind and body, between religion and nature, there exists not opposition, but relation, declared R. G. Hogarth, F. R. C. S., in an address today to the British Medical Association, of which he is president.

"We do not, indeed, know very much about it," he said, "but there is always room for patient inquiry and the whole of our profession will await with an impartial mind the result of the labors of a joint committee which has been appointed to investigate the phenomena of what is generally called spiritual healing.

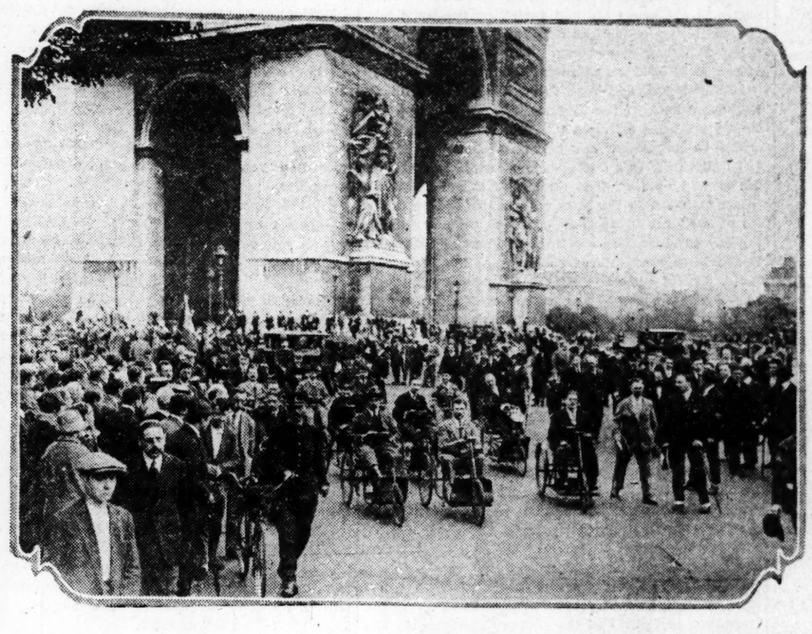

"I say with confidence, however, that any systematized creed which professes to dispense with the art of medicine and surgery is false to the divine."

BROOKHART BACK IN FOLD OF IOWA G. O. P.

State Republican Convention Keynote Speech Praises Him.

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., July 21.—Iowa Republicans, in State convention here today, turned somewhat away from the usual political trend of such gatherings and took up the fight of the Midwest farmers for enactment of agricultural relief measures.

The plight of the farmers and sectional opposition to legislation which the Midwest desires was the chief theme of the convention keynote speaker, Dan W. Turner of Corning, and the platform to be adopted late today was expected to center around that subject.

The convention otherwise was a peace meeting, factional differences that have divided the party for the past six years having been laid aside since the June primary reinstalled Col. Smith W. Brookhart as the party's nominee for the United States Senate.

Col. Brookhart was accorded a place on the platform, along with the veteran Senator, Albert B. Cummins, whom he defeated for renomination in June, and other leaders of the regular group that has vigorously opposed the insurgent Brookhart in the past.

A new State Central Committee, regarded as friendly to Col. Brookhart was chosen in district caucuses prior to the convention.

Gentle With Coolidge.

The "failure of President Coolidge to espouse the cause of the agricultural states," Turner said, was regarded more "in sorrow than in anger."

"It is hard to believe that he will remain obdurate in the face of our just demand. However, we will continue with all our resources to battle for recognition of the principle that injustice to one section will inevitably bring disaster to all."

At the same time, the temporary chairman applauded former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, sometimes mentioned as a possible presidential candidate, declaring "we age grateful beyond measure for his virile leadership and sage counsel."

Although factional differences were not touched on in his prepared address, nor was the word "harmony" mentioned, the "preconvention predictions that peace would be sought at the convention was indicated by his praise of Cummins and Brookhart. The latter, in 1924, was branded as a party "traitor" by the Republican State Central Committee because of his opposition to President Coolidge.

Advocating an agricultural surplus control bill, Turner called attention to the pledge of the Republican national platform for the enactment of measures to place agriculture on an "economic equality with other industry" and declared that "in the face of this explicit promise, Republican Congressmen of the Eastern states, last month, joined with the majority of Democrats in Congress to defeat a bill embodying the principle for which we contend."

This, he said, presented the "interesting spectacle of a coalition not new in the American Congress, when the representatives of special privilege join together, regardless of politics, to defeat sound legislation."

Possible Attack on Tariff.

He said that Iowa Republicans would oppose an attack on the protective tariff doctrine "unless we are forced to make one by the continued opposition to the stabilization of agriculture" on the part of beneficiaries of protection in other industries.

"If our plan to stabilize agriculture is unsound, the whole theory of a protective tariff is unsound.

To defeat Brookhart now, Turner said, "would be interpreted by statesmen of the Atlantic Seaboard as evidence of a division in Iowa on the vital question of stabilization of America's greatest industry."

FONCK AND ELLSWORTH PLAN FRESH AERIAL CONQUESTS

Former to Attempt New York-Paris Flight—Latter to Seek Land Near Pole.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Two new air expeditions, one by the French ace, Rene Fonck, the other by Lincoln Ellsworth, who accompanied Raold Amundsen on the Norge flight over the North Pole, are in prospect.

Capt. Fonck plans to start his non-stop New York to Paris flight as soon after August 10 as weather conditions permit. His three-motored Sikorsky plane is nearing completion at Roosevelt Field, L. I. A new radio station with the call letters WPO will supply the plane with compass checks and weather observations.

Ellsworth said he had in mind an aerial exploration to determine whether there is land north of Greenland, and that he would command this new expedition himself. His statement was made yesterday in denying assertions by Gen. Umberto Nobile that the flight of the Norge would have been impossible without the Italian officer as commander.

FUNDAMENTALIST IS GIVEN RANKING VOTE BY KIWANIANS

Ties With International President of Club as Most Interesting Luncheon Speaker.

Two ministers—one a Tennessee fundamentalist university president—rank with a baseball player-manager and the international president of Kiwanis as most interesting speakers from the point of view of the Kiwanis Club, according to answers of members to questionnaires covering 18 luncheon-and-speech meetings since Jan. 7.

The oratory of the fundamentalist tied the head of Kiwanis with 93 per cent. The ball player's popularity was 92 per cent; the second minister's, 90; a vaudeville versifier's, 82; a banker's and a physical director's, both 76; a professor's, 75, with talks on nature, Boy Scouts, the drama and international affairs ranging from 76 to 87 per cent.

I. C. STARTS ELECTRIC TRAINS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Seventy years from the day it operated its first train, the Illinois Central Railroad today sent over its suburban line to the South Side of Chicago the first electrically operated train ever run over a Chicago steam road. The train carried passengers to the road's suburban station at Sixty-seventh street and its operation marked the beginning of electric suburban service, which will be fully under way early in August. Electrification of the suburban service of the Illinois Central will be followed by electrification of the passenger and freight services.

CHURCH LAW HASTENS BAPTISM IN MEXICO

Confirmations in Capital Rise 50 Per Cent — Act Effective July 31.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, July 21.—Opposition to the new religious regulations is manifested among the wealthiest Catholics in society and among the poorest of Indian families. The Indians, alarmed over reports that all churches may be closed, are swarming into Catholic churches and having their infants baptized and their elder children confirmed. Women are declining invitations to balls or are refusing to dance if they attend. They make the plea that their fellow Catholics are in distress and it is incumbent upon them to avoid pleasure as much as possible.

It is estimated that more than 1000 infants were baptized in Mexico City Cathedral within the last week and that there has been an increase of 50 per cent in confirmations in the churches of the city generally.

Regulations which became fully effective July 31 provide that only Mexican priests may officiate at religious services, that all church property shall be confiscated and that religious instruction may not be given in schools.

United States Consul-General Waddell, acting under special authorization by the State Department at Washington, has issued passport visas to 11 Spanish and eight French nuns, who within a week will proceed to the United States. It is their desire to leave Mexico before the new regulations are put into effect. It is understood that 50 or 60 other French and Spanish nuns, who also could obtain United States visas, have decided to remain in Mexico and await developments. They intend to leave their schools and cease all religious activity. They will live in the homes of friends until the situation becomes definite.

Major-General William S. Graves will surrender command of the sixth corps area to his successor and proceed to the Panama Canal department for assignment to command of the Panama Canal division.

Major-General Charles H. Martin will relinquish his post as chief of the Panama Canal division and take over that vacated by Gen. Lassiter as commander of the Panama Canal department. Gen. Lassiter has only recently returned from Arica where he was in charge of the arrangements for a proposed plebiscite.

Bearings by Radio Guid Airplane.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—The successful guiding of a naval plane from a distance of 45 miles by radio compass bearings from a ship has been reported by the Navy Department. A plane from the cruiser Richmond went out 45 miles, the personnel on the ship not knowing in which direction. Signals were picked up by the plane and it was given the course back to the ship, corrections of the course being sent at intervals. Following these the pilot brought the plane directly over the Richmond.

'PROTECTION FOR ALL OR NONE,' NOW ISSUE IN IOWA

BOTH MAJOR PARTIES OBJECTS OF CENSURE

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., July 21.—The Corn Belt Committee and the Eleven-State Committee of 22 have agreed upon a definite program of farm legislation and censured both major parties for "abandoning campaign promises." They outlined a program yesterday identical with that rejected by the last Congress and which is essentially "protection for all industries, agriculture included as a peer, or as a last resort, protection for none."

"Protection for All or None."

The Corn Belt Committee, composed of farm and co-operative organization heads, says in resolutions:

"We are in favor of maintaining American standards for all of our people, and we favor retaining the protecting system that has developed in this country, but only in case it is made equitable by extending it to the great surplus crops of agriculture.

"We recognize the responsibility of making agricultural readjustments to meet constantly changing economic conditions, but insist that if the protective system for industry is to be maintained, agriculture is entitled to the full benefits secured by adjustments in methods and volume of production and by elimination of waste and improvement of efficiency in distribution."

Wants Hoover Investigated.

The resolutions concluded with condemnation of various forces "which have been moving toward the subordination of agriculture" and suggested the activities of Herbert Hoover as subject for investigation under a resolution introduced in the last Congress by Senator Wheeler, along with "investigation of speculative manipulations of the grain markets, alleged suppression of facts regarding such manipulation by the Department of Agriculture and the circumstances surrounding the restoration of gambling in 'puts and calls' by the Chicago Grain Exchange."

The Corn Belt Committee also took steps toward a closer alliance of the Western Republican corn belt and the Southern Democratic cotton belt when it arranged to hold meetings in border states before the next session of Congress.

The Committee of Twenty-two, made up largely of bankers and manufacturers, decided to carry on its fight for relief, to include committeemen from other Western and Southern states which desire representation and to finance its battle for congressional adoption of its program by appealing to State Legislatures for appropriations.

PROPHECY OF THE PYRAMID IN ERROR, NOTHING HAPPENS

Zero Hour in London Finds Prognosticator Asleep; He Has Explanation.

LONDON, July 21.—Something is evidently wrong with the supposed architectural allegory in the great pyramid of Gizeh. The Rev. Walter Wynn, Non-Conformist pastor of the United Free Church of the suburb of Chesham, had announced that "something important in the world's history" would happen yesterday, or on or about July 20. Reconsultation with the data of the pyramid fixed the hour at 4 a. m. today.

Big Ben of Westminster and the great bell of St. Paul's Cathedral boomed the zero hour without any momentous happening. Londoners generally took little more than passing interest in the prediction. Most people were sound asleep at the zero hour, including the Rev. Mr. Wynn. His rest was unperturbed, because anyway he could point to the critical financial situation in France as upholding the prediction of the pyramid.

Two Bombing Attempts in Silesia.

WARSAW, Poland, July 21.—Two attempts at bombing occurred in Silesia yesterday. One bomb exploded in the house of a pro-German priest; the other was found in the office of the nationalistic newspaper Polonia, belonging to Adelbert Korfanty, who headed a revolt in Upper Silesia in 1921. The police suspect that both bombs were placed by the same organization.

County Coming on All Right.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

YOUR wistful, if gently sarcastic, editorial of Monday on "St. Louis and the County" leaves too much unsaid. A discussion of the brass tacks of the problem would be more to the point. Section 6, for example, of the city plan—what it means, or rather what it doesn't mean. Also that little pleasantry about six aldermanic wards elected at large. You might tell us what's the total bonded indebtedness of the city. And when is the city going to give us fire and police protection, etc., with annual deficits ahead. (See Comptroller Nolte's recent letter to Mayor Miller.)

These are just a few points. Of course, we deplore not having a symphony orchestra, but we have nature's orchestra of crickets, etc., and the bassoon of frogs. We haven't much, yet, of the finer things, but what can you expect near-orphans to have? The city failed grievously to provide for its children when it divorced us in 1876. But we are getting there—watch us after the next General Assembly, when some of the present fool laws are remedied. I'll venture to remark, even the intelligentsia of the city, who believe these finer things, "material and spiritual," can be ours only by grace of the city's paternal directing hand, will wonder.

We are going to transform "hodge-podge" into co-ordination ourselves—thank you. Yet through all this there is a keen regret that we cannot see our way to that closer intimacy you refer to. It is good to know that after all our city cousins are yearning to take us to their bosom. LOUIS F. FUCHS.

Is This a Free Country?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

ABOUT 22,000 charitably inclined respectable citizens of St. Louis, including Mayor Miller, gathered at Sportsman's Park in order to raise funds to alleviate the sufferings of those afflicted with tuberculosis. In what way could citizens engage in a more worthy cause? And yet we are informed by the press that the young ladies engaged in that work were in danger of arrest if they sold their score cards. They, therefore, had to sneak around with one eye on the police and resort to a deception to dispose of their cards in order to obey a senseless ruling of a fanatical Police Board.

Such things are enough to make George Washington turn in his grave. Are we living in a free country or under a dictatorial form of Government? Are the police the servants of the people, from whom they derive their authority, and who pay them their wage, or are they the master and we the serf?

Is it not high time that the citizens arose en masse to call upon Gov. Baker and demand their liberty, which is guaranteed them under the Constitution of the United States and the State of Missouri? NICODEMUS.

Still Want That Rain Check.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

NOTED the inclosed clipping in your good paper the other evening, entitled, "Where Are the Rain Checks?"

I am fully in accord with the gentleman who complains about the raw deal the Municipal Theater management gave us the week of "Il Trovatore" and in particular the night we were drenched to the skin by the heavy rain and with less than half of the performance over.

I have seen this particular opera many times during my lifetime and know that less than half of same had been given and, naturally, the cash customers were entitled to rain checks.

I have been a regular visitor to the theater these many seasons and average three tickets per week and dare say have not missed more than four of the operas in all that time and am a "booster," but when the management decrees to pull off the "stuff" they did above referred to, surely they can't expect to retain the good will of the public.

Broadcast the Baseball Games.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WHAT is the matter with the good radio stations of St. Louis that not one of them can broadcast the Cardinal baseball games play by play? Most every other city whose team is considered to have an outside chance to win the pennant, such as the Chicago Cubs and Washington Senators, broadcast their games, and here you in St. Louis have a "one-two team" and don't think enough of it to even broadcast the final score.

There are at least a hundred Cardinal fans in this community alone who await anxiously the final scores as given by station WOC, Davenport, Ia., each night.

Why not wake up, St. Louis radio stations, and give the Cards and fans your support by broadcasting their games play by play each day?

St. Louis has never had a world series, so let's all pull together and give Rogers Hornsby's team pep and support, and cop the big flag. FRED STEVENS.

MR. ARNOLD'S BIG "IF".

Glendy B. Arnold, counsel for the Chamber of Commerce, trying to get around the obstacles in the way of transferring the Eads Bridge and tunnel to the city for its free use in exchange for the Municipal Bridge, hangs another big "if" on the transaction.

Mr. Arnold, in his first opinion, submitted in 1922, declared that the Eads Bridge and tunnel could not be turned over to the city under the terms of the proposed ordinance without forfeiting the lease. He quoted the lease itself as definitely binding the Terminal Railroad Association to continued operation of the Eads Bridge and tunnel for the purpose originally intended, and that the extinction of tolls on the upper deck of the Eads Bridge, with the use of the tunnel for a different purpose, or its destruction, would be impossible under the lease.

To eliminate this obstacle, Mr. Arnold suggests in his second opinion that an act of Congress be obtained suspending the lease and permitting the transfer of the Eads Bridge and tunnel to the city for different uses than those defined in the franchise and in the lease, without invalidating the franchise.

Mr. Arnold says he believes that Congress would pass such an act upon the request of the cities of St. Louis and East St. Louis, to which the Eads Bridge and tunnel would revert in the event of the forfeiture of the franchise.

The city of St. Louis, however, wants to extinguish the tolls in perpetuity and wants to destroy the tunnel and clear the way for a subway. The so-called suspension of the lease, therefore, by act of Congress would forever prevent the use of the bridge and the tunnel for the purposes originally intended. The act would not suspend but practically invalidate the franchise and the lease for all time.

Would not an act of Congress in effect invalidating the franchise and lease result in the complete ownership of the Eads Bridge and tunnel by the cities of St. Louis and East St. Louis? Under the law and the franchise, forfeiture of the franchise turns over the bridge and the tunnel to the two cities.

Would the owners and lessors of the Eads Bridge and tunnel consent to this radical forfeiture of their rights? Would they not vigorously combat the forfeiture of their rights in the franchise and in the lease by an act of Congress?

Would Congress pass an act practically forfeiting the franchise and the lease and destroying the rights of the owners and lessors of the bridge and tunnel without their consent?

If the Terminal Railroad Association and its attorney believe that the owners of the Eads Bridge and tunnel would consent to this radical act of Congress, why do they not get their consent to the transfer of the bridge and tunnel to the city? Mr. Arnold's second opinion suggests a remedy upon which hangs several doubtful contingencies. It requires:

An act of Congress ostensibly suspending and practically destroying the franchise and the lease on the Eads Bridge and tunnel.

The consent of the owners and lessors of the bridge and tunnel to this radical action.

The approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Railroad Commissions of Missouri and Illinois.

Joint action of the cities of St. Louis and East St. Louis to obtain the act of Congress and the approval of the State Commissions.

Mr. Arnold suggests a long, rough road, paved with obstacles to the attainment of the goal, through his way of reaching it.

That Mr. Arnold is not confident that his suggested remedy is efficacious, is clearly indicated by another suggestion containing the big "if," namely, "if the railroads are prevented in any unforeseen way from giving the city the use of the Eads Bridge and tunnel, they shall pay the city a rental for their use of the Municipal Bridge."

In short, the Terminal Railroad Association is to obtain as a certainty the complete control of the Municipal Bridge, with power to levy tribute on all railroads outside of the association.

If Mr. Arnold's scheme doesn't work, the Terminal Railroad Association will control all of the railroad bridges in St. Louis, including the tunnel, and the city will get a rental for the Municipal Bridge. A rental will be paid out of the profitable tribute levied by the Terminal on independent railroads and terminals.

The Terminal Railroad Association will be complete master of the St. Louis railroad gateway.

Probably the King of Italy stands it by observing how much George V has to do with the Government of England.

JOHN DREW.

Is Ulysses home from the wars? Has John Drew retired from the stage? You can wager your last pot of grease paint to the contrary. On the eve of his seventy-third birthday, John Drew made what was reported to be his last public appearance at the East Hampton, L. I., voluntary firemen's dinner. But it takes more than a crew of voluntary firemen to extinguish a theatrical flame that has been burning steadily since 1873, when as a youth of 20 Drew made his first appearance. On the morning after that night before, John Drew denied that he had made his last public appearance or that he had retired from the stage. In fact, he is looking for a suitable play for next season.

When Drew was born, Thespis was accoucheur. His mother was an actress, his father was an Irish comedian. His aunt, Georgia Drew, was to bear the brilliant brood of Barrymores, Ethel, Lionel and John. Drew grew up in the glare of the footlights and in the atmosphere of the green room. He never became a great actor. He lacks the inner fire which, through some Mendelian process, went down to the Barrymores, but he has had few superiors in the grace and polish with which he adorns a part.

We do not know what luck he will have in finding a part which fits him. In the 90's, when the drawing-room or so-called society drama was in vogue, John Drew's services were at a premium. He wears a dinner jacket or a morning coat with utmost distinction. His manners are impeccable. His voice has all the polite cadences. But John Drew would make a poor hairy ape. He could not qualify as a Captain Flagg. No producer would think of using him in "Desire Under the Elms." In John Drew's prime, soft eyes looked love to eyes that spake again, and gentlemen still squired dames in courtly fashion, but those days have gone—perhaps forever. In the theater nowadays, we see life in bleeding slices, stripped of the amenities of the drawing room.

Nevertheless, we are glad that the voluntary firemen did not quench him who is known as the dean of the American stage. We should like to see John Drew again, and still again. Why doesn't somebody dust off "The Importance of Being Earnest" and give John Drew a job in the cast? We think such a performance would, in the current vernacular of the stage, be a veritable wow.

AFTER HERRIOT?

M. Herriot has succeeded in forming a Cabinet, but there is no expectation anywhere that the new Premier will succeed in rescuing the drowning franc, nor is there any expectation that the Herriot Government will be anything but a futile episode in a protracted story of parliamentary incapacity.

This lack of confidence in Herriot is abundantly justified. If he has any plan for solving his country's desperate finances he has not disclosed it. He is reported to be opposed to debt settlements, especially the American settlement. He is also reported as opposed to stabilizing the currency by means of foreign loans. Those two negations, however, will do nothing to check the descent of the tobogganing franc. As a matter of fact, everybody with any authority to speak on the subject at all accepts foreign loans as indispensable to France's financial recovery and stability, and foreign loans in this instance mean American loans. Meantime there is no prospect of an American loan until the Berenger-Mellon accord is ratified. So the Herriot premiership, apparently, is palsied with hopelessness.

The precarious official tenure of M. Herriot is emphasized by the makeup of the Chamber of Deputies, in which there is no responsible majority and in which the new Premier has no dependable following. He undertakes his task with the qualified support of the Socialists and the unqualified opposition of the Republican Union, which, with its 104 members, is the second largest bloc in the Chamber. By what legerdemain he can hope to remain in power or prepare a program satisfactory to a majority of the Chamber is not conceivable.

In fairness to Herriot it should be said that he did not direct the latest fight against Briand with the promise that, if given the opportunity, he would formulate a solution for his country's ills. He objected to the grant of dictatorial powers which Briand and Caillaux were asking. As a conscientious parliamentarian he could not approve the abdication of Parliament. That was his reason for vacating his presiding officer's chair to lead the charge from the floor. He was doubtless sincere. Still, Briand properly reminded his antagonist that he, too, had a conscience, and that in asking for the ministerial right to find a cure for his country's distress he, too, was sincere.

It was unnecessary, of course, for Briand to review the two years of parliamentary stalemate during which France has steadily drifted towards the rocks. But that is the fundamental trouble with France. Her parliamentary government has not been able to function. Her Chamber of Deputies is simply a congeries of blocs with a diabolical genius for obstruction, but with no adequate sense of responsibility and no talent for getting together and agreeing upon what had to be done. Briand did propose the abdication of Parliament, but it was a limited and strictly constitutional abdication, which the national emergency imperatively urged. Herriot would have none of it. To him a Parliament, however incompetent or even impotent, is sacred and must be preserved, even though the country go to smash. Briand faced realities. Herriot, shutting his eyes to realities, flamed forth in academic patriotism.

Herriot is a gesture. He will pass. But France's long inflation spree is about done. The cold dawn of her day of reckoning is already graying the horizon.

If the wet and dry issue "is not in its nature a political question," as Senator Williams contends, why did his managers appoint eight advisers to confer with him and discover what he thinks about it?

A UNIQUE SENATORIAL RECORD.

A newspaper supporter of Senator Williams says that he has made "a most unusual record, considering the short time he has served in the Senate."

"Unusual" puts it mildly. If any Senator in the same space of time has been on both sides of more questions than has the junior Senator from Missouri we should like to know his name. Meantime, the prize for elasticity must go to Senator Williams.

THE DEMOCRATS WAKE.

Strange as it may seem, the Democrats are waking up. They have been thinking about their two-thirds rule, which Andrew Jackson fastened upon the party in 1832 to keep John C. Calhoun from being nominated for the vice presidency, and want to get rid of it.

The Democratic State Committees of Iowa, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Dakota and Idaho have already renounced it, as has the state convention of Washington. Only nine members of the Democratic National Committee are said to favor it. It is something of which the party should rid itself. After it split the Democratic party and elected Lincoln in 1860 it did neither the party nor the country a good turn until it gave us Woodrow Wilson in 1912. It has usually eliminated strong men in the conventions and nominated weak men. It has made possible the disastrous deadlocks such as ruined the party in the New York convention two years ago.

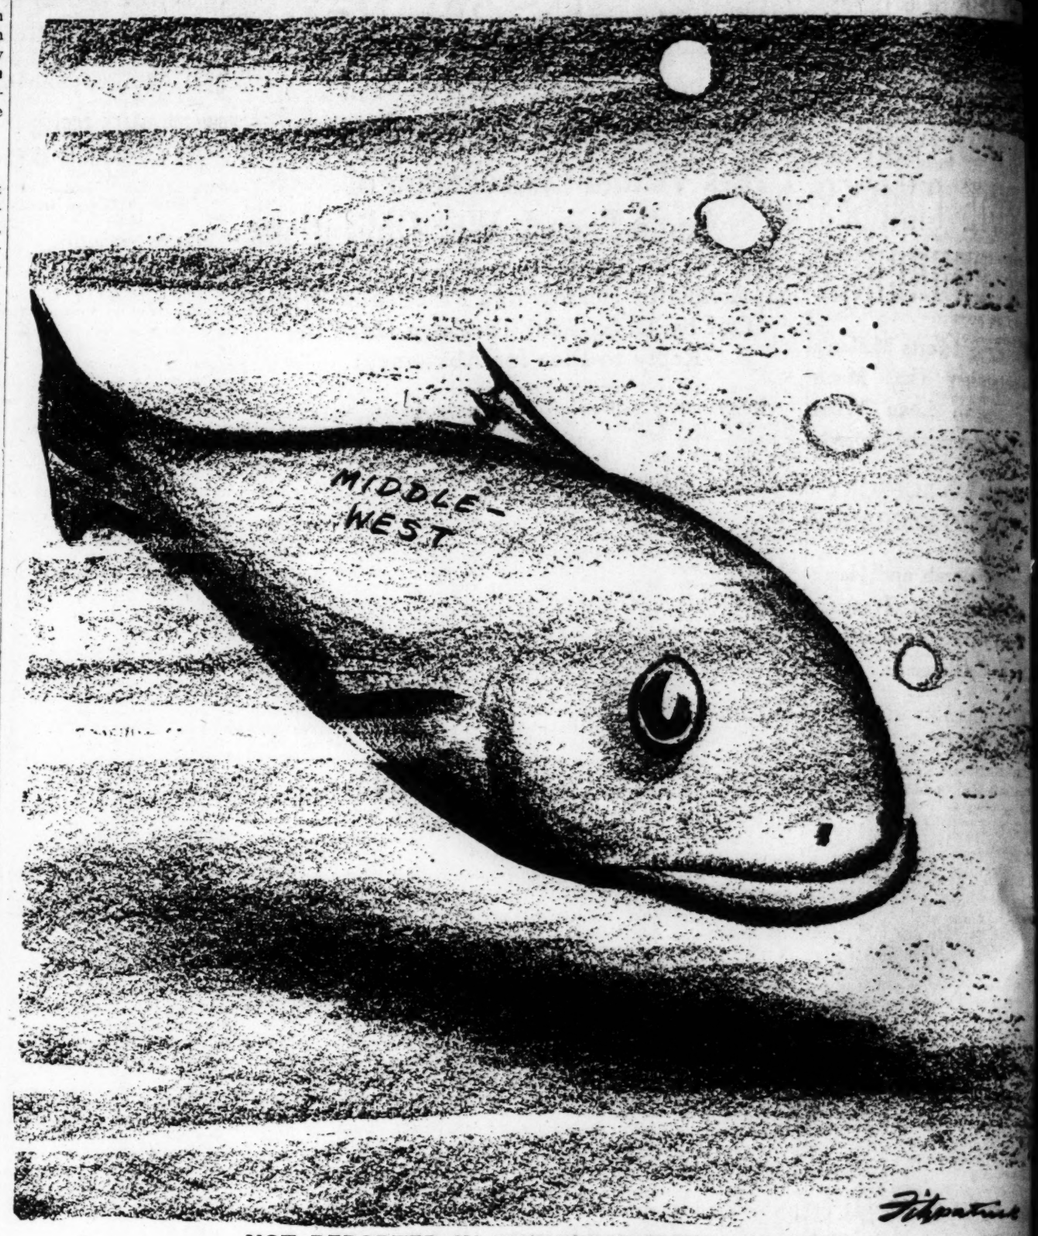

The Democrats see this, and they are everywhere moving toward the majority plan, which will almost certainly govern the next Democratic national convention. The only considerable influence in the party holding out against it is Tammany, which has in mind the political fortunes of Tammany and not those of the party.

Herriot and Briand seem to be working in shifts.

INTERNATIONAL STUFF.

The British Government, no doubt, is now breathing easier. Gen. Andrews, after studying the liquor problem in London, announces his conviction that liquor shipments from England which eventually arrive at Rum Row, off New York, mostly are within the law so far as their departure from England is concerned. If the contrary had been the case, we suppose the Pooh Bah of American prohibition enforcement would have given John Bull a good spanking.

Mr. Kiel says he cannot understand how people professing to be dry can vote for Priest, which shows how easily a politician can assume the guise of innocence.

NOTES FROM A TRANSATLANTIC DIARY.

Special Correspondence to "Just-A-Minute."

A day on ship is best spent out on deck. Deck tennis is the best form of exercise, although there are shuffleboard and walking for those less inclined to violent exercise. Deck tennis is similar to tennis, excepting balls and rackets are not used. The court can be any size, and lacks alleys. In place of balls and rackets one uses a quoit and one's hands. One catches the quoit and returns it over a net strung as high as a volley ball net. Service and return of the quoit is always underhand. So is the scoring.

When the ship's orchestra played a Scotch reel, the Scots present hooted or ejaculated at certain intervals. I noticed the same phenomenon in the States, due also to a "Scotch reel."

It was not long before I discovered a decided rivalry between Oxford and Cambridge men. Oxford men are said to be snobs. I have always thought a snob one whose company was desired, and never attained, by the person who so calls him. It is said that an Oxford man thinks he owns the earth and a Cambridge man doesn't give a damn who owns it.

During rough weather quite a few people were sick. One pleasant person went the rounds asking people what they saw over the rail. LORD HOWE DUMB.

"CARRY ON."

Toil on! Though weakness drag thy falt'ring steps,
And scant reward is promised thee at last;
Though burden of past years doth weigh thee down,
And want of love and fellowship dismay;
Though age comes on apace, and shadows fall,
And night and death await thee in the way,
Toil on!
Fight on! Though sorely smeared with blood and dirt,
And, badly wounded, left to fight alone,
Outclassed, outnumbered, winded and disarmed,
Thou still hast sight, and dimly canst thou see
To thy last breath, and atom of thy strength,
Fight on!

FORD BIDS FOR OLD CAPE COD WINDMILL

Picturesque Structure at South Yarmouth, Mass., Was Built in 18th Century.

By the Associated Press.

YARMOUTH, Mass., July 20.—Henry Ford has made a bid for a windmill which was catching the Cape Cod breezes when the embattled farmers of Concord were making history. There are other would-be purchasers and it is not yet certain whether Ford will be able to add the mill to his collection of New England antiques.

Built in 18th Century.

Known as the Farris mill, the picturesque structure was built on the north side of the Cape in the eighteenth century. When it was moved in 1782 to Indian Town, later known as Friends' Village, in South Yarmouth, it was hauled by 40 yoke of oxen. Men came from miles around to help and the occasion was made a festival.

"A barrel of rum," says an account by an eye-witness, "stood on end with the head knocked out, the contents free for all, with the result that there was a noisy drunken crowd in the vicinity that night composed of both Indians and white men."

Daniel Wing of Hingham, who as a boy 60 years ago helped to operate the mill, recalls how the boys of the neighborhood risked life and limb by clambering over its great arms.

Operated as Grist Mill.

"Among its victims," he said, "can be counted two creatures slain, a horse and a cow, a man maimed for life and at least one boy wounded while engaged in the favorite pastime of running between the revolving arms."

The establishment was operated as a grist mill and the farmers brought their grain to be ground into meal. The wings had ladder-like slats, with canvas which could be drawn over them when the breeze was light and rolled back in a heavy wind.

Most of the other old mills on the Cape have vanished although many of the millstones have been preserved.

The men will be invited to spend a day at the Greater St. Louis Exposition, which will be presented in Forest Park here by the City of St. Louis and the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce from September 4 to 19. LEAVES ESTATE TO WOMAN WHO HAD BEFRIENDED HIM

Sewell A. Witherspoon, Retired Lace Manufacturer, Was Thought Penniless by Friends.

The will of Sewell A. Witherspoon, 84 years old, a retired lace manufacturer, who died June 29, disposing of his estate to Mrs. Elizabeth G. Mitchell, was filed yesterday. Mrs. Mitchell, who lives at the Westgate Hotel, said she did not know the value of the estate, but during the time she had known Witherspoon he appeared to be a penniless old man, who was always affectionate and grateful for any kindness shown him. However, she said she understood that he owned some property.

Mrs. Mitchell is the widow of J. R. Mitchell, president of the Mitchell Shoe Co., who died four years ago. Witherspoon, so far as is known, left no relatives. He lived at 720 North Euclid avenue and formerly had been an usher at the First Church of Christ Scientist. In his will he describes Mrs. Mitchell as his "best and dearest friend."

WOMEN TURN TO PRESIDENT

Urge Statement Regarding Dry Law to Protect Reputation of U. S.

By the Associated Press.

EAST NORTHFIELD, Mass., July 21.—A formal declaration by President Coolidge on the status of enforcement of the prohibition law to protect the reputation of the United States, especially in the forthcoming mission fields, was asked last night by delegates of the Women's Interdenominational Foreign Mission Conference.

"In view of the persistent, widespread propaganda aimed at the annulment of the Eighteenth Amendment to our Constitution," the adopted resolution read, "we urge a clear, strong statement from our President as to the possibility of enforcing law based on the Constitution, and the willingness and determination of our Government to correct the impression which is being given to the nation and the world that this republic is powerless to enforce its righteous laws."

LONDON'S FIRST CAFETERIA PROVES GREAT SUCCESS

Seats All Occupied at Lunch Hours, Many at Tea Time by Women Shoppers.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 21.—London's first cafeteria has been a success. It has a seating capacity of 500. While Londoners at first shied at the idea, within two weeks of the opening the cafeteria had all the noon business it could handle, and most of the arm chairs also were filled at tea time.

The cafeteria is in the shopping district, and has proved exceedingly popular with women who are eager for a quick lunch.

OUGHT TO HIT ACTORS ON HEAD

So Says Sean O'Casey, Playwright, of the London Variety.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 21.—"Domineering actors' are the curse of the London stage and ought to be "hit on the head." At least, this is what the Irish playwright, Sean O'Casey thinks. He says that actors who want to "hog" the play ruin many a performance.

O'Casey's views have been widely heralded and many dramatic critics are giving their opinions of the criticism. Virtually all the professional critics agree, but are inclined to think that actors are not permitted to throw a play out of perspective to the same degree as they were a few years ago.

Florence Vidor Gets a Divorce.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, July 21.—Florence Vidor, motion picture actress, has obtained her final decree of divorce from her director-husband, King Vidor. The suit, brought more than a year ago, declared that too much talent in one family led to "submergence of individuality" and interfered with the careers of both.

A Motion Picture Career IN HOLLYWOOD May Be Yours

YOURS may be just the type of features that will "screen" interestingly; yours may be exactly the personality that will take the fancy of the motion picture public.

Directors are constantly on the watch for such natural ability as you may have. Is experience all you lack? You can acquire that, through training. Prepare for the career that may be yours, at

The Cinema Schools, Inc.

Students appear before the camera, under actual studio working conditions, under experienced and successful directors. They see their efforts reproduced in the school's own projection room.

They learn all the "tricks" of acting, which fit them to enter the studios without the handicap of inexperience. That is vital; because, working against time, directors have little opportunity for teaching the fundamentals of screen acting.

Former students have met success in their chosen profession; some have risen to high position among featured players. They have risen rapidly, because they were trained to readiness when the chance came.

To enter the School you must have serious purpose to succeed; willingness to work; and the highest of character references. You will enter on a six months course of training, and should consider it only if you are prepared to meet both tuition and living expenses for that time. Do not count on earning your way as you go.

If you feel you have the natural ability, and you are determined to succeed, write for our catalog and learn how The Cinema Schools, Inc. can help you.

SAYS FIRE ALARM SERVICE IS IMPAIRED

Herman Schmidt Gives His Reasons for Resigning as Superintendent.

The recent resignation of Herman Schmidt as superintendent of the Fire and Police Telegraph Alarm Service, after 39 years in the city's employ, was prompted by his conviction that the department could not be operated efficiently with its present reduced appropriation, he said last night.

When he resigned, Schmidt, who is 60 years old, said only that he intended to retire. Last night he complained of the appropriation cut of 1925 as it effected his department.

"Prior to 1925 the department had enough inspectors to inspect the city's 1750 alarm boxes four or five times a year," he said. "The wage allowance for the inspectors ranged from $65,000 to $72,000 a year, enabling me to insure perfect service.

"The 1926-27 appropriation was $58,500, which reduced the force and made it impossible to make the proper number of inspections. In 1925 the alarm boxes were inspected a fraction more than once. I had prided myself on the perfect condition of the service, and, realizing that I could not keep it up on my allowance, I resigned."

Schmidt also explained that Director of Public Safety Brod, his superior, had bothered him frequently with criticism and questions about his department. "I felt that another man might have the Director's co-operation, which should make for higher efficiency in the department," he declared.

TWO YEARS FOR MAYHEM FOR DESTROYING MAN'S EYE

Charles Shaw, 924 North Nineteenth street, yesterday was found guilty in Circuit Judge Landwehr's court of mayhem, for which the jury fixed his punishment at two years in the penitentiary. Frank M. Jones of 2411A State street, Granite City, testified that in a quarrel at Shaw's home on April 18, during a drinking bout, Shaw cut him in the right eye so severely that the orb had to be removed.

the United States is bound irrevocably to ask nothing more while Italy, at any time, may insist upon something less.

"The interest to be paid the United States by Italy for a long time, because of her 'capacity to pay,' is one-eighth of 1 per cent; but contemporaneously with our settlement, Italy borrowed $130,000,000 from Morgan & Co., who, strangely enough, insisted upon and are to receive 7 per cent interest.

"Mr. Mellon and his spokesman justified the settlement with Italy to the American people upon the theory that it collects all the debt; and they prove its generosity to Europe by demonstrating it cancels most of the debt."

Bungled Tasks, Harrison Charges.

Senator Borah, an equally fierce critic of the Italian and French debt settlements, indorses what Johnson says. The criticisms from these two is not remarkable in view of their attitude. Nor is it strange that Pat Harrison (Dem.) of Mississippi should improve the occasion by this slap at the administration:

"I am glad," said the Mississippi Senator, "to know that at last Mr. Mellon, as spokesman for the administration, has woke up to the fact that the terms offered France and Italy mean a cancellation of part of the principal and not merely accumulated interest."

Harrison contends the administration has bungled the debt settlements and regrets that the impression should exist in Great Britain that this country criticised the British settlement by which he said "she has retained her long-established honor in meeting her obligations."

Acting Chairman Hawley (Rep.) of Oregon, of the House Ways and Means Committee, was sorry the House had acted on the French debt before France had ratified it.

"We were fearful," he said, "that the French would interpret our proposal as a demand and that is the construction which they are putting on it.

"We were obliged, however, to surrender our views in favor of the program agreed upon by President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon."

Extradition of Prisoner Sought.

State's Attorney Lindauer of St. Clair County yesterday made application to Gov. Baker of Missouri for requisition papers for the return to Illinois of Garrett Dabney, who is a prisoner in St. Louis, following his arrest on a charge of burglary and larceny in East St. Louis. Dabney is charged with breaking into the George Marifian Cleaning and Dyeing shop in East St. Louis and stealing 10 suits of clothes.

TOKIO, July 21.—The situation at Nogano, where mobs attacked the prefectural officials through resentment over the Cabinet's reimpeachment policy, is tending toward a small revolt and is worrying the Government. Unless it improves, martial law is likely.

The Government imposed a censorship, effective yesterday, upon all news relating to the rioting. Newspapers were forced to throw out many columns of news reports concerning the riots. Today the authorities stated that the censorship would not apply to cable news, but as all agencies and newspapers are prohibited from telegraphing or publishing internally any of this information, late reports of the situation there are not available.

COOLIDGE WANTS LAWS TO PROTECT COAL CONSUMERS

Reiterates Hope That Principle of Watson-Parker Bill Will Be Applicable to any Industries.

APPROVES RECORD OF EXPENDITURES

Although $273,000,000 Was Voted in Excess of 1926, Many Items in Future Will Be Cut.

By the Associated Press.

PAUL SMITHS, N. Y., July 21.—President Coolidge adheres to his views of providing protection through legislation for the consumer in any coal emergency, while he believes that the Government is being administered with every possible attention to sound fiscal policies.

The views of the Chief Executive on these two questions became known after a call at the Executive offices yesterday, when he received the newspaper correspondents.

In response to questions, it was said President Coolidge had no information on reported plans of members of the House Commerce Committee to approach operators and miners in the coal industry this summer with a proposal that their labor disputes be disposed of by conference among themselves and a minimum of Government interrailroad industry in the Watson-rail road industry in the Watson-Parker railway labor act, which was enacted in June.

The President was said to understand that the committee had a bill on coal legislation to take up when Congress reconvenes in December, but to know nothing of the reported move, although it was reiterated that Mr. Coolidge, as he had made clear before he left Washington, hoped the basic principle of the Watson-Parker bill would be found applicable not only to the coal but many other industries.

For Board to Adjust Disputes.

But in any coal legislation the President was said to regard as fundamental provision for the calling of a temporary board to adjust differences in event of an emergency, and an opportunity to appoint a coal administrator if a scarcity of fuel should be threatened.

While no direct reference was made to recent attacks by Democratic leaders in Congress on the administration's economy program and charges that Government expenditures were increasing, President Coolidge let it be known that he regarded with approval the statement on expenditures by Chairman Madden of the House Appropriations Committee which appeared in the Congressional Record of July 12.

Although $273,000,000 more was appropriated for the fiscal year 1927 than in 1926, it was said in the future a number of the items, such as those for the Veterans' Bureau and road construction would not be so heavy. Those for 1927, it was explained, involved payments on special bills for which accurate estimates were impossible the previous year.

Items Resulting in Increase.

The soldiers' bonus, it was pointed out, required $100,000,000 for the present fiscal year, as compared with half that sum last year, going far to make the appropriation for the Veterans' Bureau $173,000,000 in excess of a year ago. The good roads item was $26,000,000 in excess of the preceding year, while increases on other matters included $14,000,000 on public buildings, $13,000,000 on prohibition enforcement, $5,000,000 on Civil and Spanish War pensions and $10,000,000 for rivers and harbors, much of the latter on account of improvements in the Mississippi basin between St. Louis and Kansas City.

A number of miscellaneous items, such as payment of claims and refunding of taxes brought the total to $273,000,000.

The country is expanding rapidly, it was said, and the pressure upon the Federal Government to take on new activities is very great but is being resisted by the President and by Congress as much as possible.

As the national debt is paid off, it was added, requirements for interest charges will be reduced, but the plan is for the money to be put into the sinking fund as the interest on the debt decreases.

Davis and Fess Callers.

The President spent most of the morning yesterday at the executive offices between visits at White Pine Camp of Secretary Dwight F. Davis of the War Department and Senator Fess (Rep.), Ohio.

The coming of visitors has served to postpone the departure of Mr. Coolidge for Plymouth, Vt., which he had planned for early this week.

AUTOMOBILE TIRE SALE LAW IS UPSET BY INJUNCTION

Vending of Those That Bear No Serial Number Permitted by Judge Ittner's Decision.

A permanent injunction was granted yesterday by Circuit Judge Ittner, preventing the Police Department from enforcing against the Star Square Automobile Supply Co., 1129 Locust street, a law prohibiting the sale of automobile tires bearing no serial numbers.

It was the contention of the company that the law was unconstitutional, as class legislation. It was asserted there was no more reason for numbering a tire than for giving a collar, shirt, bolt of silk or other article an identifying number.

Although passed in 1921, no attempt was made by the police to enforce the law until two months ago, when they arrested several dealers, including Joseph A. Stiffelman, manager of the plaintiff company. At the time, 166 tires bearing no number were confiscated.

It was alleged that it was never intended to apply this law to legitimate dealers, but only to "fences" who marketed stolen tires.

DEMPSEY TO FIGHT TUNNEY IN CHICAGO, RICKARD ASSERT

ARTICLES NOT YET SIGNED OR APPROVED BY COMMISSION; RIVAL PROMOTER IN FIELD

September 12 the Date Named by Ne wYork Fight Impressario—Boxing Body Can Stop Arrangements, if These Are Not Acceptable.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Jack Dempsey will defend his title of world's heavyweight boxer in a 15-round bout here Sept. 12 at the Stadium, Soldiers' Field, against Gene Tunney, promoter Tex Rickard of New York is said to have announced today.

Another announcement, made by William Clements of the Chicago Coliseum Club, which claims to hold contracts for a Dempsey-Harry Wills bout to be fought in Chicago, was that the bout would be staged here late in September. He said the Illinois commission had granted him a license but had not approved the Dempsey-Wills match.

Commission Is Silent.

Members of the Illinois Commission refused this afternoon to state whether or not they would sanction the Rickard bout. They also declined to state what their views were on a Dempsey-Wills fight.

They intimated a statement might be issued later.

At the same time it was reported Rickard had arranged an appearance before the commission late this week.

Rickard was quoted as declaring both Dempsey and Tunney had agreed to fight and that final articles of agreement would be signed in Chicago early in August.

The amount sto be paid Dempsey and Tunney wer not made public.

Rickard Promises Statement.

"The only thing that can stop this bout," Rickard was quoted as saying, "Is the refusal of the approval of the Illinois Commission. I believe the commission will approve the fight. There is no reason they should not."

While the entire situation was regarded as complicated to a high degree in view of Clements' statement, Chicago sportsmen declared Rickard was "set" to stage the bout here. They pointed out Rickard more than likely has already had the Dempsey-Tunney bout informally approved by the local commission and it was said the heavyweight champion beyond a doubt would enter the ring here in September in defense of his crown fo rthe first time since 1923.

Dempsey will arrive here Aug. 4 or 5, it was stated, to sign a contract with Rickard, who already has an option on the champion's services.

Cards Idle Today; Club Is Now Three Games Behind Reds

THE Cardinals enjoy another open date today, prior to opening the series of four games with the Giants at Sportsman's Park tomorrow. The set with New York will be the final of the present home stand.

Hornsby's men lost half a game in the flag race yesterday, as both the Reds and Pirates won. Cincinnati is now three contests in front of the locals while Pittsburg, in second place is a game and a half ahead of the Cardinals.

Cards Hit .331 During Home Stay, But Hurlers Fail

Opposition Has Batted 335 and Team Has Won 9, Lost 8

By Herman Wecke.

Statistics on the current home stand of the Cardinals, on which the club has played just a little better than .500, with nine victories against eight defeats, bring to light some interesting facts. These figures clearly indicate that it has been the pitching and not the batting that has been responsible for the recent rather indifferent showing of the team.

The figures show that the Cardinals have batted to an average of .331 in the 17 contests played at Sportsman's Park. That lusty figure, many points better than the season's average for the St. Louis Nationals, however, has been good enough to give the team but one more victory than it has suffered defeats. And all because—

The Cardinal pitchers, in the same time, have been rapped for an average of .335 by the opposing batters.

From this it can be seen that it has been the downfall of Rogers Hornsby's twirlers that has kept the club from gaining more ground in the pennant race.

The averages for both the Cardinals and the opposition in this stretch are far better than the marks for the team batting leaders in the two major organizations.

Average 11½ Hits a Game.

In the 17 home contests the Cardinals have made a total of 196 hits, an average of 11.5 a game. The opposition has countered with 209 safeties, or 12.3 in each battle. On runs scored the locals have a bit the better of the argument with 117 against 103. The average a game for Hornsby's men is 6.9 and for the rival clubs 6.1.

Since returning home the Cardinal batters have hit under the .300 mark in but one series. That was the five-game engagement with the Reds when Jack Hendricks' hill stars stopped Hornsby's men with a .246 mark, with 45 hits in 183 times at bat. A total of 29 runs were scored by St. Louis in winning two of the five engagements. Cincinnati hammered the Cardinal hurlers for an average of .321, getting 59 hits in 184 trials and scoring 23 runs.

The high mark for the locals in a single series came in winning two out of three from the Phillies, when Hornsby's men hit .385, against .296 for Fletcher's men. The Cardinals in this series made 45 hits in 117 trips to the plate, against 32 safeties in 108 trials for the Phils. The runs were 25 to 16 in favor of the local entry.

Braves Thump Cards' Pitchers.

Although the Cardinals won three of five from the Braves, the local pitchers were hammered harder in that series than in any other, the Boston outfit finishing with .378 to tie Hornsby's sluggers. The Braves' mark was helped along by a single game in which 23 hits were made. On the series the Braves totaled 71 against 54 for the Cardinals. However, the St. Louisans tallied 38 times to 36 for the opposition.

In the four games with the Robins, when each club won two contests, the Cardinals swatted .349 to .326 for Brooklyn. the locals had 52 hits against 47.

During the 17 clashes the Cardinals on 11 occasions have made more than 10 safeties in a single game. But the opposition has gone into double figures 13 times.

From which it can be seen that the pitchers must come back if the Cardinals are to make more headway than they have during the recent home stand.

MOVIE WORK EASY SAYS RED GRANGE ON RETURN HOME

CHICAGO, July 21.—Red Grange, the phenomenal touchdown merchant, came home today from Hollywood and his first venture in the movies, and told welcomers that he found even more enjoyment working among the kleiks than among the cleats, which he dodges so successfully on the gridiron.

His dad, Lyle N. Grange, and his kid brother, Garland, met him at the train, the latter with a jibe of mirth at the tropical pith helmet with which Red's pate was covered.

"Movie work was hard at first," Red said, "but when I got used to it I found it easier than football." "I didn't fall for any of the Hollywood doilies," he assured his folks.

He plans to visit relatives in Pennsylvania after a few days at home and then he will drive a Wheaton ice wagon until fall rolls around.

Fugazy to Hold Eliminations for Light-Heavies

Berlenbach, Huffman, Loughran and Others Expected to Compete.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 21.—That Humbert Fugazy intends to remain active as a boxing promoter and does not intend to let any grass grow under his feet, was shown yesterday when he announced that he has arranged to hold two more boxing shows at Ebbets Field within the next few weeks.

The first of these will be held on Aug. 11, when Paul Berlenbach meets Francis Charles, light-heavyweight champion of Europe; Fred Bretonnell of France meets Sammy Vogel; Eddie Anderson tackles Andre Routis, bantamweight champion of France; Jimmy Goodrich meets Kid Kaplan, and Harry Ebbets takes on Andy de Vodi. This last affair will be a four-rounder, but all the others, with the sanction of the State Athletic Commission, will be 10-round bouts.

Berlenbach takes the place of Jack Delaney against Charles, because of the injury Jack suffered to his left hand in the contest with Berlenbach. The proceeds will go to the Jewish Community House of Bensonhurst.

This show will be followed a week later by the light heavyweight elimination tournament which will have as contestants Paul Berlenbach against Mike McTigue, Jimmy Delaney or Eddie Huffman against Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia, and Maxie Rosenbloom against George Courtney, the Oklahoma cowboy. The winners of these bouts will be sent against one another and the final survivor will go against Jack Delaney for the title.

Of course, if Berlenbach is beaten by Francis Charles, the Frenchman will take Berlenbach's place in the elimination tournament.

56 Runs Scored In Three-I Game

Ten Homers in Springfield-Peoria Tilt — Other Records Fall.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 21.—Fifty-six runs were scored in a Three-Eye League baseball game yesterday, in which Springfield defeated Peoria, 33 to 23, the score setting a new league record. Other organized baseball marks also fell by the wayside.

Thirteen hurlers appeared. There were 1 0home runs, seven two-baggers and four triples, as well as 18 bases on balls.

Springfield clouted out 22 hits and took advantage of 14 bases on balls, to overcome a 10-run handicap. Peoria hit safely 27 times.

In one inning Springfield scored eight runs, Thompson, catcher, hitting a home run on his first time up and a triple with the bases full for his second, thereby sending in six runs. Chatham, Springfield left fielder, walked on five successive trips to the plate, and Layne of Peoria made three successive homers. The game required three hours and four minutes.

Hagen, With 275, Wins Golf Title

Star Is One Stroke Behind Record in Capturing Eastern Open.

By the Associated Press.

DELAWARE WATER GAP, Pa., July 21.—Walter Hagen today wore another golf crown—the Eastern Open Championship. In winning yesterday the first competition for the new title, Hagen played sensational golf. After setting a new world's record of 132 strokes for the first 36 holes, he failed by one stroke of equaling the world's mark of 274 for 72 holes, made by Emmett French at Youngstown, O., in 1922. His worst round—a 74—was played on a wet course. His other rounds were 67, 65 and 69. The former course record was 70, while 72 is par.

On the eighteenth green of the final round Hagen had a 12-foot putt to tie French's record. The putt was true, but the ball hung on the lip of the cup.

Hagen won three of the four special prizes of $100 for each low round and $500 first money. He also was awarded a gold wolf's head with diamonds for eyes.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Gone to the Dogs.

IN CONNECTION with the suggestion made in this column a few days ago, anent the need of national control of horse and dog racing, the following communication from an official of the Madison Kennel Club was received:

Dear Mr. Wray:

Your comment regarding the expansion of racing leads me to say a word about the plan of organization of the greyhound tracks which functions in the same way as the "national commission" which you suggested. The International Greyhound Racing Association, which recently held a convention in St. Louis, is affiliated with the United Hunts Club of England and the International Lacrosse and Athletic Club of Canada and is the parent body of the sport just the same as the national commission was once the governing body of baseball. It issues sanctions for the construction of new tracks aand has a uniform set of rules and regulations governing the conduct of the sport. All rulings issued by this body apply to the 11 tracks in the circuit.

Greyhound racing, a leading sport in Gaul 2000 years ago, has developed so rapidly in the United States because it is clean and operated on a fair and square basis. HOWARD PURSER, International Greyhound Racing Association.

* * *

Favoring the Dogs.

REPORTS from Canada indicate that two or three horse race tracks have been forced into idleness because of near bankruptcy. One meeting, scheduled to begin a few days ago is not being held because of receivership proceedings.

This was brought about by a tax of $7500 a day levied against the tracks by the Canadian Government—a levy that was too great for the receipts to stand.

On the other hand, dog racing in Canada is proceeding and prospering under Government recognition. That's because the dog race tax is only $50 a day, and does not hurt the promoters.

Evidently either the Canadian Government thinks that dog race betting is better than horse race speculation, or the game has not become sufficiently prominent there to attract adverse attention.

* * *

Big Money Makers.

AS a matter of fact, dog-racing plants are good money getters. The track is comparatively inexpensive. Fairmount race track cost between $750,000 and $1,000,000, land and all. Madison greyhound race track cost about one-tenth of this sum, and its operating expenses are inconsiderable compared with those of Fairmount. Yet its profits will probably be larger.

Florida dog race track plants annually pay several hundred per cent on their investment, according to reports brought here by dog owners.

* * *

Odds-on favorites are seldom heard of.

Under control of the International Federation the strict rules safeguard the running of the dogs to the limit.

* * *

TOMMY O'BRIEN is going to fight Pinkey Mitchell for the title.

What title? Why, the junior welterweight title, which is widely known in Milwaukee and Minneapolis, if nowhere else.

The junior welterweight crown hasn't stunned the world as yet. It originated in the mind of the advertising manager of a boxing publication which held a voting contest to decide upon a champion for this neglected weight class.

Pinkey's friends had more money or more pep so they bought up the most votes and won the crown for him. That gave Pinkey a belt and a title to defend.

* * *

'Twas Leonard's Title.

PINKEY has only worked at the champion's job once or twice. The outstanding time he tried to defend it was at Chicago, or near there, when he fought Benny Leonard at one of Jim Mullen's charity teas.

Pinkey was knocked loose from his understanding by Leonard and there was a terrible uproar.

The upshot of it all was Leonard thought so little of the title he declined to press his claim to it.

But Pinkey is still defending it. Presumably when Leonard retired, it reverted back to Mitchell.

Fifth Dog Race On Tonight's Card Hard to Figure

Running Fox, Little John, Uproar, Farmer Pete and Desperate Chance All Look Good.

Racing Secretary Ewen is doing everything possible these final days of the Madison meeting for those who have been rooting for another world's greyhound record to be broken. Ewen has been matching the fields in good style and at least one more track record should fall before the close of the meeting Saturday.

In he sixth race on tonight's card Miss Black Gold and Oratova will be viewed in a pretty battle over the three-sixteenths distance, and it is not improbable that either will cover the distance in record time for the meeting. Both dogs dashed the quarter mile in 26 seconds flat in the derby elimination races. In this race Miss Black Gold will have a slight advantage, breaking out the No. 3 hole, while her opponent will start his journey out of the No. 6 box. Buckingham and Dr. Dawling are considered in the dangerous class here.

The fifth race over the five-sixteenths route will give the dopesters something to think about. Running Fox, Little John, Uproar, Farmer Pete and Desperate Chance appear to be close contenders. It will not be surprising if Desperate Chance proves the winner. He experienced not a little difficulty in his last race. Farmer Pete, out of the No. 1 hole, is the one that all will have to contend with.

Bromley, Proud Athlete, Amber and Secret Camp are the logical contenders in the seventh race. Proud Athlete will not surprise a certain group should he win. Secret Camp is always to be watched. Herman the Great will be back in the hurdle race after a rest and may leave his field behind. Eagle Boy appears to have a fair chance in the fourth. Dawson Steam may win the opener. Deacon S. has the experience in the second and the third seems to be made for Lost Star.

Athletics Are Now 7½ Games Behind Yankees

Double Defeat at Hands of Tigers Hurts—Simmons Is Benched.

By the Associated Press.

One Jimmy Uchrinsko now serves baseballs in the major leagues. Half measure scores published today show that "Uch'sko" pitched for Washington Senators. The former McKeesport semipro for 3 innings held Cleveland hitless and runless. Cleveland won, 9 to 2, piling up 7 runs on Morrell in the sixth inning.

Philadelphia lost twice to the Tigers, 5 to 0 and 8 to 3. Rip Collins giving only five hits in the first game and Gibson and Dauss only 7 in the second. Connie Mack has benched Al Simmons, a slugger who appeared in center field for more than two seasons without missing a game. Lately he has not been hitting. The Mackmen are now 7½ games behind the Yankees.

The White Sox had two large innings and won easily from the Boston Red Sox, 13 to 2, Harris and Schalk of Chicago getting 3 hits each.

Ruth hit his twenty-eighth homer with no one on base in the third, against the Browns.

Jacobson's error in right field for Brooklyn permitted Cincinnati to win, 5 to 4, and retain its margin of one and one-half games over Pittsburg. Marriott and Pipp were put off the field after being separated by other players.

Pittsburg, after turning over infielder Moore to the Boston Braves for the waiver price, subdued the Bancroft men, 8 to 5. Moore was fined $100 last week for indifferent playing.

The Cubs had scored 12 runs before the third inning ended in their rout of the Giants and added four more in the fifth, hitting four pitchers to all corners of the park. Heathcote of the Cubs and Lindstrom of the Giants recorded home runs. The score was 16 to 2.

KING SOLOMON BEATS GROSSO IN 10 ROUNDS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 21.—King Solomon from Panama stalked majestically in the arena at the Queensboro Stadium last night and walked out again with a decision over Johnny Grosso.

Grosso lost only after a dingdong battle that for clean, honest hitting hasn't been approached hereabouts in some time.

Grosso got away splendidly in the early half of the fight but seemed to weaken from the sixth round on.

Solomon had Grosso in bad shape toward the middle of the eighth. He caught John on the chin with a hard right-hand smash and Grosso was out of line for quite a spell. He couldn't get his hands up to protect his chin and the King might have floored him had he known how badly he had stung John.

Grosso came back in the ninth and made a wonderful rally. It was nip and tuck and take your pick all through the round. Grosso ran full-tilt into a straight jab in the tenth round and was floored but for no count.

Tragos Meets Martin.

To Play in Kansas.

The local Rock Island ball club will journey to Armourdale, Kan., next Sunday to meet the Rock Island team of that town. Three special coaches will carry the local team and rooters.

American Derby Entries Doubtful

Will Not Be Decided Until After Running of Coney Island Classic.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Whether Carlaris, wonder horse of the West and winner of the Coffroth handicap at Tijuana, Mexico, this year; Bubbling Over, winner of the Kentucky Derby, and other famous horses will face the barrier in the renewal of the $100,000 American Derby July 31, at Washington Park, Homewood, Ill., was undetermined today.

It was said nothing definite in the list of probable starts for the Homewood classic will be known until next Saturday, following the running of the Coney Island Derby.

Indications were that Carlaris, Rhinock, Display, Bagenbaggage, Recollection, Malcolm B. Jr., Dress Parade and possibly Bubbling Over would furnish a choice list of entries for the derby renewal.

W. T. Anderson of San Diego, Cal., owner of Carlaris, is known not to be disappointed by the wonder animal's race last Saturday at Ashland, Ky., in the Raceland Derby. Carlaris was beaten more than a length by Malcolm B. Jr., but he carried 126 pounds and easily led until the stretch was reached, when he tired badly.

Anderson said he was pleased to learn that Carlaris has apparently entirely recovered from a foot sore caused early this year when the horse kicked himself following his sensational win or the Coffroth.

Punching Paul Steadman Faces Real Test Tonight In Go With George Butch

Man With a Kayo Wallop Will Try It Out Against Tough, Experienced Foe—Jimmy Russo Will Attempt to Reverse Showing Made in Previous Contest With Mike Sansone.

By Dent McSkimming.

Local fight fans will have a chance to determine tonight whether young Paul Steadman, terror of the local featherweight colony, is really as formidable as George Butch and Johnny Kaiser have led us to believe. Butch, who faces Steadman tonight at the Battery A raena, twice cancelled bouts with Steadman, pleading injury or illness, and Johnny Kaiser caused an official storm when he also refused to meet Paul, retiring on the very night of the fight.

This rather hysterical retreating by the most formidable and experienced local featherweight has given Paul Steadman more prestige than he could have obtained by outpointing both men in the ring.

Steadman, it may be interesting to know, does not take his boxing quite so seriously as do the fellows who have refused to meet him. He is actually doing his punching "on the side." His principal means of livelihood is a job as an apprentice "cutter" in a clothing manufacturing shop. He is learning the trade. They say he also does a lot of slashing in the ring, which is more to the point as far as the spectators at tonight's bout are concerned.

Steadman Compiles KO Record.

Young Steadman, a native of Tennessee, has been boxing in and around St. Louis for about two years. His parents live in Granite City, but Paul resides in St. Louis in order that he may lose little time in chasing from the factory to the gymnasium every evening for his workout. According to Harry Cook, manager of the Business Men's A. A. gymnasium, Steadman is the most conscientious worker he has ever handled.

During the last 10 months he has had 12 fights and is credited with winning six on knockouts, five on points and gaining a draw verdict in the other. Fighters who have traded wallops with him in the ring and in training workouts claim that he punches harder than any other ringster of his weight in the local field.

One of his achievements of the past few months was an unofficial point verdict over Johnny Kaiser in an exhibition bout at the Racquet Club.

Ray Alfano and Eddie Goldberg are other local ringsters who have been decisively outpointed by Steadman within the last 10 months. Alfano was beaten at Benld, Ill., while Goldberg lost the popular verdict in a local arena. Steadman also scored a point victory over Jack Stacey at Jefferson City, and Nick Oliva at Peoria, Ill. In defeating Oliva he beat a fighter who later surprised with a victory over Harold Smith of Chicago.

In a 12-round match at Louisville on Monday night of last week Steadman gained a draw with Joe Pagalani, a fighter whose record includes knockout verdicts over Frankie Garcia, Eddie Shea, Herb Schafer and Eddie Dyer.

Russo Meets Sansone.

For the first time in three appearances here, Jimmy Russo is said to be in excellent physical condition. He was fat and soft on two previous occasions, when he met Mike Sansone last winter and when he faced Lew Perfetti. Sansone will have to step fast tonight if Russo is at his best. Little Mike has been piling up an impressive record in his last 10 fights.

FAMOUS FEET

BABE RUTH'S Home Run Feet

"It isn't always the length of the hit that scores the run. Sometimes it's the speed in getting around the bases. So I have to keep my feet in prime shape."

So writes Babe Ruth—the famous "Bambino" of the New York Yankees.

"Ball players are prone to corns. Our feet get pretty rough service. But I keep mine free of corns by putting on a Blue-jay whenever a potential corn appears in the offing."

When trouble is a-foot—have Blue-jay at hand! For 26 years it has been the standard home corn-remover. Ask your physician or chiropodist! Blue-jay goes to the root of the matter and routs the troublesome offender — usually in 48 hours. But even the most stubborn corn seldom needs more than a second Blue-jay plaster . . . At all drug stores.

CARTER, DEFENDING CHAMPION, WINS IN WESTERN AMATEUR TOURNE

BEATS SEATTLE PLAYER, 5 UP IN 1ST ROUND

Chick Evans, Eight Times Holder of the Championship, Eliminates Haines of Rockford, 3 and 2.

By the Associated Press.

WHITE BEAR LAKE, Minn., July 21.—Keefe Carter of Oklahoma City, defending his title, won his first round match, 5 and 4, in the western amateur golf tournament today. He defeated H. A. Fleager, Seattle, playing the first nine in par 36 and making the turn 3 up.

Eddie Teld of St. Louis, transmississippi champion, after being one down at the turn, pulled out a victory over Densmore Shute of Huntington, W. Va., 1 up, by winning the 11th and 16th holes. Shute's 145 in the qualifying rounds placed him next to Harrington R. Johnston, St. Paul, who had a 141, and the match attracted the best gallery of the first round.

Omaha Youth Defeated.

HAL CHASE JR., 16 YEARS OF AGE, SIGNS WITH MISSION CLUB

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.—A lithe, bronzed lad of 16 walked into the offices of the Mission club of the Pacific Coast League yesterday and signed a contract.

The boy is Hal Chase Jr., son of the once famous baseball star of the same name and, according to those who have watched him in action, "a chip off the old block" when it comes to playing baseball.

Young Chase has determined to make baseball his career and to redeem on the diamond the name of his father.

He is still in school and will remain there for the next two years, practicing with the Missions on Saturdays and Sundays and during vacation periods.

In 1928 he will join the club regularly, President William H. McCarthy announced, after the boy had affixed his signature to the contract.

"He has the same natural ability of his father and with the experience he will gain with us during the next two years, I expect him to develop into a valuable man," McCarthy said.

PRO FOOTBALL AT EBBETS FIELD

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Eddie Butler, former Cornell football captain, today announced he had obtained a lease on Ebbets Field for Brooklyn's club in the National Professional Football League this fall.

Butler signed contracts, he said, with Stephen McKeever, vice president of the Brooklyn National League Baseball Club, after rejection of the bid of Humbert Fugazy, holder of the Brooklyn franchise in the rival American League of Professional Football Clubs.

HORNSBY'S ANSWERS

A is on third base, B is on first and two are out. Player C hits safely to right field, the ball going between the fielder's legs. Runners score. B is later called out for failing to touch second base. Is this not a force play, theoretically depriving C of a base hit? Or should C be given credit for a hit?—L. C. B.

It is a force play not only theoretically but in reality. The moment that B overran second he was subject to a force out and on a force out a batter cannot be given a base hit.

Batter bunts down the base line and the first baseman fields the ball. Batter seeing runner round second base stops and backs toward home to avoid being touched out. First baseman then throws to third but is too late and the batter goes on to first. Umpire called him safe and we protested game.—H. J. S.

Protest is not valid. The batter had a perfect right to stop, back up and go on if he wished to do so. The baseman should have kept after him.

Tilden Opposes Japanese Star in Longwood Singles

Toba Yesterday Eliminated Lucien Williams After Losing First Set.

By the Associated Press.

BROOKLINE, Mass., July 21.—A Japanese tennis threat menaced the Longwood bowl today.

William T. Tilden II, the national champion, who has swept aside opposition easily in the opening rounds, drew for his opponent in the round before the semi-finals Teizo Toba, third ranking Japanese Davis Cup player. Toba advanced yesterday at the expense of Lucian E. Williams of Chicago after losing the first set.

Two other Japanese net stars remained among the eight athletes to survive the preliminary rounds. They were Takeicha Harada and Sekio Towara.

Alfred H. Chapin Jr. of Springfield, who once beat Tilden, lost yesterday to Lewis N. White of Dallas. Other survivors of the third round were Bradshaw Harrison and Edward G. Chandler of California and Berkeley Bell, sensational junior from Austin, Tex.

Today's matches start at 1 p. m. standard time.

NEGRO STARS OUTHIT INDIANAPOLIS A. B. C.'S TO WIN GAME, 8 TO 4

Hitting at opportune times enabled the St. Louis Stars to take the fourth game from the Indianapolis A. B. C.'s yesterday at the Stars' park, 8 to 4 and make it three out of four for the series. Davis of the Stars weakened in the sixth inning and was knocked out of the box. Ross relieved him and held the visitors to four runs.

Wells, Creacy and Suttles made circuit drives for the Stars, while Harding, with a perfect day at bat, hit a homer for the A. B. C.'s. The fifth and final game of the series will be played this afternoon.

Batteries: McCall and Foreman, Enns; Davis, Ross and Murray.

"Mlle. Lenglen's Game Has No Weakness"—Helen Wills

French Star's Reign of Tennis Courts Will Be Safe for Several Years Unless She Again Invades America, U. S. Champion Says.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Suzanne Lenglen's reign as queen of the courts will be safe from the challenge of her rivals for several years to come if she makes no second attempt at conquest in America, thinks Helen Wills.

In an intimate discussion of the technique of the French star, whose first American invasion five years ago ended dramatically with a default to Mrs. Molla B. Mallory after she had lost the first set, the American champion expressed the opinion that "Suzanne's game has no weaknesses."

"But, European women, as a rule, cannot withstand our warm tournament weather," Miss Wills reminded, pointing to her own uphill victories over Joan Fry and Mrs. Kitty McKane Godfree of England last year on the courts of the West Side Tennis Club.

Steadiness Big Factor.

The 20-year-old California girl, whose European invasion was interrupted six weeks ago by an operation for appendicitis, stressed steadiness as the predominating feature of Lenglen's play. "And, then, she is quick and resourceful," Miss Wills added. "She played extremely well against me at Cannes—placed the ball well and covered the court well."

"Do you think the advice of American experts to 'knock the cover off the ball' was the proper method of attack against Mlle. Lenglen?" Miss Wills was asked.

"I wouldn't want to say that is the only kind of attack that will upset her defense," she replied. "She handles fast and slow drives with equal steadiness. I think the only way to beat her is to outlast her. In a long match, endurance is a terribly important thing. I have a big advantage there, for I am strong," she concluded, with a smile.

Study of Rivals Helps.

Miss Wills, who says she plans no return invasion of Europe for at least two years in the hope of reversing her 6—2, 8—6 defeat at the hands of Lenglen, expressed disappointment that she had been unable to study her rival's style in the French championships.

"Study of your opponents from the side lines is more profitable than playing against them," explained Miss Wills. "After Suzanne had beaten me at Cannes, I expected to analyze her game more closely as a spectator. But the operation spoiled my plans."

The California girl said her initial workouts at the West Side Club indicated to her she would be able to resume tournament play at Seabright, N. J., the first week in August. She has indulged only in limited volleys at Forest Hills, N. Y., thus far, but expects soon to extend her practice to match play, with successful defense of her thrice-won championship as her final objective late in August.

Pennant Awaits Club With Punch In the National

By John B. Foster.

NEW YORK, July 21.—There has been much in the way of see-sawing, but no significant gain by the Eastern section of the National League in its present invasion of the West, despite the fervid hope of New York and Brooklyn that something may turn for the better in their checkered careers.

There hasn't been a forward move that looks enduring. The Giants beat the heads of the Cincinnati Reds against the baked mud of the Ohio River bottom, but that did not win the pennant immediately for New York, however much it may have jolted the complacency of the Reds.

Anything the Giants may have done to Cincinnati is offset by what the Pirates have done to the Giants. And then the Cubs whaled McGraw's men. There is always a balancing of power and results in some way that keeps Cincinnati and Pittsburg around the top. If St. Louis had shown the same punch against the metropolitan district that has been shown by the Pirates and the Reds, the Cardinals might have been leading the race. Chicago, up to the present, has been the weakest of the four in gaining ground at the expense of the East.

West Has a Slight Edge.

As the race is running today, the percentage of victories by the West over the East as a section is about .600. There's the story and that is why more than once this year, and for the first time in several seasons, all of the Eastern clubs have been in the second division of the National League race.

In the American League the situation is quite different. The Eastern clubs have the better combined percentage. Their total is about .520 as against .475 in the West in approximate figures. There is little satisfaction in them for the East, although it seems probable that an Eastern team will win. The figures show there is strength enough scattered around the Western section to win a pennant, but that none of the teams can concentrate on an objective.

The National League race which has about 190 points between its first and last clubs, seems to be closer than the race in the American League, but that is due to the face that the Yanks are big leaders and the Boston Red Sox big losers as compared with the other six teams.

The Red Sox have won nearly as many games from the West as the Washington Senators, although they have lost so many more that they are a lowlier bunch so far as East and West are concerned.

Cleveland Has Cut a Figure.

Cleveland has been the strong Western team against the East in the American League and if the Indians had not taken such terrific punishment from Chicago they would have been nosing around the championship oat bin.

The National League logically shows little hope for an Eastern winner. The American League is a much tighter fight, and there would be a chance for one of the Western teams to step in if one of them could pull together and organize as much punch as there is in the Yankees. The Yank punch is not working overtime, as it once was, but every now and then it rises like a geyser when it is needed mighty bad.

Tommy Cello of West Coast on Road to Fame

By Fairplay.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Tommy Cello came all the way from the Pacific Coast to prove to Easterners that he must be reckoned with among the junior lightweights. Tommy has won over Ace Hudkins, Tommy O'Brien and Mushy Callahan. This would seem to place him well up with the first flight lightweights as well.

Charley Cook, who seems to have a monopoly on Coast boys in the East, is manager for Cello. Charley usually has a lot to say about the lads he looks after. Not so with Cello. Charley kept unusually quiet about the lad and jumped at the chance to show him in a six-round bout. And Tommy showed the fans plenty.

Cello's opponent was Jack Griff, the junior lightweight champion of the South. Jersey Jones has tried earnestly for the past two years to get Griff a chance in New York, and it was just his hard luck to draw the Italian from the Coast as his opponent.

All But a Knockout.

Although the Southerner fought with a willingness and ability speaking well for his class, he was outspeeded by Cello. The latter is fast on his feet and keeps both hands going with clock-like regularity. Either Griff is unusually tough or Cello has no knockout punch.

The advent of Cello and Griff made things interesting in the class now lorded by Tod Morgan. Cello proved that he is a real fighter. Although beaten, Griff was not disgraced. The route was a little too short for him. In his home town, New Orleans, Jack has been traveling over the 15 and 20 round routes.

The East is ever on the alert for new faces, and there are plenty of clubs looking for attractions. Both Cello and Griff will fit in nicely. Plenty of work is in store for their type of fighters, and it is only a question of time before this pair will hook up over a longer route.

Tommy's next fight will be with Pal Moran, the New Orleans veteran, who flashed one of his old fights against the former champion, Rocky Kansas, not so long ago. The fight was a no-decision affair or Pal would now be champion.

Two Crews Here Start Workout at Creve Coeur

Century Club Handicapped by Illness; Lake Program Saturday and Sunday.

The Western Rowing Club and the Century Boat Club yesterday shipped their racing shells to Creve Coeur Lake for the Central States Regatta Saturday and Sunday. Both clubs will spend the remaining portion of the week finishing their training program on the lake. This was done in order to give the oarsmen the opportunity of learning their respective courses.

Capt. August Muckler of the Western Rowing Club states that the rowing squad is in fit condition, in fact is the strongest that the Western Rowing Club has had in several years. The Western outfit is especially strong in the senior four event and is expected to give the Championship Quincy Four quite a struggle in that race. Those on the Western Rowing squad are: Capt. A. Muckler, Dahlgren, F. Muckler, Korte, Mummert, Carey, Schaefer, Holman, Bauer, Kohlschreiber, Wilson, Stumpf, Janca, Mueller, Becker, Schmidt, Schuster and Drohr.

Coach Henry Allen of the Century Boat Club declined to make a statement concerning the prospects of his crews in the coming regatta. The fact that several oarsmen are under doctors' care has made it necessary for Coach Allen to shift the line-up of several of his important crews, however, it is very likely that these men will be in condition to row by Saturday. The Century squad consits of Capt. W. E. Buder, Neudecker, G. Buder, Mahtews, Pardyke, Hanley, Karches, Daust, Pais, Ehrhardt, Iuning, Breitenbucher, Bokel, Schlossstein, Kreigeman, Oonk, Schicker, McLain and Panzier.

COMBINED DOG EVENTS TO BE HELD AT AFFTON ON SUNDAY, AUGUST 8

The St. Louis Pointer and Setter Club will hold its first annual dog show Aug. 8 at Affton, Mo. The St. Louis Beagle Club will hold its second annual show at the same time and place.

Last spring's pointer and setter trials at Waterloo, Ill., had a larger entry than any other puppy trial in the whole United States. The St. Louis Pointer and Setter Club has a membership of 325 active members, making it the largest field trial and bench show in America.

Entries for the dog show at Affton have been received from Oklahoma, which is considered the leading bird dog state in the Union. Missouri is pushing Oklahoma hard for this position. St. Louis alone has not only a large number but some of the highest class dogs of the country. S. G. Wilson Jr.'s string of field trial dogs, which passed through St. Louis last week en route to Canada in the care of George Payton, is not excelled by any in the country. Payton has in his charge Oxford's Heather, Patsy's Rod Whitestone, Oxford's Dot, Miss Patsy Whitestone, who have already proven their field trial ability.

Charles Babcock, who is in Wisconsin, has in his string Waterloo Pallacho Shep, the property of St. Louis Seed Co. Farms, and reports that Shep will be ready for the fastest company. H. F. Fellows of Springfield, Mo., will judge the pointers and setters at Affton. Dr. L. S. N. Walsh will superintend the bench show.

CURRAGH, Ireland, July 21.—Resplendent, owned by D. Sullivan, won the Irish Oaks today from a field of seven. The Aga Khan's Lady Lawless was second and P. D. Cullinan's Lenora was third.

Five Teams Lead In Farm League

Illinois Championship Match Likely Aug. 12 at Mount Vernon.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Wheat and oats harvesting, which began this week throughout Central Illinois, caused a temporary lull in the fight for the State championship in the Illinois Farm Bureau Baseball League, according to word received by the Illinois Agricultural Association today from Harrison Fahrnkopf, McLean County farm adviser at Bloomington.

A survey of the standing of the 12 counties engaged in the struggle shows that there are [illegible] outstanding teams in the race. The Marshall-Putnam team, that carried off State honors two years ago, has a clean slate with a record of every game so far played against Tazewell, Woodford and Peoria County. The Marshall-Putnam team is already being picked to win the State laureis for 1926.

McLean County established its disputed leadership in its district last week when it bested Peoria County in a double-header by a total to the tune of 5 to 3 and 6 to 6. McLean and Marshall-Putnam are now matched against each other in the semifinals and will play off the schedule as soon as games can be arranged.

In Western Illinois, Brown County so far has the best of the tournament by its decisive victories over Adams and Schuyler Counties, winning 11 to 4 and 17 to 0, respectively.

LOST ARTICLE
Advertising
When concentrated in the Post-Dispatch is almost certain to restore the article if it is found by an honest person, because the Post-Dispatch is the recognized Lost medium of St. Louis invariably consulted by persons who find lost articles. It is also a fact recognized by St. Louisans that many lost articles are advertised exclusively in the Post-Dispatch. Each week the Post-Dispatch prints TWICE as many LOST and FOUND ads as the next St. Louis newspaper. If a lost article cannot be recovered through the Post-Dispatch it is, as a rule, not recovered.

ELOPERS WHO ARRIVED WITH LOAD OF HOGS, LAND IN JAIL

Illinois Pair Say They Planned to Marry, but License Office Was Closed.

The elopement of Arthur Woolbright, 21 years old, and Sophia Nowicki, 18, of Ashley, Ill., may not have been truly romantic but at any rate it was novel.

In a filling station at Ashley they met yesterday morning and reached their decision. Woolbright, a chauffeur, had a truckload of hogs to drive to East St. Louis, so Miss Nowicki climbed upon the driver's seat and came with him. At National Stock Yards she waited while he disposed of his stock and then rode with him to 3651 Cook avenue, where he established her in a furnished room.

Woolbright drove back to Ashley with the truck, completing his duty, and returned on the train, arriving at 9 p. m., too late to see the marriage license clerk. They decided to marry this morning.

But at 6 a. m. police were knocking on the door with Sheriff May of Ashley and a warrant against Miss Nowicki sworn out by John Kenetski, garage owner, who had charged that she took some books from his shop.

"I never saw Mr. Kenetski's old books," she said.

But the pair were arrested and are held for Federal authorities on suspicion of violating the Mann act.

BOY DIES, DRIVER HELD FOR CRIMINAL CARELESSNESS

A Coroner's jury today returned a verdict of criminal carelessness against John Belloir, 22 years old, of 4020 Weber avenue, whose machine struck Oliver Flier, 13 years old, Sunday. The boy, a son of Henry and Ada Flier, of 7733 Ivory avenue, died at City Hospital yesterday from a fractured skull.

George Broeckelmann of 4724 Louisiana avenue, a passenger in Belloir's car, testified that other boys pushed Flier into the path of the machine as it proceeded at a medium rate of speed east in Weber road, near the River des Peres bridge. Other witnesses repudiated this testimony and said the car was going 40 miles an hour. Belloir did not testify.

Sale of Taxicab Firm's Property.

Permission to sell some of the personal property of the Canary Taxicab Co. was granted yesterday by Circuit Judge Mix on petition of William Zachritz, its receiver. The property to be sold includes auto parts, oils, grease, tools, accessories, office furniture and other assets of a perishable nature. The Canary company passed into receivership June 25 on petition of its president, Roy Graham, who said the company was insolvent and unable to pay debts.

COPPER AX FOUND ON FARM NORTH OF EDWARDSVILLE

Implement, Supposed to Have Been Made by Mound Builders, Weighs 8 Pounds.

What appears to be a crudely fashioned copper ax, attributed to the Indian mound builders, has been added to the collection of John R. Sutter, Edwardsville collector of Indian relics.

The ax, which weighs about eight pounds, was found by a farmer plowing in the Cahokia Creek Valley, north of Edwardsville, and it is of particular interest to Sutter because of its large size and the fact that it is unfinished.

The piece of virgin copper, greatly oxidized by its years underground, had been shaped roughly, but the blade had not been sharpened. Sutter has added it to a group of similar axes of various sizes and stages of completion.

The vicinity of Edwardsville has been prolific of relics. Some years ago a bronze tablet, attributed to La Salle's expedition, with antlers on one side and a pair of halberdiers on the other, was found 10 feet underground in a building operation. Some time ago a tree was blown over in Edwardsville, revealing about two barrels of wampum, apparently an Indian banker's hidden store.

ELSIE JANIS' JEWELS WORTH $50,000 SEIZED IN CUSTOMS

Vaudeville Entertainer Had Declared Only $100 in Dutiable Goods; Must Explain.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Jewels belonging to Elsie Janis, revue star and vaudeville entertainer, valued at $50,000, were in the hands of customs officials today who seized them when the actress returned from Europe and declared dutiable articles only to the extent of $100. Miss Janis says she cannot understand the seizure. She insisted that she had had the seized articles for years.

"The fact is," she confided after she had been divested of a two-string pearl necklace, diamond earrings and a diamond brooch, "I have no jewels. It is a joke to describe the few things I possess as jewels." She said her little trinkets were insured for $30,000, but were worth more.

Customs officials suggested $50,000 as a proper valuation. They also suggested that she might explain to a special agent of the Treasury this afternoon where and when the trinkets were bought.

250 EMPLOYES STRIKE AT CENTURY ELECTRIC PLANT

Quit Winding Department, Eighteenth and Pine, Over Work Readjustment.

About 250 employes of the winding department of the Century Electric Co., Eighteenth and Pine streets, went on strike this morning in protest against an ordered readjustment of working rules, which the employes hold will result in a reduction of pay.

Those sponsoring the strike called a meeting of workers in Forest Park to formulate demands. E. W. Collins, superintendent of the plant, declared the walkout to be "nothing more than a misunderstanding between the employes and foremen." Collins denied that a 10 per cent wage cut of winding department employes was contemplated, as is claimed by the strikers. There are 1500 employes at the plant. The average wage of those striking is $26 per week.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls, or answers by mail, cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

CONSTANT READER—Take the coin to a dealer in order to determine its value.

DUMB.—The four Federal prisons officially known as United States civil prisons, are at Atlanta, Ga.; Leavenworth, Kan.; McNeil Island, Wash. and Moundsville, W. Va.

RECORDING.—Consult one or two of the various shops where phonographic records are sold for the information desired. We should think that you could secure books on the subject of phonographic recording at the Public Library.

T. R. A.—It is said that the flag of Denmark is the oldest unaltered flag, its cross dating back to 1219. The Italian flag dates back to 1310. The flag of the United States was established in 1777.

S. E.—It was on the 28th of June, 1914 that the assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir to the throne of Austro-Hungary, and his wife took place at Sarajevo, Bosnia.

RAM.—Library paste may be made by heating an ounce of rice starch, three drams of gelatine and one-half pint of water. Stir constantly until the liquid becomes thick and glossy. Keep in a tight bottle with a few drops of olive oil.

MARIE.—In England the primrose is worn on the birthday of Lord Beaconsfield. On the anniversary of Parnell's death his followers wear a sprig of ivy. The Jacobites wear white roses in June 10. In France the Orleanists wear white daisies and the Bonapartists the violet.

DUMB.—The following are the names of the wedding anniversaries: First, cotton; second, paper; third, leather; fifth, wooden; seventh, woolen; tenth, tin; twelfth, silk and fine linen; fifteenth, crystal; twentieth, china; twenty-fifth, silver; thirtieth, pearl; fortieth, ruby; fiftieth, golden and seventy-fifth, diamond.

B. T.—Corpus Christi, one of the chief festivals of the Roman Catholic Church, was instituted in 1264, by Pope Urban XIV., who appointed for its celebration the Thursday after the festival of the Trinity, and promised to all the penitents who took part in it indulgences for a period of from 40 to 100 days. The festival is distinguished by magnificent processions, and in France is known as the Fete Dieu.

READER.—Calvin Coolidge was born July 4, 1872, of pure New England ancestry. His father John C. Coolidge, farmer and storekeeper, married Victoria J. Moor, at Plymouth Notch, Vermont. Coolidge entered Amhurst College in 1891, graduated with honors in 1895. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1897. He married Grace Goodhue of Burlington, Vermont, in 1905. In 1912-15 he was elected a member of the Massachusetts State Senate becoming its president in 1914-15; he was lieutenant governor 1916-17-18; governor 1919-20. He was nominated on the Republican ticket for vice president June 12, 1920 and was elected November 4, 1920. On the death of President Harding, Calvin Coolidge, became the Chief Executive of the nation, taking the oath of office at midnight on August 2, 1923, and in 1924 was re-elected. In politics he is a Republican, and in religion a Congregationalist.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

ROBT.—Provided the letter was read by no one except the address, you would not be liable. In any case, if you could prove the truth of your statements, you would not be liable. The statements you mention, furthermore, may not be defamatory.

ANGIOUSLY AWAITING.—You want to get a divorce in Mexico because of the very short residence requirements. That is precisely the kind of divorce that would not be recognized by the courts of this country.

R. E.—Sales of real estate for taxes are infrequent here. You might follow the sales listed each day in the "Daily Record." It is of course risky to bid unless you know that you will get a good title.

FRED.—(1) A minor could only buy or sell the property through a legally appointed guardian. (2) He could sue for the return of the $10 and might be successful. (3) A German who is not naturalized cannot legally buy real estate in Missouri.

W. O.—Aspirin is a drug, and section 4712, Revised Statutes, Mo., 1919, provides that it shall be unlawful for any person not licensed as a pharmacist to conduct or manage any drug store or other place of business for the retailing of any drugs, medicines, etc., or to keep exposed for sale any drugs, chemicals, etc. However, this section does not apply to the sale of patent and proprietary medicines, and if you sold aspirin in that form and in the original package, that would be permissible.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

READER W. S.—Inquire of Barnes Hospital clinic, 600 South Kingshighway for the examination of the throat.

R. P.—We would recommend that you go to a Sanitarium where they will place you on a proper diet, with exercise and baths. If you require medical treatment they will give it to you.

INQUIRER.—Braces and plaster splints properly applied are very often successful in the correction of bow-legs in young people. If they are adults it's likely that surgical means will have to be employed.

VERY THANKFUL.—You should be thoroughly examined by a physician. The lump in your breasts, is, of course, some kind of tumor and very often dangerous. As for your other trouble, that requires a pelvic examination and should be done very soon. If you are not able to pay, then visit one of the free clinics.

RUDOLPH.—The indications are that you have some obstruction at the neck of your bladder. Medicines often relieve simple irritations of the bladder. Baths are often helpful. Diet depends on the cause of your trouble. Many people go to Hot Springs, Ark., for such trouble.

GIRL, 13, IS THIRD VICTIM OF TETANUS

Catherine Boyer, 13 years old, of Festus, Jefferson County, Mo., died of tetanus early Saturday at Liberty Hospital, it became known last night. She had accidentally shot herself in the palm of the right hand with a blank cartridge several days after the Fourth of July, the shell having been left over from Independence day celebration.

She was playing with a small pistol near her home in Festus and apparently in taking hold of the weapon pulled the trigger by mistake. The paper wadding of the cartridge penetrated her hand.

Given Serum Treatment.

It was reported to the hospital here that her physician at Festus had given her one injection of antitetanus serum. Another and heavy dose of this antitoxin was given when she reached the hospital July 11. It had been thought that treatment at home would suffice, but she became seriously ill of tetanus and then was sent here.

She was the daughter of Mrs. Alice Thomure.

Two Boys Died of Tetanus.

Two St. Louis boys have died from tetanus since Saturday night. Both were powder burned by blank cartridges. More than 300 other persons in St. Louis who were injured in celebrating that holiday received antitetanus serum and have not developed tetanus. The serum usually is efficacious only when administered promptly and in sufficient quantity.

HOOVER SPEECH BROADCAST ON A PIRATED WAVE LENGTH

WAMD Trespasses on Ether Right of KPRC; Commerce Secretary Doesn't Know Till Later.

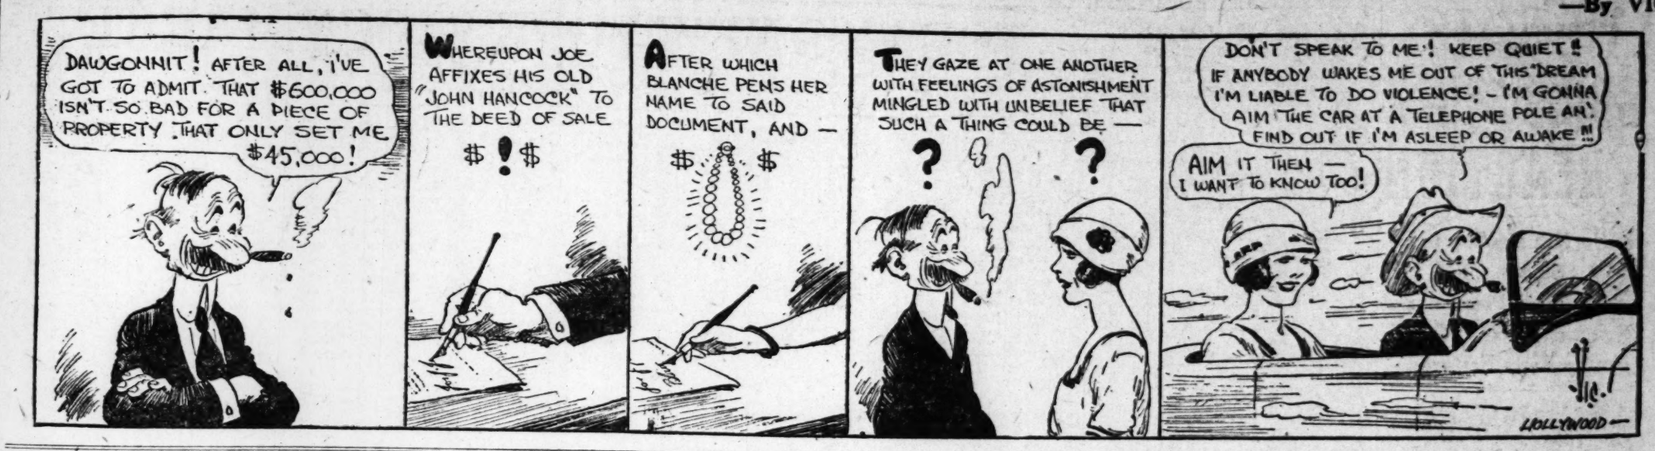

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 21.—A wave length exclusively granted another station by the Department of Commerce was used by WAMD, Minneapolis radio station, yesterday to broadcast an address by Secretary of Commerce Hoover. By appropriating the wave length of 296.9 meters, which had been assigned to KPRC, the station of the Houston Post-Dispatch, at Houston, Tex., WAMD recently stirred a protest as the first station in the Northwest to change from the assigned wave lengths. It formerly broadcast on 244 meters.

Hoover's address was given here before the convention of the United States League of Local Building and Loan Associations. The secretary later indicated that he had not been aware the station was operating on other than its assigned wave length.

$100,000 REVETMENT JOB TO START SOON IN CARROLL COUNTY

CARROLLTON, Mo., July 21.—Contracts will be let soon for $100,000 worth of revetment work on the Missouri River in Carroll County. The object of the work is co-operative bank protection, and some 12,000 acres constitute the district affected. The work will begin about a mile and one-half below the Waverly Bridge, on the Carroll County side of the river.

More than $1,000,000 has been spent in drainage projects in the Missouri River bottom in Carroll County during the last 15 years. This work has drained a total of approximately 288,000 acres—the largest drained bottom area in the State outside of Southeast Missouri.

The average cost of the drainage work has been $1 a year per acre for a 20-year period. The land is practically worthless without drainage. The present market value is somewhat unsettled, but the last bottom farm to change hands was one of 160 acres that sold for $225 an acre.

RACES 600 MILES TO FATHER

By the Associated Press.

MALONE, N. Y., July 21.—John F. Casey Jr. of Pittsburg, Pa., employing train, airplane and automobile, made a 600-mile dash to the bedside of his father in a hospital here.

The father, a Pittsburg contractor, with a summer camp at Loon Lake, was seriously injured there Monday when a train struck him. The son left Pittsburg by train for Buffalo, where an airplane awaited him. At Rochester the plane encountered a storm and made a forced landing. Casey bought an automobile and continued his dash to Malone.

TRADE COMMISSION PROHIBITS USE OF 'PHILIPPINE MAHOGANY'

Humphrey, in Dissenting Opinion, Says Order Creates Monopoly for Honduras Wood.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Three companies were ordered today by the Federal Trade Commission to desist from using the words "Philippine Mahogany" as applied to a wood which is not genuine mahogany "as is generally understood by dealers and the purchasing public."

The companies are the Indiana Quartered Oak Co. of New York; Jones Hardwood Co., San Francisco, and Thomas W. Powe and F. C. Harrington, trading as the Thomas E. Powe Lumber Co. of St. Louis. Commissioner Humphrey dissented from the others.

The commission held the wood advertised and sold by all of the respondents as mahogany is imported from the Philippines, the common trade name being lauan and tanguile.

"It was further found," the ruling said, "that the wood, 'Philippine mahogany' is much more porous than genuine mahogany, and that in finishing the Philippine product the appearance of genuine mahogany is simulated but that with time and wear the filling shrinks into the pores, and consequently presents a much inferior appearance than does the genuine mahogany."

"If the majority is consistent," Commissioner Humphrey said, "it appears to me that it will at once proceed against the mahogany association for using the term, 'African mahogany,' as this wood, like the Philippine product, is not mahogany botanically."

The real "milk in the cocoanut," he said, was the Philippine mahogany was coming into the United States duty free and was becoming a serious competitor of the mahogany association, which he said was the only objector to use of the description. The order he said would tend to give the association a monopoly on the American mahogany market. He held that in its higher grades Philippine mahogany is equal in beauty to the finest of other mahogany woods.

Women Need a Mild Laxative —Not a "Physic"

Countless girls and women now know how foolish and needless it is to "purge" and "physic" themselves to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, sallow skin, colds, or sour, gassy stomach.
They have found that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even for those heretofore chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement, but, best of all, it never gripes, sickens or upsets the most delicate girl or woman. LATE SALES BRING STOCK REACTION

Recovery in Leading Industrial Shares That Had Been nder Pressure and Rebound on French Francs Early Features.

NEW YORK, July 21.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted financial review today says:

"A recovey in leading industrial shares which had been under pressure yesterday, a rebound in French francs and mixed movements in commodity prices were the principal features of today's financial market. A wave of selling swept over the market just before the close, reducing or cancelling many of the gains. Continued easy money rates failed to stimulate the demand for bonds and prices again showed a tendency to sag, although better support was encountered than yesterday. Rail and traction issues were weakest, while some Government descriptions dropped slightly. Money held at 4 per cent.

• • •

Recovery in Market.

"With most of the leading favorites in better demand the stock market gave evidence of restored confidence. General Motors rallied briskly after an early reaction and American Safety Razor forged ahead to a new top for the year. Cast Iron Pipe was strong. Sentiment was helped by continued favorable credit conditions, a recovery in French francs and by the cheerful view of the steel industry reflected in the weekly trade summaries. The statement that business this month had held up above expectations was regarded as a bullish argument and steel shares were in urgent demand. U. S. Steel moved up more than a point, while Republic Iron and Steel suddenly came to life with a spurt of more than 5 points. Sloss Sheffield was another strong stock in the group.

• • •

Rail Stocks Steady.

"Rail shares remained quiet in spite of expectations of a long list of favorable earnings statements in the next few days. Traders showed little inclination to depress the shares, however, and a steady tone prevailed. Motor stocks were irregular, Hudson losing a part of its recent rise and others moving irregularly in narrow limits. Several specialties which had been dormant for some time showed signs of recovering.

• • •

French Franc Rallies.

"Rates for the principal European currencies reversed yesterday's trend in moderately active trading today. French francs rallied about a quarter of a cent from the record low established yesterday at 1.95c. A more cheerful view of the French financial situation was responsible for a recovery in London before the New York market opened and the local rate was up to 2.17c when trading began. It subsequently moved to 2.21c. Belgian and Italian rates also rallied briskly, while sterling showed a tendency to sag.

• • •

Commodities Irregular.

"Prices were irregular in the principal commodity markets following in the main yesterday's trend. Wheat values eased off further, while corn developed renewed weakness. Cotton continued its recovery with a spurt of almost $1 a bale.

COTTON MARKET STEADY BUT NOT VERY ACTIVE

NEW YORK, July 21.—Steadiness without much activity featured the cotton market early today. First prices were 5 points higher to 1 lower, reflecting steady cables and showers at a number of points in the Southwest.

Forecasts of additional showers in Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas strengthened the midday market in face of a rather favorable weekly weather summary, and induced enough covering and Wall street support to elevate prices 17 to 22 points above the previous close.

Although quieter in the afternoon, the market retained its steadiness, owing to bullish private weather and crop news and around 2 o'clock was within 3 or 4 points of the top.

Institute Is Indorsed.

NEW YORK, July 21.—The institute was indorsed at a meeting last night of the Board of Governors of the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association. The following officers of the association were elected: President, James P. Gossett of Williamston, S. C.; vice president, George S. Harris of Atlanta, Ga., and second vice president, H. R. Fitzgerald of Danville, Va.

The report of the Subcommittee on the Institute will be given today at a meeting of the manufacturers.

The institute plan, it is believed, will bring about greater co-operation among the manufacturers in the textile industries.

It is planned to create bureaus of information and a search department to investigate markets, discover new uses for cotton mill products, standardize products and consider trade practices and abuses.

The report was submitted to the manufacturers by former United States Senator Henry F. Lippitt of Rhode Island, secretary of the committee of 10 which has been studying the feasibility of the institute.

Steel Industry Situation.

NEW YORK, July 21.—"Thus far July production and demand have not eased off to the extent looked for by leaders in the steel trade," Iron Age says. "In some products the movement is larger, notably in Pipe and Tin Plate, and consumption by the automobile industry hold up well. It is noteworthy that in the absence of railroad demand and with shipments and fabricated steel exceeding the inflow of new business, there is satisfaction throughout the industry over the scale of operations and the indications for the remainder of the quarter.

The Iron Age pig iron composite price remains at $19.46 per gross ton, the low point of the year reached last week. The finished steel composite price is unchanged for the fifth consecutive week at 2431 cents per pound.

GRAINS CLOSE LOWER ON CHICAGO MARKET

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Wheat trade was limited today. A setback at the start met with support and prices after that held slightly below Tuesday's close.

Wheat rallied in the late trade today on short covering, but the bulge failed to hold and closing prices were ¼c to 1¼c lower. July $1.41⅝, September, $1.42¼ to $1.42⅜, December $1.46⅞ to $1.47. Corn closed 1¼c to 4⅜c lower. July 76⅞c, September 84¼c to 84⅜c, December 86⅝c to 86¾c. Oats were unchanged to ⅛c lower. July 40c, September 42½c, December 45⅝c to 45½c. Lard closed 5c to 12½c higher on short covering, ribs 10c lower, bellies 5c lower. Local cash sales were wheat, 63,000 bushels, 64,000 of corn, 28,000 of oats, 6000 of barley. Cash wheat premiums were unchanged to 1c higher.

Foreigners, houses with country connections and locals were all good sellers at the opening. Weather over the spring wheat territory, both in Canada and this country, was cooler and there were beneficial rains in many sections. This was a bear factor. Around $1.42 for September good buying developed on resting orders, and later Northwest houses bought. Bulges brought out increased selling. At midday, July was $1.42¼, September $1.42⅜, December $1.46¾.

News was mixed, but the trade was in bearish frame of mind because of the expected increased movement of new wheat to run in the Southwest. This attitude was somewhat offset by reports from the spring wheat territory, which continued dry despite the rain.

Millers are keen buyers of cash wheat and a car of choice No. 1 hard sold at 4½c over July. Country offerings of new wheat were somewhat increased today but still are moderate.

The Seaboard reported export demand rather disappointing. French financial troubles are influencing buyers to take wheat only as they need the wheat. Liverpool said their weakness was due to the lower American market and better weather.

Corn was weak, meeting heavy liquidation and support from local holders was unable to stop the decline. Posting of 40,000 bushels of corn in an elevator as out of condition helped to turn sentiment bearish. Liquidation was general at the start, especially in the old crop months, while longs attempted to stem the tide by selling but gave up before the morning session was over. The forecast for cooler and showery weather and this tended to shake confidence of December longs.

Oats held fairly steady. Commission houses bought after an early break caused by local liquidation due to weakness in other grains. Disquieting crop reports because of the intense heat and lack of moisture at filling time is making more friends for oats. Shipping demand is improving.

Lower hogs and grain caused selling of provisions. At midday lard was 7½c to 12½c off; ribs 15c down; bellies 12½c lower.

Chicago Grain Carlots.

Textile Market.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Cotton goods markets showed moderate and steady improvement yesterday. Lonsdale 4-4 bleached cottons were advanced ¼c to 15¼c a yard. Sales of Southern colored cottons were more general. Cotton yarns were in better demand, sales running from 5000 to 25,000 lots with occasional orders of larger volume reported.

Burlaps markets were quiet, with a softer tone in primary channels, and an indifferent demand for late deliveries.

Sales of silk goods for fall consumption have been increasing but buying continues generally of a conservative character. Additional lines of tropical weight worsted men's wear for spring are being shown, with price levels adhering very closely to that set by the American Woolen Co. at its opening.

New York Sugar.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—While offerings were more liberal in the raw sugar market early today, prices were unchanged at 4.14 for Cuban, duty paid. The only sale was 20,000 bags of Cuban for early August shipment to a local refiner at that price.

Increased offerings in the spot market discouraged new buying in raw sugar futures and prices were easier under liquidation and selling by traders with Cuban connections, prices at midday were 2 points net lower.

Business in refined sugar continued in fair proportions, stimulated by the warmer weather with prices unchanged at 5.50 to 5.70 for fine granulated.

OILS PROMINENT ON CURB EXCHANGE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—There were many indications in the course of the day's trading on the Curb Exchange that the variations in the petroleum trade had been intensified to a great extent as unsettling market influences. More attention was paid to trading in many of the matured issues in that group and there were no further declines although a speculative element continued to find reasons for putting out short lines. Ohio Oil and Prairie Oil both made moderate gains. The supply of those stocks being scant. Standard Oil of Indiana was in steady demand but showed little change in its trading position. Standard Oil of New York also was well maintained and ruled at a slightly higher level. Some of the tropical stocks were active changes in that group including advances of a point or more.

Public utilities were actively traded, but profit taking sales checked advances in that group and caused some issues to recede. Electric Bond and Share yielded fractionally at the start and then recovered part of its loss and Lehigh Power after being in supply at a moderate decline also made a recovery. United Gas Improvement was firm and had a fractional gain.

Industrials were irregular, some stocks being in increased demand but movements in the group were generally narrow. General Baking continued strong and there was a fair demand for Continental Baking issues. Ford Motor was unchanged from its recent trading position while Durant Motor on small trading had a fractional loss. Gillette dropped about a point on a few sales. Goodyear was in scant supply and a moderate demand put it up ½, after which it became quiet.

Activity in the copper stocks on the Stock Exchange and increasing demand for copper metal was reflected in a disposition to accumulate those stocks on the Curb Market although few of them were materially changed in their position.

STAMPING CONCERN IN HANDS OF RECEIVER

The Standard Stamping Co. of 2000 North Broadway, which has been in business in St. Louis for more than 45 years, today was taken in charge by Colin M. Selph, former Postmaster, as temporary receiver.

He was appointed yesterday by Federal Judge Faris on complaint of James L. Minnis of Long Beach, Cal., a former St. Louis attorney, who, as a minority stockholder, charged that the company was being mismanaged by members of the Wiegand family, who control it.

In a hearing Saturday before Judge Faris it was shown that George Wiegand, who began as president in 1908 at an annual salary of $4500, now gets $15,000. Porter, a son, gets $8400 as superintendent; George G., another son, gets $7200 as assistant general manager and James J., a third son, gets $5400 plus commissions as sales manager, it was shown.

Only $4000 Dividend.

Minnis charged that on the $500,000 in stock, only $4000 in dividends was paid last year. He said dividends had steadily declined since 1908, when $60,000 was paid to stockholders.

Judge Faris' order of yesterday included an injunction against interference by the Wiegands with operation of the firm by the receiver. The Court provided that the receiver could, at his discretion, retain any, all, or none of the family in the continuation of the firm's business, but himself reserved the right to fix their compensation.

"It sems to the Court that the salaries of officials could in all good conscience have been scaled down to at least one-half their present figure during a period of adversity," Judge Faris had commented Saturday in ruling that a receiver should be appointed.

To Continue Business.

"George Wiegand, the evidence shows, draws a salary as president of the company that is greater than that paid the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. And Porter gets only $100 a year less than the Presiding Judge of the Circuit Court of Appeals of the Eighth Circuit although the jurist has been in the same capacity for 35 years—as long as Porter Wiegand has lived."

Receiver Selph is under instructions to carry on the operation of the firm, which is said to have assets of more than $1,000,000, for the manufacture of metal ware. His first task will be the making of an inventory.

PROWLER AT ORPHANS' HOME IS CAPTURED AFTER CHASE

Man Found in Basement Will Be Sent to Hospital for Mental Observation.

Children and attendants in the German General Protestant Orphans' Home at 4447 Natural Bridge avenue were excited at 10:40 p. m. yesterday when a prowler who had come in by a second-story window, was surprised by a wakeful child and ran through the building to a fire escape leading to the ground level.

Passing motorists, attracted by the turmoil, ran to the building and learning that the prowler had re-entered, captured him in the basement. He told the police he was William Zeihmeyer, 50 years old, of 3106 Abner place. He could give no satisfactory reason for entering the place. He will be sent today to the city hospital for observation, Police Capt. Maguire announced. Officials of the home which houses 89 boys and girls said they would not prosecute.

13 MONTHS TO LIVE

By OCTAVUS ROY COHEN

(Copyright, 1926.)

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS

ALAN BECKWITH, without family or friends, and unable to make a living at 26, determines to commit suicide. In order to repay his landlady,

MRS. GARRISON, who had befriended him and leave the world free of debt, he outlines a life insurance policy scheme to

ANDREW NORTH, powerful but mysterious underworld figure known as "The Man Who Never Smiles." North, however, elaborates upon the proposition and offers to insure Beckwith for $100,000, giving him thirteen months to live and $20,000 to spend. North's organization will keep him under constant watch and, at the end of that time, Allan will complete his suicide pact—or one of North's men will do so for him. That there may be no suspicion of North's part in the plot, the money will be paid to Beckwith's wife, a woman whom North controls, named

BEVERLY AMES, and whom he must marry. Realizing fully that there will be no evading his part of the bargain, Alan accepts the strange conditions. Next day he takes out the policy, made out to "Mrs. Alan Beckwith," and drives with North to meet his future wife. Although he tries to think of her as "one of North's women," she is not like a woman of the underworld, but delicate, childlike and appealing. Their marriage at City Hall is a blur of unreality.

Afterwards, North escorts them to the apartment which he has provided, presided over by genial ELLEN, the cook, and with forced gaiety the bridal dinner is served. Then North bids them good night.

CHAPTER VIII.

Mrs. Garrison Goes Shopping.

THE clatter of breakfast dishes aroused Alan the following morning. He opened his eyes drowsily and stared about the living room. Then, from the kitchen, he heard voices:

"But, Ellen, if I like it—"

"Like what ye will, Mrs. Beckwith. I don't think ye have a right to be tampering with your husband's stummick with any such dough as that. It wouldn't make biscuits which was fit to eat, let alone di-gest. Be moving out of my way, please—I don't want to spill Mr. Beckwith's coffee."

He heard Ellen's heavy tread and a little laugh from Beverly, and then the big woman strode to his bedside with a tiny tray on which reposed steaming coffee, cream and sugar.

"Top of the mornin' to ye, Mr. Beckwith—and I hope you slept well."

"Wonderfully, Ellen." Across the tray their eyes met. A flash of understanding passed between them—and Ellen turned away without another word.

Yet, as he sipped his before-breakfast coffee—a rare and forgotten luxury—Alan's thoughts were busy. Last night he had taken Ellen for granted; this morning that was no longer possible.

Ellen had exhibited no slightest flicker of surprise that he should have occupied the living room on the first night of his married life. Had she been an ordinary cook, her face would have betrayed keen interest. The very fact that she accepted the unique condition was proof positive that she knew something—perhaps a very great deal.

"Another of North's women," Alan told himself.

The idea was disturbing. It heightened the impression of a net which enmeshed him. Then he shook his head and smiled grimly; after all, what did it matter? A bargain was a bargain, and he had no intention whatsoever of evading his portion of the compact. So long, then, as Ellen proved herself a competent domestic—and she undeniably was that—he had no valid cause for protest.

His coffee finished, he rose and bathed and shaved. He saw Beverly for the first time that morning at the table. She was dressed in a sober little blue linen dress which accentuated her girlishness.

She nodded gravely as he seated himself opposite and save for the delicate tracery of worry lines at the corners of her eyes, gave no hint of her part in this tragic comedy.

Breakfast finished, he made his way to North's apartment. North was clad in dressing gown and slippers when Alan entered. He greeted the young man in his cool, precise manner and inquired politely after his health. Then, chatting indifferently and casually, he dressed and taxied Alan downtown.

An hour later $19,500 in cash had been deposited to the credit of Alan Beckwith. Notrh had sent him in alone to make the deposit. "I prefer to remain in the background," was his explanation. But he waited outside for Alan.

"The die is definitely cast," he remarked, as the young man rejoined him. "Do you regret it?"

"Just a minute: I wanted to let you know that I realize Ellen is in your employ."

"Meaning what?"

"That I know she is there to spy upon me."

"A very discerning young man. At any rate, she is an excellent housegirl." North was imperturbable. "One more thing, Alan—I shall see that Beverly is taken care of when you die. I shall give her $5000 of the insurance money."

The man's brutality was disconcerting. Alan's face went white and he bowed stiffly. "That is very good of you," he replied coldly.

He visited a prominent clothier and purchased two sack suits, a dozen new shirts and some underwear, socks, collars and ties. Then he went to a tailor and ordered a dinner suit. He spent money timidly; the poverty of years had left an indelible impression upon him—had imparted to him a very natural caution. At lunch he joined Beverly and there he told of Mrs. Garrison and of his promise to her.

"That's fine, Alan. I'd like to go with you—and perhaps she'd come home to dinner with us tonight."

"That's awfully good of you, Beverly. I didn't want to inflict myself or my friends on you"——

"I like real people, Alan."

And so when Alan called for Mrs. Garrison that afternoon, Beverly was with him. The two women looked at one another, and then Mrs. Garrison folded the girl in her arms and kissed her squarely on the lips.

"Beverly Beckwith," she said, "I think you are a very fortunate young woman."

"And I think Alan was a lucky young man to have had you for his friend, Mrs. Garrison. He has told me what you did for him."

Garry flushed with pleasure. "Alan is that way! Exaggerating what other folks do. Now this afternoon is perfectly silly, and I have no intention"——

They bundled her into a waiting taxicab and went to a large department store. There, despite her fervid and panicky protests, they purchased for her a silk dress and silk underwear and silken stockings and expensive shoes. And a hat which the old lady had long secretly craved.

"But it's ridiculous," she protested. "There isn't any sense to it. What can I do with fine clothes like these?"

"Use them for visiting us," smiled Beverly. "Dinner and the theater occasionally"——

"You children! You'll be the death of me yet. Spending your money this way: Why, you'd think that there was a never-ending stream of it coming in—or that Alan had never known hunger and poverty."

"No, Garry," said he. "This proves that I have known them, and so I can appreciate the meaning of a little luxury."

"Just the same, you're two absurd children. Think of my rheumatic old legs in silk stockings." Her eyes were shining like stars. "But I love it—so there! I've never had things like these and I just won't be fit to live with when I get them on. If it wouldn't disgrace you and spoil the party, I'd have a good cry here in the store."

"Indeed I'm not, and for two reasons. The first of them is that I haven't made arrangements and there are a great many indigent boarders at my place who demand to be fed. In the second place, Beverly—I hope you're enough of a woman yourself to understand that since I own all this peacock finery I wouldn't go anywhere without it—and that salesgirl says she can't possibly have the alterations finished before tomorrow."

"Tomorrow night, then?"

"I shall."

"And afterward we'll go to the theater."

"Mercy, me! Can this be Martha Garrison?"

"It will be from now on, Garry. I don't forget things. And, listen—I've learned a deep, dark secret craving of yours—something which will be gratified tomorrow night."

"What's that?"

"Alan!"

They called another taxi and rode home with her, her arms piled high with purchases. She was all a-tremble with delight and appreciation. As Alan stepped to the curb in front of her boarding house and turned to help her—he saw her lean over and kiss Beverly.

"I know you two will be very happy, my dear."

"I'm sure of it, Garry."

And then in the vestibule the old lady looked straight into Alan's eyes.

"Be very kind to your little wife, Alan," she advised softly. "She is a sweet, dear girl—and I more than suspect that life has treated her none too gently."

Mr. and Mrs. Beckwith Entertain.

The dinner in honor of Martha Garrison was a decided success. Beverly entered into the spirit of the thing with an enthusiasm which surprised and delighted Alan. And Ellen extended herself.

There were little place cards, done in crayon by Beverly with a skillful touch. Alan caught the spirit of the affair and had corsage bouquets delivered at the apartment for his wife and Garry. He took infinite pains with his own toilette—and was rather proud of himself. After all, continuous and bitter adversity had never deprived him of his love for good clothes, for the feel of soft fabrics against his flesh. He possessed one of those fortunate figures upon which readymade clothes sit with tailored grace and he found himself wondering—as he gazed at his mirrored reflection—whether Beverly would be pleased.

But her expression of delight in his appearance fell upon deaf ears. He stood in the doorway and stared at the fairy apparition which she presented.

It was an evening gown of silver with a robe of sapphire sequins; a gemmed casing for her jewel of a body. Her bobbed hair was caught back so that it no longer appeared to be bobbed—and the effect loaned to her years, grace and mature beauty. Across the forehead was a bandeau of rhinestones.

"Beverly!"

"It was silly of me, Alan; but then Garry will be so pleased."

"I'm just an overdressed, vain little fool."

"You are a very delicious little woman and I'm proud of you."

An inexplicable feeling of constraint came between them then and Beverly hurried into the kitchen. She returned when Garry arrived.

Garry was throbbing with excitement. Fine clothes, skillfully selected, had worked wonders with her. The wan, pinched, worried look was gone and it was patent that in spirit, at any rate, she was young again. She raved over Beverly's appearance, told Alan that he looked positively handsome—"so cultured and dignified and lordly, as it were, Alan." And she fairly burst with pride over the corsage of rosebuds and valley lilies.

For the second time in their brief marital career Alan and Beverly played host and hostess, but tonight there was none of the terrific strain of the previous evening; none of the sardonic mockery of North's bride roses and wedding cake. It was a wholesome evening, filled with banter and idle chatter. Then a picture show and after that the ride home with Garry and the return to their apartment.

"And Garry is a dear old lady. The experience was as delightful for me as it appeared to be for her."

"Thanks, Alan—" Then—"Good night."

"Good night, Beverly."

J. P. MORGAN'S GIFT TO A BABY THAT CHARMED HIM, LEADS TO ART CAREER

Miss Virginia Marie Burbidge, Now 18, Will Go to Europe Because She Attracted Late Financier When She Was Cooing Infant.

By NANCY DORRIS.

Mr. Morgan, then president of the museum, was showing a party of distinguished guests over the beautiful structure filled with priceless works of art of all ages when he caught sight of a sweet, dainty mite of femininity good naturedly looking at the bright lights illuminating the museum galleries.

A baby at an evening exhibition never fails to excite attention, but a baby in the stately building devoted to the arts was as much out of place as a Corot or a Rodin in a nursery.

The sight of the child pleased Mr. Morgan, it seems, for without a word to his guests he stopped and held out his white gloved finger to the infant whose mother was deeply absorbed in the art treasures from Kaiser Wilhelm's galleries.

"Dada," cooed the baby, taking firm hold of the finger, much to the evident delight of Mr. Morgan. The mother apologized for her daughter's hold on the finger.

Miss VIRGINIA MARIE BURBIGE

J. P. Morgan's Gift

"I'm going to make her a Life Fellow of the Museum," he remarked to a friend, and signaled to his secretary. The mother, pleased but embarrassed at being singled out by the distinguished looking man in evening dress, could scarcely answer the questions as to the child's identity.

The financier's secretary learned that the infant was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Burbidge and that the father was a temporary electrician at the museum. Tickets for the opening of the German Art Exhibit had been given him that afternoon, and, having no one to leave in charge of the baby, the mother had brought her along.

Four days later a package was delivered at the Burbidge home. It was the framed certificate of Virginia Marie Birbidge's Life Fellowship in the Metropolitan Museum and bore the characteristic signature of J. Pierpont Morgan. The date was Jan. 4, 1909, the night Mr. Morgan promised the fellowship. The messenger explained the delay by saying that owing to an error in the address they had had to resort to a newspaper ad to locate the Burbige baby.

When the museum's youngest Fellow was a long-legged girl of 13 she was informed by the committee that Mr. Morgan's interest in her had not ceased with the gift of the Fellowship. He had arranged a $5000 scholarship for study to become effective at her eighteenth birthday.

But little Virginia could not speak her thanks to her benefactor. He had been dead several years. In her own way she tried to show her gratitude and appreciation of his thoughtfulness. Right seriously she applied herself to her beloved music and art, although never neglecting her school work at the parochial school of Our Lady of Good Counsel, and later at St. John's Academy, Lewis and Willoughby avenues, or failing to master the household arts practiced by the women of her family.

The years passed by, two of them being spent in the New York Library Bureau, and on July 9 Virginia, almost a replica of the girl-mother Mr. Morgan asked about her babe, celebrated her coming of age. Meanwhile, between planning her two years' study in Paris and Rome and receiving congratulations from her friends, she is helping her mother settle the family in the comfortable, roomy flat at No. 658 Monroe street, Brooklyn, where they moved lately.

"Although I have known about the scholarship for years, now that it is mine I can hardly believe that it's actually true and I am soon to go abroad," Virginia said at her home, when asked how it seemed to have a fairy godfather. "Any girl who loves music and art would pinch herself to be sure she wasn't dreaming.

"I wish Mr. Morgan were alive so that I might talk over my future with him. But he is gone, and I must work it out for myself. What my life work will be depends entirely upon the progress I show. I am interested in illustration at the moment, chiefly because I enjoy drawing faces, but my forte may be along design or some other branch of art.

"Whatever it is, I shall discover with the aid of the teachers in Paris and Rome, and I shall work hard. I want to be a credit to the kind friend who had such faith in a six-months-old babe."

The suggestion that perhaps it was the young mother and her enthusiasm for art that had caused Mr. Morgan to provide a scholarship for the infant brought a happy laugh from Virginia.

"Mother studied art when she was a girl at Villa Maria, Lexington avenue and Seventy-ninth street, and being a Yorkville girl she lived within a stone's throw of the museum and was a constant visitor," the girl said. "Her studies were interrupted, but her talent for drawing and her eye for color came down to my sister, Grace, and myself.

"Even though I hadn't had the privileges accorded a Fellow at the museum, I think I would have taken up painting. Early mother instilled a love and appreciation for art in me and encouraged me to express myself."

Thought Offer a Joke

Mrs. Burbidge, who does not look old enough to be the mother of the lovely, dark-haired, willowy Virginia, blushed when recalling the embarrassment with which she stammered her thanks to Mr. Morgan for what she thought was his passing interest in her first born.

"I thought he was joking when he told me he would make her a Life Fellow," she acknowledged with a twinkle in her gray blue eyes, "and it was only when this framed certificate arrived that I realized he was in earnest. He was in a jovial, happy frame of mind that January evening, laughing and talking with his friends, and I suppose that the sight of Virginia, so out of place at that gathering of distinguished people, must have touched a responsive chord in his nature and made him want to keep her a part of the memory.

"How I have wished that I had had my wits about me and spoken my thanks. He must have thought me ungrateful, but maybe he knew something about young mothers and understood my pleasure at having the baby noticed. When he had passed away and we learned of the scholarship, I regretted more than ever my inability to thank him."

If her cousin, Miss Mary Plunkett, a teacher, cannot arrange to accompany Virginia to Paris this fall, Mrs. Burbidge will go over with her. She is a little sad at the thought of going so far away from her loved ones, but, like the courageous young person she is, plans to prepare for the great chance for study that has been laid at her feet.

The Big Beach Hat.

THERE is no need to have the hair bleached and the face scorched by the hot rays of the sun while at the beach this summer. Large straw hats designed solely for beach wear cover the hair and shade the face and neck. The beauty of these hats is that they are light in weight and can be made to fit any size head by a novel band around the crown of the hat, which can be tightened to prevent the sea breezes from carrying the hat away. They are very attractive, too, and can be obtained in almost any desired shade.

The most plain, short and lawful way to any good end is more eligible than one directly contrary in some or all of these qualities.—Swift.

Leading skin specialists of the world urge it—it has given naturally clear complexions to more women than any other method known

Simple, natural ways now are given first place by authorities. Modern beauty culture has largely discarded the artificial ways of yesterday.

The following rule is being widely urged by experts. It is credited with bringing more women beautiful complexions than any other method known—just keeping the pores clean and the skin healthy, with the gentle olive and palm lather of Palmolive, used this way:

DO THIS—NOTE HOW YOUR SKIN IMPROVES

Wash your face gently with Palmolive Soap, massaging it softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream.

Do this regularly, and particularly in the evening. Use powder and rouge if you wish. But never leave them on over night. They clog the pores, often enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away.

Follow these rules day in and day out. Your skin will be soft and lovely—naturally colorful and clear.

FIXING MEATS IN SUMMER

By HANNAH WING

WHEN ingenuity fails you in selecting a new and different cut of meat, and you want something rather light and delicate for a summer meal, try those delicacies that are always at the end of the counter—the livers, brains and sweetbreads. These glandular organs are particularly rich in vitamins and iron and should have an important place on the meat list.

Perhaps you have tired of fried liver and bacon? Then try these liver rolls. Prepare slices of liver, sprinkle with pepper and salt, spread with a savory bread stuffing made with butter but not too moist. Roll the slices up like small jelly rolls and fasten with a baking dish and bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees Fahrenheit for 30 minutes.

Or if you are fond of casserole dishes use this recipe: Wash a calf's liver thoroughly and wipe dry. Fry a few slices of bacon, remove from the fat and saute the liver in the fat searing each side but not cooking until it is done. Place the liver in a casserole, add the slices of bacon, a cup of canned tomatoes or a can of tomato soup, three cups of potato balls, one cup of button mushrooms lightly sauted in fat and a cup of brown stock or water. Cook for an hour and a half in a moderate oven. The potato balls are much nicer.

When you have dishes in which liver is used keep in mind that such cheap vegetables as carrots and onions and tomatoes are quite the proper things to serve with them, and for a relish with this meat there is nothing better than thin sharp slices of dill pickles. The more aristocratic sweetbread, on the other hand, calls for cucumbers and a Dixie relish. The simplest and almost the best way of serving these organs is just to parboil them for five minutes in slightly acidulated salted water. Drain, remove the tubes that run through them, split in half and saute in butter, being careful not to overcook them.

Sweetbreads prepared as for sauteing may be used in croquettes for a luncheon dish. Although they are not usually sauted before they are so used, those who prefer them with a slightly crisp exterior will like them better if they are lightly browned in butter before they are used.

Two pairs sweetbreads, ¼ cup mushrooms, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ½ teaspoon parsley, 1 cup milk or thin cream, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 eggs, egg and crumbs for dipping.

Prepare the sweetbreads, separate from all membranes, and mix with the chopped mushrooms. With the cream, butter and flour make a white sauce. Add the sweetbreads and mushrooms and cook for two or three minutes. Add the eggs well beaten and stir well. Pour the mixture out on a shallow dish and let it cool. It is better if it stands several hours. Shape into croquettes, roll in egg and crumbs and fry in deep fat.

The Helen Wills Hat

The last word in hats from Paris is the "Helen Wills" hat! Owing to the popularity of Helen Wills in Europe, the eyeshade worn by the tennis star, while playing, is brought over into a hat named after her. This is a creation of a well-known house of Parisian modistes, which shows that Europe has the "eyeshade complex" as well as the Americans. This photograph shows a model wearing the "Helen Wills" hat.

A VACATION IDEA

One city housewife has solved the vacation question for her own family and that of a friend at a nominal expense.

The friend lives in the country, so these two women got in correspondence, with the result that they are exchanging homes for a month.

The city housewife is keeping house in the country home of her friend and her children are getting the benefit of wholesome country surroundings. When her husband gets his two weeks' vacation he will join his family.

In the meantime he is boarding with the rural folks in his own home and they are thoroughly enjoying life in the city apartment.

So it is working happily for both families and all concerned pronounce it a great scheme because both families are getting a vacation without any of the usual family inconveniences attached to summer vacations.

Men have fewer or more simple ideas from without, according as the objects they converse with afford greater or less variety.—Locke.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

I MIGHT, sometimes, grow faint and weak, so long the road to climb, so far the distant goals I seek, so swiftly winged is time, I might forsake in keen despair the hope of many years, were it not for the rest who share with me in faiths and fears; were it not for the men who went down all the ways I go, who knew each dream and discontent that now are mine to know. But from those other lives a light shines down the dusk of time, its glory puts my fears to flight, sets bells of joy a-chime. Those other lives, what bliss they bring to men in pain and doubt! I, too, must make my life a thing to cast the shadows out!

HOME-MAKING HELPS

"Everything About the House Helps to Make the Home"

By WANDA BARTON

Far Seeing Housekeepers.

HOUSEKEEPERS of a small Ohio town furnished last year 75 cans of vegetables, fruits, meats, sweet pickles, soups, jams and jellies to the local school for the children's hot lunches, also contributing the salary of a woman who cooked the lunches and served them hot.

We city housekeepers grumble and talk a lot about the school luncheon problem and what should be done to right the wrong. How many of us ever get out and see for ourselves what is needed? Our children spend practically five days a week nine months of the year in school. A favored few live near enough to go home for their luncheon. The rest depend upon the home basket luncheon or are given change to buy at local shops.

Our large insurance companies, institutions in other business lines and banks have seen the advantage of serving hot lunches to keep the help in good physical condition. Some serve free, others at a small cost to the employe. Wholesome, good foods are served.

We mothers are the last to become aroused to the need of our children along these lines. In suburban towns frequently the children have long walks to school and it is impossible to come home at noon, so that the cold luncheon is their fate. During the war women worked together and accomplished marvels. Why can they not do so in peace interests, especially when it is for their own children's benefit? The tax should fall lightly if apportioned by a good working committee. A small fee would pay a woman to cook the food, buy ice and milk, and the contributions required, worked out by a good dietitian, would provide simple, wholesome and not expensive foods.

Children are growing and need proper nourishment; they are working mentally, sitting not always comfortably, having their little trials and working out their problems, social and temperamental, and they, far more than grown-ups, need the warm, grateful luncheon that breaks the monotony of their day.

ALL OF US, whether conscious of it or not, are subject to natural but unpleasant perspiration odor. But now there is such a simple, sensible way to end it—a delightful toilet soap—antiseptic—which doesn't hide the odor—it removes the cause.

What a joy on sweltering days, to be able to exercise freely with assurance of lasting daintiness. After your Lifebuoy bath you'll stay as clean smelling as though you hadn't perspired a drop—all day.

A cleanness that safeguards

It isn't just because Lifebuoy kills perspiration odor that it has become the most widely used toilet soap in the world. Millions like it because it's so refreshing, gives such wonderful lather, agrees so well with delicate skin and removes dirt and grime so amazingly.

But more than all, Lifebuoy gently removes germs that spread disease. Think of it—escape from perspiration odor plus the safety of antiseptic cleanness, just by using the most satisfying toilet soap you ever tried.

Lifebuoy is so different from other toilet soaps that even its scent is surprising—it's hygienic. Lifebuoy, even without the antiseptic which imparts this scent, would be wonderful toilet soap, but its reassuring health protection and amazing benefit to skin would be lacking.

Proof that it protects

It's not a perfume, but a scent so convincing of safe, absolute cleanness that before you've finished the first cake you will love it just as millions of other users do. You'll wonder, after Lifebuoy has become a pleasant daily habit, how you were ever satisfied with mere perfumed soaps.

Costs so little

Lifebuoy, valuable as it is, costs no more—probably less than the soap you are now using. Its protection—the all-day daintiness it assures—cost nothing extra—are free.
